ONE WORD FITS GOV. BRICKER: IT'S INTEGRITY

Rises Without Aid of a Political Boss.

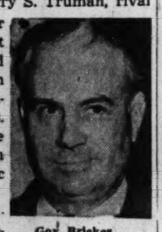
BY CARL WIEGMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—John W. Bricker and Harry S. Truman, rival candidates for Vice President of the United States, both grew to manhood on farms. They have little else in common in their public careers.



Gov. Bricker.

Bricker's career and character have been described as "undramatic." This is true. His administration never has been investigated by a grand jury. None of his friends has served any time in prison. He owes no debt to any political boss. His integrity has not been questioned, even by his enemies.

"Yes, I admit Bricker's record as governor is a good one," said a leading Cleveland Democrat. "But don't use my name on that quote. You understand this is an election year and it is not wise to say anything good about the opposition."

Admit Bricker Record Good.

Another Democrat, whose office desk in Columbus stands beneath a portrait of James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for President in 1920, agreed that Bricker's record is good, but added: "Almost any record would look good after the preceding Democratic administration of Martin L. Davey."

A leading attorney in Akron, also a Democrat, said he believed Bricker would have been a worthy candidate for President.

"I only wish Bricker were the Democratic candidate for Vice President," he remarked, sadly.

Bricker's record as governor of Chio is so good that his political foes usually decline to talk about it. Instead, they use ridicule as a weapon. They charge that Bricker is old fashioned, that he is stubborn, and that he is vain about his commanding figure and silvery hair.

Attack Economy Record.

Bricker's enemies also use the pooh-pooh method of attacking him. They pooh-pooh his claim that he found a 40 million dollar deficit when he was elected governor in 1938 and that he will leave a 92 million dollar surplus when his term empires at the end of this year. They pooh-pooh his speeches whenever he talks about honesty and clean government.

Last winter a national news magazine printed a sketch of Bricker's career, subtly ridiculing his candidacy for the Presidency. Bricker's friends here in Columbus thought it was a splendid article. They couldn't believe that honesty and clean government could be deliberately ridiculed.

"I guess I was too subtle," the author of the article later remarked.

Judging by their voting record of the last 50 years, the people of Ohio show remarkable independence

Gay Homefolk Greet Dewey's Wife, Tom Too

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sapulpa, Okla., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Frances Hutt Dewey, valedictorian of the Sapulpa High school class of 1920, was welcomed home today by four school bands, by the Democratic mayor, and by a public reception in the Creek county courthouse square. Her husband, Gov. Dewey of New York, Republican candidate for President was also welcomed.

Orla Hutt, retired railroad conductor, and his wife sat proudly in the courtyard band stand and heard the virtues of Mrs. Dewey, their daughter, extolled. Mayor O. L. Humes, over a loudspeaker said, "I am giving the keys to the city to Gov. Dewey. Mrs. Dewey already holds the key to our hearts."

Oilmen in Crowd.

A crowd of 3,000 overflowed from the square into the streets. They included men and women in town clothes and others in the garb of the oil fields and the cotton patches. Some held little boys and girls on their shoulders to see the man they promised would be the next President.

Indian boys in overalls perched in the branches of elm trees.

Sapulpa closed its stores, decorated its streets with flags, and declared this a nonpartisan holiday.

Most of the 15,000 population turned out either for the arrival of the special campaign train this morning, for the parade down Dewey av. [named for Adm. Dewey], for the courthouse square ceremony, or for a reception line in the high school.

Dewey Thanks Sapulpa.

Gov. Dewey, called to the microphone by the mayor, thanked Sapulpa for "raising the lady who is my wife." He said she has consented for 16 years to be known as Mrs. Tom Dewey and today he was "honored to be known as Mr. Frances Hutt." He told the people around him that he was "just extra baggage." Mrs. Dewey, pretty and dignified, wearing an orchid smiled and bowed but did not violate her self-imposed rule against public speaking.

For lunch the Deweys retired to the Hutts' five room, white frame cottage where the parents have lived for 30 years.

The Hutts moved here from Mrs. Dewey's birthplace, Sherman, Tex., when she was 11. When she was 19, she went to New York to study music. Later, at the Chicago Musical college, she met a young lawyer, Tom Dewey, who was studying voice.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN GET YOUR DEWEY BUTTON

Are you looking for a Dewey button? Are you one of the many who have called THE TRIBUNE about them?

Dewey buttons are being alloted daily by state and county Republican headquarters in the La Salle hotel to ward committeemen for distribution at G. O. P. headquarters in the various wards.

W. U. Watson, president of the Greenduck Co., which is furnishing five million buttons to Republican national headquarters, said he had been given the allotments for the country and that Illinois is to have 425,000.

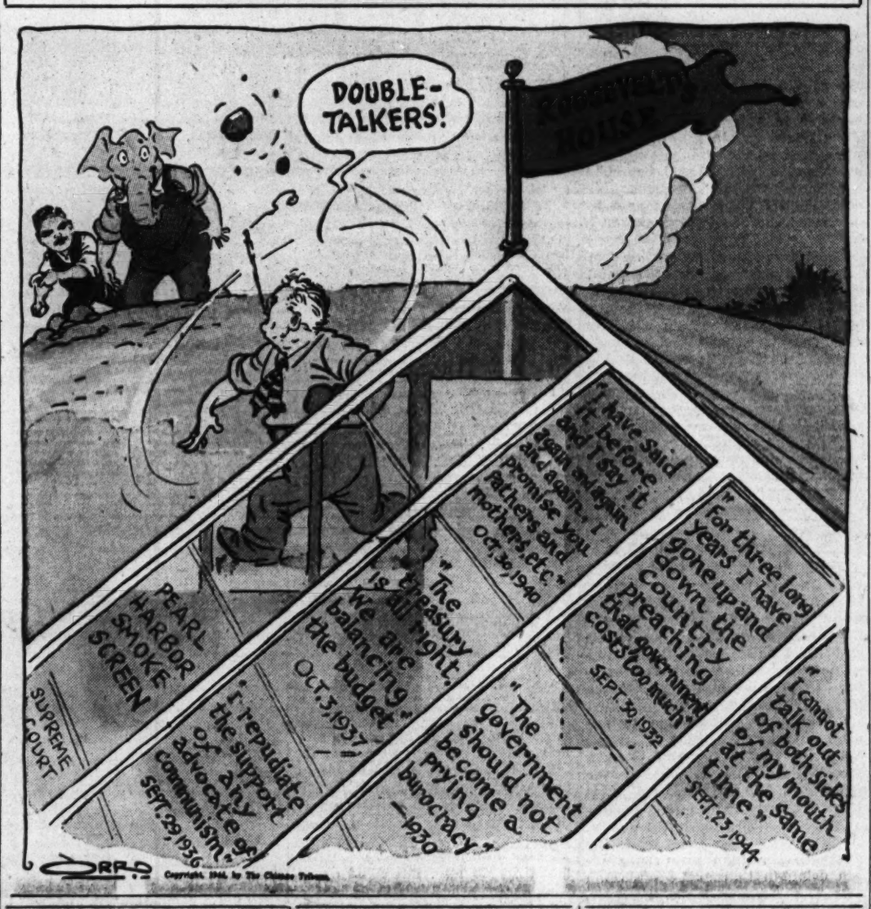
So far the buttons have been delivered at the hotel in lots of 5,000, but more have been promised some time next week and it is expected those who want them may then obtain them thru their ward organizations, precinct captains or other political workers.

THE TRIBUNE'S public service office at Dearborn and Madison sts., this morning will have 2,000 which will be given on request to the first 2,000 comers.

113,641 Are Admitted to U. S. 'Temporarily'

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26 (AP).—Atty. Gen. Biddle said today that because of war conditions one-twentieth of the immigration quota of 153,879 established for countries outside the western hemisphere was used in the last fiscal year. Biddle, in a statement released by the immigration and naturalization service, revealed however, that while 28,551 alien immigrants were admitted for permanent residence, a total of 113,641 were admitted as nonimmigrants, on a temporary basis.

LOOK WHO'S THROWING STONES



Cute Postman Barred; Girls Quit War Jobs

The list of trivial excuses on which war time strikes have been called in Chicago factories lengthened yesterday when production was stopped at the Diamond Tool company, 938 E. 41st st., which services 2,200 war plants. Six girl diamond setters quit work because they were prevented from chatting with a handsome young postman who had made a habit of stopping at the shop windows twice a day.

Sheldon Booth, owner of the company, which has been in business since 1861, said the six girls he employed to set industrial diamonds in precision tools left their jobs when he shut the windows. All had been at the plant about two years. Booth said the shipping department will continue to fill orders until present stocks are gone.

A Friendly Postman.

Booth explained the girls worked in the shop on the street level, and the postman paused for 15 or 20 or 30 minutes on his rounds to step on a low ledge of the building and visit at the window sill with the diamond setters. They worked with oxygen-acetylene torches, setting industrial diamonds into delicate instruments.

Yesterday Booth ordered the windows closed at the bottom, altho they remained open at the top for ventilation.

After giving his order, Booth left his office on the second floor to inspect the shop, and saw the mail carrier climbing thru a window.

Booth phoned the postoffice he would pick up the company mail in one of his own trucks. The girls put out their torches and went home.

"Up to the Government."

"It's up to the government to solve this one," Booth said last night. "It was caused by a government employe. All I know is that his name is Wylie."

A strike at the International Harvester company steel works caused 750 employes to be sent home. It was called by 12 billet checkers in protest against "delay and dilatory tactics" of the WLB in a wage adjustment. In a notice to the management the billet checkers said they had no complaint against the company, but were "sick and tired" of waiting for the WLB. A wage increase for the checkers was agreed to before July 20 by the company and the Progressive Steel Workers union [independent].

Several hundred National Tea store managers, whose week's strike for a union shop had resulted yesterday in spoilage of food valued at $500,000, voted last night to return to work this morning. The action followed certification of the strike to the national war labor board at Washington and the understanding that it would be submitted to a nongovernment arbitrator.

S. C. Lippman, attorney for the managers, assailed a WLB order which forbade the company to deal with the strikers until they had returned to work. He said this made a national issue of a purely local matter. Lippman said the managers resented slanderous statements that they were impeding the war effort and they were returning to spike these rumors. In the arbitration the managers will seek a union shop agreement, then will take up the matters of wages, hours, and working conditions, Lippman said.

A strike called at the Western Felt works, 4115 Ogden av., a war plant, because a foreman was maintained in his job by the company, dwindled to fewer than 100 workers on strike yesterday after the company denounced the charges against the foreman as "unfounded and ridiculous."

Near Peace at Revere.

A strike of 2,500 workers which has paralyzed production at Revere Copper and Brass company plants at 2200 N. Natchez av. and 6630 Fullerton av. since Thursday night, appeared near settlement last night.

The company indicated it would arbitrate the dispute over pouring narrow molds, which brought on the strike. Charles Moser, 29, of 5129 Foster av., a metal pourer, refused to pour the narrow molds, and his layoff by a foreman precipitated the strike.

The company stated Moser's one week at the disputed furnace was completed Saturday, and that he will be placed at his regular furnace when he returns to work.

Double Quota of 'A' Gasoline, Senator Urges

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] today urged that surplus gasoline, which he estimated is being produced at the rate of 70 million gallons weekly, be released to the nation's A card motorists. "No other policy makes any sense," he asserted.

In a letter to Petroleum Administrator Ickes, Price Administrator Chester Bowles, and J. Monroe Johnson, defense transportation director, Reed said gasoline stocks had increased about 9 million barrels, or 378 million gallons, in the last 12 months. He suggested doubling the present A card allotment.

Storage Space Problem.

"Instead of coping with the difficulty of finding storage space for this excess," Reed wrote, "it would seem to me that obviously the proper thing to do would be to allow the rationed civilian population of the United States to have the benefit of whatever excess we may have above military requirements."

Reed's estimate of excess gasoline recalled an estimate made last week by Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, that gasoline stocks have reached pre-war levels. Davies said the total stock as of Sept. 2 was 79,921,000 barrels, compared with 80,377,000 barrels in September, 1941.

Asks Doubled Quota.

Reed charged in his letter that the gasoline supply of A card motorists is so limited as to be "inadequate for almost any purpose." He said that release of the surplus 70 million gallons weekly would not only double the present A rations but also would leave some for other users.

"Certainly," said Reed, "doubling this supply [for A card users] would not be an unreasonable arrangement nor give them enough gasoline to go on a 'gasoline jag.' The surplus supply above the A coupon increase could and should be equitably distributed among other users."

Reed said the total crude oil, natural gasoline, and imports available averages 5,200,000 barrels daily, an increase in the last year of 800,000 barrels daily.

Montana Mallards Learn There's a War Going On

Kalispell, Mont., Sept. 26 (AP).—War is specializing duck hunting. A game department officer reported a discharged sailor was potting mallards with tracer shotgun shells. The sailor explained, said the officer, that the specially made shells were used in skeet shooting to train aerial gunners.

NINE-TENTHS OF ISLAND TAKEN IN TWELVE DAYS

Yanks Trap Enemy in Two Pockets.

ABOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP, Peleliu, Sept. 26 (AP).—American marines drove to the northern point of Peleliu Island today and two spearheads cut off the cave of entrenched Japanese on Umorbrogol mountain. Only a tenth of the island's land area remains in enemy hands after 12 days of fighting.

Pushing north along the western shore, the marines captured a ruined phosphate refining plant across a shallow channel from the fighter strip on Ngesebus Island. This advance secured all roads running along the western side of the island's northern arm.

Drive Across Mountain.

Doughboys of the 81st army division drove westward across Umorbrogol's ridges and established a mile long block across the road skirting the peninsula's eastern cliffs. This gain closed a tight pocket around Nipponese dug into caves behind "bloody nose" mountain overlooking the air field.

Farther north marines captured the coral knob known as Amiangal mountain and threw a second block across the peninsula's eastern road. Surviving remnants of the Japanese garrison, once 10,000 strong, thus were caught in two pockets.

686 Americans Killed.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 26 (AP).—Six hundred and eighty-six Americans have been killed, 406 are missing, and 4,408 have been wounded in the invasion of the Palaus, Adm. Nimitz announced tonight.

First division marines, which opened the campaign Sept. 15 have lost 580 killed, 401 missing, and 3,639 wounded. The 81st army division, which conquered Angaur, sustained 106 dead, five missing, and 763 wounded.

Sink Four Jap Ships.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Sept. 27 [Wednesday] (AP). — Continuing heavy blows at Japanese shipping on the south approaches to the Philippines, allied flyers have sunk four freighters at Halmahera and Borneo.

Headquarters announced today that a 3,000 ton freighter was sunk Monday at Borneo, which recently has been brought within the regular raiding sphere of Gen. MacArthur's New Guinea based planes. Three small freighters were sunk off Halmahera, where MacArthur's invasion forces now stand within 300 miles of the southern Philippines.

Illinoisan Bags Nine Planes.

ABOARD UNITED STATES CARRIER FLAGSHIP OFF PHILIPPINES, Sept. 12 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Albert Seckel, 29, of Peoria, Ill., shot down four Zeros near Cebu Island and destroyed five planes on the air field at Mactan Island.

Fighter Pilot Ensign Lee Price, 22, 1573 Ridge av., Evanston, Ill., made a strafing run on a 250 foot destroyer escort with a three inch gun. He gave it two bursts from 200 to 300 feet. "It was a sitting duck," he said.

LIBERTY SPELLS DEATH TO TOWN ON GOTHIC LINE

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH 5TH ARMY IN GOTHIC LINE, Italy, Sept. 26.—This is the story of what happened to an Italian village whose walls had stood for 300 years before the Germans built their Gothic line around it and American troops blasted their way thru that line.

The town is Firenzuola, once a sleepy market center of 900 inhabitants, just 30 miles north of Florence in the Apennines. The first correspondents to reach it after the Germans left were this writer and Frank Miles of the American Legion.

Meet a Chicagoan.

The first person we saw was an American doughboy who was sitting in the shelter of a wall which apparently once had been part of the village hall. Staring at us curiously, he asked whether we had caught any German shelling on the road into town. When we told him "no," he said he could not understand it and explained that the road we had just traveled was known as the "mad mile," because German artillery usually took a point blank crack at anything that moved along it. We took another road when we returned home.

The soldier was Pvt. Rudolph Varju, 1717 Larrabee st., Chicago. He found interpreters for us so we could talk to a ragged young Italian who had trudged up and stood watching us.

The Italian said the Germans hadn't come to Firenzuola until last May 25, about the time they massed to hold the Gothic line. The town's young men took to the mountains in fear of being forced into labor battalions. Sixty were captured and sent north to labor gangs, but the rest remained in hiding and lived part of the time on roots and grasses.

"Molested Our Women."

"At first the Germans treated the village people with respect, altho they did take all the food," the Italian said. "But in recent weeks they changed. They looted our homes and molested our women. Two young girls were found dead but others got away to the hills where we helped them. Then the shelling began. You can see around you what is left."

Firenzuola had become a no man's land raked by the guns of Americans advancing from the south and of the Germans entrenched on the mountain heights to the north and west. Now, only a dozen or so of its people remained to roam thru the rubble of stone and concrete.

House by house and street by street, the village had been removed from the map. Not one building is intact. Under the rubble are dead oxen, dead sheep, dead Italians, dead Germans.

Lunch Under Shelling.

Later at an army command post north of Firenzuola we lunched with a half dozen officers of a unit which had pushed the Germans out of the village. As we ate we could see shells from American artillery behind us hitting the slopes of Mount Canda less than a mile ahead.

Sometimes, instead of the sharp crack of one of our guns and the shriek of its shell, would come a low whine rising to a high pitched wheeee followed by a dull whump as the Germans tossed one back at us. Half a dozen times they shot at some unfortunate American on the "mad mile."

Among the officers who shared their rations with us were Lt. Col. Richard Chamier, Moberly, Mo.; Maj. George Wadsworth, Sterling, Ill.; Capt. James Herndon, Springfield, Ill.; and Lt. Col. Houston Joyner, Amherst, Va..

All were cheerful, especially Col. Joyner, who had just received a small alarm clock from a friend back home. He explained:

"Since my other clock broke down, I had been missing breakfast, but now everything will be all right again."

BRITISH FIGHT TO HOLD OPEN SUPPLY LANES

Push Column East of Nijmegen.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 27 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The British 2d army sent another column east toward Germany yesterday, pulling up on the Maas river at Boxmeer, 13 miles south of Nijmegen and only three miles from the Dutch-German border.

This new drive came as American air transports landed close behind the front in Holland with men, weapons, and supplies for the beleaguered air borne troops in the Nijmegen-Arnhem sector and bolstered the allied forces for the increasingly vital struggle at the northern gateway to the Rhine.

Open a New Corridor.

At the same time an alternate supply route into the fiercely contested Nijmegen-Arnhem area was opened up thru Grave by British armor striking along the western side of the corridor that leads up from Eindhoven.

There still was no word early today, however, of the fate of the British air borne "Red Devil" division which has clung stubbornly to a little foothold on the north bank of the Neder Rhine [Lek] for nine days and nights.

A German broadcast, unconfirmed by allied sources, asserted that the valiant little band of British sky-troopers finally had been liquidated with the last 600 surrendering yesterday morning.

Clear Road to Nijmegen.

The combination of powerful ground blows by British armor and the reinforcements and supplies landed from transports and gliders eased the critical situation along the narrow corridor stretching up into Holland and headquarters announced that the highway between Veghel and Nijmegen now was cleared of the Germans altho still under artillery fire.

Supreme headquarters clamped a security blackout on the progress of operations along the whole blazing battlefront and the usual 11 p. m. conference for the "briefing" of war correspondents was not held.

Big American freighters of the air, C-47 transports towing gliders loaded with men, weapons, jeeps, and supplies, landed at a forward air field yesterday. An Associated Press correspondent who made the flight in the sky train, said these first landings of supply planes were made in a grassy pasture within sight of the smoke of battle.

Nazis Threw in Many Men.

Another dispatch from the front in Holland said the Germans were throwing thousands of men and all available armor and material into an all-out effort to stem the threat to the Rhine and emphasized that "there is no minimizing the importance of this battle. On it rests the whole success of the campaign."

The Germans forced a powerful wedge into the narrow supply corridor up from Eindhoven for 42 hours, this dispatch said, and succeeded in temporarily isolating the northern spearhead of Lt. Gen. Dempsey's British 2d army by cutting the road between St. Oedenrode and Veghel.

But British armor, supporting the air borne troops, was slowly forcing the Germans back and field commanders said they expected highway convoys to resume traffic some time today.

Situation Called Critical.

Headquarters clamped a security blackout of news over the entire battleground in Holland to keep the Nazis from gaining any useful information of the fluid struggle raging around the gateway to the German industrial Ruhr valley. The British press described the situation of the beleaguered Arnhem force as critical.

[The German DNB broadcast said the last British sky troopers surrendered in an area little more than a quarter mile square west of Arnhem. "The prisoners still were in possession of their arms of all kinds, which fell into German hands. They were over fatigued, exhausted, and starved." The broadcast said efforts to supply the little force by air were frustrated by German anti-aircraft defenses, which it claimed shot down 34 heavy allied transport planes.]

Alternate Supply Route.

Cleaning up the west flank of the tenuous communications link with the northern spearhead of Lt. Gen. Dempsey's army, British armor knocked the Nazis out of Oss, 10 miles west of Grave, and from Heesch, eight miles north of Veghel. These successes provided an alternate supply route to Nijmegen by way of Grave.

In a swift advance northeast of Eindhoven the Tommies drove thru Deurne and Helmond and on 15 miles north of Oploo and Mill, forging a second supply line parallel to the first to Nijmegen.

Other British forces pushed west of Eindhoven to Rousel, nine miles from captured Turnhout. The process of widening the allied supply corridor in this area was described officially as "satisfactory," tho the Nazis still were in Best, six miles northwest of Eindhoven.

Nazi Air Force Appears.

The present strong concentration of British troops in the Nijmegen area was seen by one German radio commentator as "an admission that the enemy has reduced the aim of his air borne thrust"—an apparent implication that the allies had given up hope of turning the northern end of the Siegfried line.

In their determined effort to halt this allied thrust toward Germany the Nazis struck with their reserve of fighter planes. A single flight of 100 Focke-Wulf fighters attacked British forces near Nijmegen, and another 75 swept down on the besieged air borne Tommies at Arnhem. Sixteen of the attacking Nazis at Nijmegen were shot down by R. A. F. Spitfires and Typhoons.

A cold autumn rain swelled the muddy Rhine torrent between the isolated force and its would-be rescuers. The season's first snows whitened the slopes of the Jura mountains near the southern end of the long front along German frontier.

3d Army Wins Some Ground.

Along a front of roughly 250 miles from north of Aachen in Germany to south of Belfort near the Swiss frontier the only signs of life yesterday were desultory artillery duels and minor German counter-attacks. Near Dieuze, 25 miles northeast of Nancy, six German tank and infantry attacks were stopped yesterday, and Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army gained some ground northeast and southeast of Nancy.

The Canadian assault on Calais continued with heavy aerial assistance, and the Nazi garrison was reported to have been driven from high ground dominating the port.

In a continuing onslaught against the enemy's supply routes to the Siegfried line, 1,200 American Fortresses and Liberators poured nearly 3,500 tons of bombs on freight yards at Hamm and Osnabruck and on unspecified targets at Bremen and Mannheim.

American fighters patroling over Holland and Germany shot down 28 German planes and destroyed two on the ground. Ten American bombers and three fighters failed to return. The R. A. F. lost two bombers on the Calais operation.

A severe blow was struck at the Germans service of supply in Holland when a food dump containing 10,000,000 rations, including 8,000 tons of meat, was captured by American and British troops near the little town of Oss, 15 miles southwest of Nijmegen.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Tuesday's German war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin said:

"At our bridgehead in western Holland and in the Antwerp area, several enemy attacks were repelled and one penetration was removed in a counter-attack.

"In central Holland, above all in the Eindhoven area, heavy fighting continues. While enemy attacks southwest of Veghel collapsed, the enemy east and southeast of Helmond was able to advance some kilometers toward the east. An attack launched to relieve the remainder of the British 1st air borne division encircled west of Arnhem was scattered in a counter-attack. The enemy sustained great losses.

"Southeast of Aachen there were only local operations, during which several enemy attacks were beaten back and one American fighting group was encircled. The enemy, who attacked with strong forces on both sides of Luneville, was repulsed.

"Strong units of the [American] 7th army continued major attacks between Epinal and Remiremont. Against stubborn resistance of our troops, the enemy was able to widen somewhat his bridgehead on the Moselle river."

CHICAGO OFFICER RALLIES YANKS, STOPS RETREAT

Lt. Bertman Awarded Star for Feat.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, France, Sept. 26.—A Chicagoan serving as a machine gun platoon commander of the 4th armored division has been awarded the silver star for gallantry in action by order of Maj. Gen. John S. Wood, divisional commander. He is 2d Lt. Floyd M. Bertman, 27, of 1428 Jonquil terrace.

Bertman's infantry platoon was protecting the left flank of one sector when a company on his right was subjected to terrific artillery, mortar, and machine gun fire which caused many casualties. Elements of this company started a withdrawal, which Lt. Bertman feared would undermine the morale of his platoon and lead to a general withdrawal.

So he took a submachine gun, exposed himself to direct fire, and ordered the retreating men to return to their positions. Tho his machine gun was knocked from his hands by shell fragments and his jacket literally torn off his back, Lt. Bertman was unhurt and his bravery resulted in the position being held.

Detroiter Honored.

Other midwesterners honored by order of Gen. Wood include 1st Lt. James Turner, 28, of Detroit, Mich., in charge of two tank platoons. Turner was given the bronze star because his units during a single day's shooting accounted for one troop and ammunition train, three locomotives, and eight wheeled vehicles, and captured a German garrison, taking 65 prisoners. Others are:

Capt. Charles N. Kierscht, 33, Des Moines, Ia., a dental surgeon, given the bronze star for taking care of wounded men while under fire of German 88s.

Staff Sgt. Homer A. Berry, Flint, Mich., bronze star for delivering accurate mortar fire against the enemy after the bipod of his mortar was broken when an enemy shell hit near-by.

Pilots Get Medals.

First Lt. Robert E. Pearson, 12245 Hamilton av., Highland Park, Mich., second oak leaf cluster to his air medal for performing 35 missions over enemy lines in a small plane.

Second Lt. Jerome R. Waters, Corvuso, Minn., a liaison pilot attached to the 4th armored division, second oak leaf cluster for flying as an artillery observer over enemy lines.

First Lt. John M. Maher, Colfax, Ia., second oak leaf cluster for similar service. He also is an artillery observer flying a small, unarmed plane.

Pvt. Frank D. Zickur, Evansville, Minn., bronze star for service as a platoon runner During one mission he was wounded but went on with his message before requesting medical aid.

Corp. Cleo S. Patoon, Taswell, Ind., bronze star for taking such superb care of his tank's engine that it was in first class condition despite more than 430 hours use.

First Lt. John L. King, Mantua, O., a tank officer, silver star for calmness and bravery when his reconnaissance tanks charged into the enemy commanding superior fire power. King so deployed his tanks that his unit later helped rout the enemy and captured more than 1,000.

CHICAGOAN HIJACKS A NAZI TRUCK—AND IT'S FULL OF SHELLS!

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 26.—The trouble with occupied little towns east of the Moselle river entered by Sgt. Frank Suwanski, 908 N. California av., Chicago, and Corp. William Capshaw, Dennison, Tex., was that one of them was too recently occupied. Sniper and artillery fire streamed about the two, and they ran into a house.

From there Suwanski spied a German officer and shot him. Then the men saw an abandoned enemy truck and during an artillery lull crept out and inspected it.

"I wasn't the happiest guy in the world when I saw that truck loaded with ammunition," Suwanski related, "particularly when we realized that, if a shell hit that vehicle, we'd be measured for wings." But they raced the truck back to their command post. It was a 1942 model Diesel job in perfect condition.

HOW PATTON'S ARMOR DUELS GERMAN TANKS

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, France, Sept. 26—The rolling landscape of Alsace-Lorraine around Nancy is considered "good" tank country, according to our experts. But it is doubtful the German high command would concur in this description. They have lost at the very least 250 tanks, including a number of powerful Tigers, under pressure of the 3d army, aided by the 19th tactical air force, for the last two weeks.

There have been no spectacular advances by Lt. Gen. Patton's forces since the Moselle river was reached. But they are contributing a highly important bit toward ultimate victory by the constant whittling down of enemy strength, especially panzer [armored] units unwise enough to engage our armor.

Hills and Highways.

Alsace-Lorraine is dotted with hills ranging from 100 feet or so to more than 500, from which the Germans have fine observation and an excellent field of fire. But it also has a network of paved highways which lead to all important objectives and which are utilized by our armor. These roads are invaluable at this time of the year when heavy rains sometimes effectively prevent use of open fields and make our columns "road bound."

German possession of many high points is offset to a large extent by our great air superiority, which is indispensable to advancing armor both as eyes and a supporting arm.

Patton's armor in Alsace-Lorraine is using tactics similar to those which took it plunging headlong across France. When an objective is chosen two or more tank columns converge on it from several routes, with other forces in reserve. The columns are preceded by mechanized cavalry and reconnaissance units as well as by artillery spotters in tiny Cub planes. Each column also has accompanying fighter-bombers whenever weather permits. Several tanks in each column are in direct communication with fighter-bombers.

Like a Bowling Strike.

These factors, according to Maj. John Davis, Phoenix, Ariz., a tank officer attached to 3d army operations, permit armor to utilize to the fullest extent its speed, fire power, and crushing impact. Davis compares advancing armor with a bowling ball crashing into pins and scattering them ahead of it.

The principal opposition to our armor in Alsace-Lorraine so far has been German armor and German mobile guns. The tanks include the Mark IV., V., and VI.—the latter two commonly known as Panthers and Tigers. The Mark IV. and V. carry 75 millimeter guns, while the Tiger—larger than any tanks we are using in that area—carries an 88. The German tanks, however, seemingly are slower and less mobile than the American light and medium tanks, which carry a 37 and a 75 or 76 mm. guns, respectively.

The Germans also have a habit of using a single roving gun which fires a few shots and then changes position. This sometimes is a Tiger or Panther tank but more commonly used is the 88 gun mounted on a full track chassis.

Fire from Prepared Pit.

The Germans also use the device of running a tank into a prepared pit, firing a few rounds in this dug in position, then changing to a new location.

When advancing American armor meets German opposition there are several methods of combatting it. Supporting artillery and anti-tank weapons usually are called into play as are tank destroyer units, mounting 75 mm. guns. If opposition is light and scattered, these, plus fire from our tanks, usually are sufficient. If it is concentrated and heavy, word is sent out for full air support. So far these methods have been more than enough to destroy and scatter German armor and anti-tank defenses.

In rare cases where German armor is able to break thru our deployed armor, it runs into secondary defenses—dug in infantry support armed with bazookas, 37 to 57 caliber anti-tank guns.

Principal recent armor engagements have been near Luneville, south of Nancy, and Chateau Salins, northeast of Nancy. These tank versus tank battles may be opened as far apart as two miles. In cases where the Germans Tigers are involved, our Shermans depend on superior speed and mobility to outmaneuver and outfight their harder hitting and slower opponents.

Our tankmen also have shown considerable ability to "get on" their target almost immediately. This cuts down ammunition wasted and also permits them very often to knock out German armor before it has the range accurately enough to cripple ours.

The question of whether the continuing bad weather will hopelessly bog down tanks of both sides is an open one. It is certain mud already hampers at times.

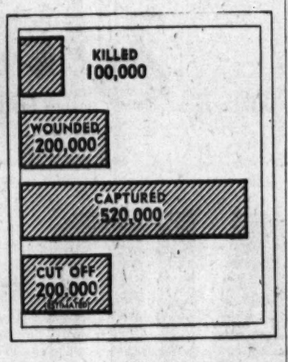
Flyers Destroy Tanks.

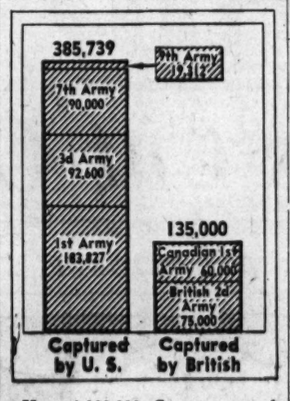
Meanwhile, weather permitting and sometimes regardless of the weather the 19th tactical air force under Brig. Gen. O. P. Weyland, Washington, D. C., is giving the air support tankers dream about.

Daring young airmen under the direction of Texas educated and Texas trained Weyland have destroyed many hundreds of enemy tanks either advancing to battle, or retreating. They also have mopped up in a few minutes enemy anti-tank positions which might have delayed our armored advance for many hours.

Often these things are done by planes in providing direct armored column support — support which pilots with a flair for the language call, "moving hand in hand with tanks."

German Casualties





How 1,000,000 German casualties on the western front since D-day are divided.

SUPREME HDQS., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 26 (AP).—German casualties on the western front—in killed, wounded, and captured or troops hopelessly cut off—were estimated tonight at close to 1,000,000 since D-day. The casualties are well over twice the force of Germans now believed to be lined up along the Siegfried line.

The estimate of casualties included at least 100,000 killed, over 200,000 badly wounded, more than 520,000 captured, and the rest sealed off in the Channel Islands, the last hold-out ports of France and in various pockets along the coast and the Bay of Biscay.

The Germans announced or estimated captured by the allies in France and the Low Countries since June 6 total 520,739. The United States 1st army captured 183,827; the 3d army, 92,600; the 7th army, and its French divisions more than 90,000, and the 9th army, 19,312. The British 2d army was credited with 75,000 captives and the Canadian 1st army, 60,000.

GREEK PATRIOTS WITHIN 3 MILES OF ATHENS: REDS

LONDON, Sept. 27 [Wednesday] —(AP).—Greek patriot forces are only three miles from Athens, said a Moscow radio broadcast heard in London by Reuter. "The Greek patriot army is now 50,000 strong and there are another 50,000 held in reserve," the broadcast said.

Albanians Repulse Nazis.

BARI, Italy, Sept. 26 (AP).—Heavy fighting was reported today in the neighborhood of Sarande, a southern Albanian port, as German troops crossed the Albanian border in their effort to escape from northwestern Greece. Advancing up the Adriatic coast, the Nazis reportedly were thrown back six and one-half miles by Albanian Partisans before they could make a stand.

Other enemy elements, believed to total approximately 7,000 men, were concentrating on the Greek border 25 miles east of Argyrokastron. It was believed that this force is heading northeastward to Lake Ohrid to join Nazi units streaming from Serbia and Macedonia. The fleeing Germans were attacked by allied Balkan air force fighters.

ANOTHER PURGE PRESCRIBED FOR GERMAN ARMY

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Dittmar, German high command radio spokesman, said tonight there still are "hopelessly corrupt personalities" in the German army, especially in its rear forces and administrative branches, and that these "must be annihilated wherever they show themselves."

This statement was contained in the home broadcast version of Dittmar's weekly speech as recorded by the Associated Press. Extremely caustic of the performance of the "etappe" [rear] he accused this personnel of giving way to panic and "being swept as chaff before the wind" by Lt. Gen. Patton's sweeping advance across France.

Robot Bombs Again Strike London and South England

LONDON, Sept. 27 [Wednesday] —(AP).—London had a brief alert early today as buzz bombs zoomed over southern England for the 11th night in a row. An official announcement said: "Early this morning the enemy directed flying bombs against the southern counties, including the London area. Damage and casualties have been reported."

CIVIL UNIT LAYS MAGIC CARPET FOR 1ST ARMY

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Sept. 26.—Civil affairs section of Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army in the opinion of many officers already has paid for itself in the amount of valuable supplies and equipment it has discovered thru civilian contacts. These supplies have been of tremendous importance to the army's advance.

When gasoline was needed, civil affairs uncovered stocks left behind by the retreating Germans, stocks which were quickly tested by a mobile petroleum laboratory to determine how much could be used without hurting American engines. One such cache of 200,000 gallons was found on five barges in the Valenciennes area. This greatly helped a unit on the left flank to speed across France and swing thru Belgium in the drive toward the German border.

Headed by Iowan.

This staff section known as G-5 is heac by Col. Damon Gunn of Buckingham, in Blackhawk county, Iowa. With him are numerous specialists and technical men as well as his administrative teams, which in Germany take over control of the civilian population under their authority as allied military government.

Just the other day a civil affairs officer found 3,500 blankets, 1,600 litters and a large amount of ether at a time when the medical department needed all three items badly. Other officers had just discovered a tunnel containing an abandoned German machine shop, which now is working for an American ordnance section.

In our rapid advance quick repair of French and Belgian railroads is essential to speeding up supplies. While American engineers of a transportation corps are working at top speed on the main lines, Maj. Henry A. Neimeier, Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., and Maj. Paul S. Webb, Boulder City, Nev., have been getting coöperation from the French and Belgian railroad systems. In some cases local railroad men have been able to route trains to the front faster.

Provide Great Help.

In the same way Neimeier and Lt. Col. R. P. Crowell, Washington, D. C., have been of great assistance to the signal corps.

Neimeier, thru civilian contacts, obtained diagrams of French telephone and cable lines and often our fast moving troops tied their own army signal lines into civilian circuits to help maintain communication.

Thruout progress of the 1st army across Europe, Gunn's men had been attempting to help the French and Belgians regain their business and industrial initiative. Sometimes it took more active leadership on the part of the Americans, for the locals had been long under the control of the Germans, who sabotaged industrial leadership just before our arrival by arresting key personnel and shipping them to Germany.

Dairy Output Boosted.

In Normandy Lt. Reuben A. Hall, Clear Lake, Ia., and Red Wing, Minn., specialist in agriculture, reopened 30 per cent of the dairies, increasing their production almost 100 per cent.

Tar roofing paper is most important for civilians in blacking out windows and replacing shattered glass. One civil affairs officer brought pitch from one area and waste paper cartons from another to a plant in Rennes, which could make the paper. This sort of thing has been typical of American ingenuity.

Another officer, Lt. Col. R. O. Barrett, Alexandria, Va., arranged for scores of representatives of American business and industry to send reports to their home offices. The reports were sent to the war department for distribution.

Among American firms which benefited were Socony Vacuum, the Texas company, International Harvester, International Business Machine, Goodrich Rubber, Swift & Co., Babcock & Wilcox, Champion Spark Plug, United Fruit, Crown Cork and Seal, American Rolling Mills, Remington Rand; Libby, McNeil and Libby; General Electric, Western Electric, Eastman Kodak, and Underwood Typewriter.

Parents Concealing Wife, 36, from Yank Elude Court Writ

CORP. GEORGE P. DRAKOS.

Detectives Leo Kelly and Walker Ijams of the East Chicago avenue police yesterday afternoon led reporters, photographers, and other interested spectators to 4048 Sheridan rd. in an attempt to serve disorderly conduct warrants on George and Lena Anton. The Antons, however, the neighbors said, slipped from the building before the pursuers arrived.

The detectives were pressed into service as warrant servers in Women's court where Judge Frank E. Donoghue heeded the plea of Corp. George P. Drakos that the Antons be brought into court to explain why they wouldn't let Drakos see his wife, Ansimo, 36, who is their daughter.

Wife Writes Plea for Help.

Drakos told Judge Donoghue that, except for two occasions, the Antons had kept him from his wife since their honeymoon after they eloped on July 12, 1943 to Fort Smith, Ark.

Corp. Drakos, who is stationed at Camp Chaffee, Ark., said he had been absent from camp on an assignment and while on his way back received a letter in which his wife told of unsuccessful efforts to reach him.

Ansimo wrote she had been prevented by her parents from leaving the house by threats against her life as well as her husband's. Door, phone and mailbox were censored, she said, and she was writing in a closet to let him know she still loved him.

A neighbor, Mrs. George J. Robb, confirmed the letter, saying she had mailed it after Ansimo smuggled it out in a basket of washing.

Judge Voices Sympathy.

Corp. Drakos told Judge Donoghue that after his marriage the Antons went to Arkansas and gave the couple their blessing. Mrs. Drakos went home six weeks later and since then he has seen her only twice—once at Christmas when he was on furlough and once in New York—both times secretly.

The warrant for the parents is returnable today and Town Hall police were scheduled to take over the serving last night. In issuing it, Judge Donoghue said: "Here is a man who should be in his wife's arms and in her company. She loves him. He went to her parents only to have the door slammed in his face."

Mrs. Anton, Drakos said, was formerly in charge of the dining room at the Ambassador West hotel and Ansimo was a waitress there.

Waukegan Flyer Back from Nazi Prison Camp

Mrs. Peter Nielsen, 520 W. Madison st., Waukegan, yesterday learned that her son, Staff Sgt. Robert C. Danielsen, 23, was among the prisoners of war from Germany who landed at Jersey City N. J., on the Swedish exchange ship Gripsholm. Sgt. Danielsen, a flight engineer aboard a bomber, was shot down Aug. 12, 1943, over Germany. A graduate of Waukegan Township High school, Sgt. Danielsen had been in the army since January, 1942.

YANKS THRESH; FRENCH AWAIT WHITE BREAD

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The end of France's bread rationing was in sight today when the ministry of agriculture announced that if the present favorable wheat situation prevails bread tickets will be discontinued within six months. Also promised for the near future was a regular supply of white bread.

This year's wheat crop, altho medium in quality, has suffered little damage from the war and is sufficient for France's principal needs. Shortages in transport and fuel for threshing machines still present serious problems. This situation has been eased, however, in the fertile La Beauce wheat producing country southwest of Paris, where American troops are giving the peasants a helping hand with their threshing.

Hid Large Stocks.

Other factors bringing about a sharp improvement are the relief from the annual German requisition of more than 500,000 tons of wheat and the fact that most wheat producers hid large stocks after last year's harvest, which are available while new crops are being milled.

The outlook is so favorable that already the ministry of agriculture is reorganizing wheat production and distribution according to the pre-1940 plan.

There is good news also for the 70,000 Parisians with electric cooking stoves who for the last two months have been obliged to eat cold meals at noon or cook on improvised charcoal burners. Altho production still is far below the city's needs, the Paris power company promised today to supply one hour of current at noon within the next week.

Electricity will be available for industrial uses at night by the end of next week. Company officials warned consumers, however, there won't be enough electrical power this winter for heating purposes. Inasmuch as coal supplies also promise to be inadequate for a long time to come, Parisians are facing another winter of unheated homes, stores, and offices.

Restaurants Jammed.

Lunching and dining in town remain major problems. Many eating places are still closed, and the others are either overcrowded or demand astronomic prices.

Paris restaurants at present are serving only 300,000 meals daily as compared with the normal 500,000, restaurant men say. This is partly due to a shortage of food but mostly to the coal shortage. Restaurants received no coal in September and so far none has been promised for October.

Another thing that has complicated the situation—altho restaurant keepers are too polite to mention it—is the fact that many American soldiers on leave prefer to eat in Parisian restaurants rather than at their own messes. The soldiers are not supplied with food tickets and, as a result, restaurant keepers haven't a sufficient quantity of coupons when they renew their bread and meat supplies. This, of course, leaves even less food for their French customers.

No greater reward could come to a field commander than to again command you in an operation against another Japanese army, which is now my sincere wish."

Already the regimental commander had presented 131 Purple Hearts for wounds in action. The division commander was to confer the higher awards—27 silver stars, 10 bronze stars, and seven soldiers' medals. T./5 Robert Thompson [route 2], West La Crosse, Wis., received the Purple Heart and the bronze star. T./4 Harold Anderson, 5742 N. Drake av., Chicago, received the bronze star and Pvt. Howard L. IRATE PARENTS IN SCHOOL ROW BACK DEMPSEY

Parents thruout Chicago yesterday continued their protests against Supt. Johnson's order banning all school transfer permits, despite the fact that the order was upheld in a court decision Monday. The opposition was taking the form of a drive to elect John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, on Nov. 7.

Mrs. Frank H. White, leader of the parents' revolt, said she would organize the parents to ring doorbells in every city precinct in behalf of Dempsey, who is opposed by William J. Tuohy, Democrat, and an assistant state's attorney.

Calls Him "Only Hope."

Dempsey, she said, represents the only hope of action against the school board in the coming election. Tuohy is a hand picked Kelly man and therefore cannot be depended on for action against the school board, she added.

The Citizens' Schools committee made new charges against the board and Dempsey promised he would obtain grand jury action, if necessary, to investigate the committee's charges.

One charge was that dummy corporations have been used in making contracts with the board of education. Another was that purchases have been made thru corporations in which board members have had financial interest. A third revived charges of improper financial accounting with regard to textbooks of which Supt. Johnson "is represented" to be an author.

Charge Merit Law Evasions.

The schools committee also charged violations of the merit law in examination and certification of principals, teachers, and other employes of the board.

Parents were preparing to storm a meeting of the board of education at 2 p. m. today at 228 N. La Salle st. Mrs. Walter F. Heineman, board member, said the situation calls for a thoro board discussion and that she believed there would be one.

James B. McCahey, board president, was in his office yesterday.

Political leaders continued to help reinstate children in schools they formerly attended. Henry Sonnenschein, 22d ward Democratic committeeman who ordered issuance of notarized affidavits of name and residence, said 15 had been favorably acted on in the office of Charles E. Lang, district 5 superintendent. Parents who presented the affidavits and gave good reasons for wanting their children to attend their old schools were said to have received permits.

BRITISH RELEASE JAILED MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

Capt. Ramsay Detained for Four Years.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Capt. Archibald Ramsay, Conservative member of parliament who had been detained under defense regulations since May 30, 1940, was freed from Brixton jail of London today a few hours after Home Security Minister Herbert Morrison announced his release in the house of commons.

Capt. Archibald Ramsay.

Morrison said that as a result of the improved military situation he had ordered a clear-out of detainees and that all except 70 of the 223 held on July 31 were released.

Announcement of Ramsay's freedom stirred a bitter protest by commons' lone Communist, Willie Gallacher. Gallacher was ordered by the house speaker to leave the chamber after he called Ramsay an "unspeakable blackguard."

Calls Him Anti-Semite.

Prefacing the remark which brought him a one day suspension, Gallacher inquired of Morrison, "Are you aware this man is a rabid anti-Semite?"

The speaker ruled Gallacher out of order but the Communist proceeded:

"Anti-Semitism is incitement to murder. Are the mothers of this country whose lads are being sacrificed to be informed their sacrifice has enabled the home secretary to release this unspeakable blackguard?"

Gallacher refused to withdraw his remark and quietly walked out when the speaker ordered him to desist. The M. P.'s own son was killed recently in the war.

Linked with Tyler Kent.

"After weighing all considerations in the case of persons not convicted of any criminal offense, I concluded the time had come when it would be legitimate to face any risk there might be that Ramsay may be tempted again to engage in irresponsible and mischievous activities," Morrison said.

Observers recalled that in the house of commons debate in June, John McGovern, an Independent Laborite, linked Ramsay's detention with the arrest of Tyler Kent, American embassy clerk sentenced to seven years in jail on a charge of revealing embassy secrets. McGovern charged that Ramsay was detained "because Kent took copies of letters from a diplomatic bag between the prime minister and the President of the United States."

McGovern added that Churchill "was soliciting military aid in event this country was going to war, and preparations were made and promises given by the President of the United States thru the diplomatic bag."

"I am told," McGovern continued, "that when the present prime minister was the first lord of the admiralty under the late Neville Chamberlain he was still carrying on this campaign behind the back of his prime minister, engaging in an exchange of letters."

May Attend Commons.

The campaign, McGovern said, was designed to learn the strength of American support and whether the United States could be depended upon to come into the war.

"It is said," McGovern went on, "that if Ramsay were released, it would be extremely dangerous and difficult for him to be going around substantiating these things, and therefore that he's being held because the prime minister doesn't want him liberated. I should like to know whether it is personal animosity or the security of any individual in high places that is responsible for keeping him detained."

It was suggested tonight that Ramsay may attend the house of commons session for the opening of the war debate Thursday. He frequently asked questions by mail while detained.

Hess in War Prison Camp Somewhere in England

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—War Secretary James Grigg, replying to a question in the house of commons today, said that Rudolf Hess, second to Hitler in the Nazi party hierachy, was in a British prisoner of war camp altho he could not disclose the location of the camp. "Hess has a wireless set, and is allowed to listen to British and foreign news," Grigg added. "He receives the same diet as his guards."

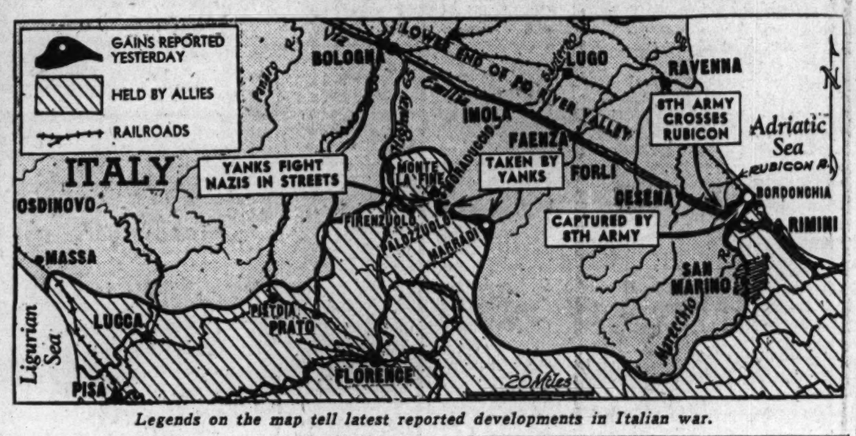
Allied Gains Along the Battle Front in Italy



Legends on the map tell latest reported developments in Italian war.

YANKS SMASH 3 NAZI ATTACKS IN NORTH ITALY

British Cross Rubicon on Adriatic Front.

ROME, Sept. 26 (AP).—American 5th army troops advancing toward Bologna, major enemy communications center in northern Italy, have smashed three heavy German counter-attacks. On the Adriatic front British 8th army forces have crossed the tiny but famous Rubicon against strong enemy resistance, allied headquarters announced today.

The Germans hurled the counter-assaults at the Yanks near Monte la Fine, 21 miles southeast of Bologna.

Three miles southeast of Monte la Fine other 5th army troops were reported battling the Germans in the streets of Moradaccio, 16 miles south of Imola on the Bologna-Rimini highway.

Hopes for "Decisive Victory."

On the Americans' eastern flank British and Indian troops took Palazzuola, eight miles east of Firenzuola, and Marradi, four miles farther east, capturing many prisoners.

The British occupied San Benedetto, 23 miles south of Imola, and drove the enemy from the heights of Monte Scarabatolle and Monte Carnevale.

The forcing of the Rubicon, which Julius Caesar crossed southward in 49 B. C., was hailed by Gen. Wilson, allied Mediterranean commander, with the hope it "will lead, as with a famous commander in the past, to a decisive victory and to the destruction of Marshal Kesselring's army."

In Caesar's time the Rubicon formed the boundary between Italy and Cisalpine Gaul.

Nazi Casualties 25,000.

British troops captured Bordonchio, nearly six miles beyond Rimini, pushing thru the main body of the German 1st parachute division.

Headquarters said Nazi casualties in opposing the 8th army's advance during the past month were estimated at 25,000 men, including 8,709 prisoners.

In the Ligurian coastal area continued moderate advances were made by Brazilian troops of the 5th army and the 92d infantry division and other American elements.

Liberators from Italian fields attacked Greek harbors for the second straight day yesterday, bombing Salamis, Skaramanga, and Piraeus.

Medium bombers struck during the night in Milan, Verona, Genoa, and south of Bologna.

Paris Paper Finds a WAC from 'Half Savage' Texas

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP).—The French still have their strange notions about the United States. An article about the United States army's WACs in the evening Paris newspaper, Defense de la France, referred to Pvt. Mary Jones, who, it said, was from a village of "200 souls" in the "half savage" state of Texas.

Churchill Tells Parliament War Criminals Won't Escape

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP).Prime Minister Churchill promised a sharp crackdown on war criminals, and the house of lords debated treatment of a post-war Germany today as parliament reconvened.

Asked whether neutrals had been propertly warned against harboring war criminals and whether Hitler in particular might escape, Churchill told the house of commons caustically: "It is not our intention to allow the escape of these men to be effected without exerting almost every resource which a civilized country can contemplate."

He added that Spain was not among the neutrals which have promised to refuse war criminals asylum.

Churchill, cheered as he returned to the capital from his Quebec conference with President Roosevelt, projected a joint allied conference to discuss such peace proposals as may grow out of Washington's Dumbarton Oaks conference, but added that no commitments had yet been reached.

Debate German Fate.

In the house of lords a sharp debate was touched off by Vansittart, leading British exponent of a hard peace for Germany, who demanded to know "who is going to occupy what" in a defeated reich, and suggested that a nofraternization order be issued to all allied troops in Germany.

He urged that it be made clear "we entered Germany, not as friends, but as conquerors, bent on reducing the German nation to sufficient spiritual humiliation and military impotence to make it impossible for them to behave in the same way again."

Cranborne, government leader, replied that the British government could not make a unilateral answer without further consultations with other governments, but that the allied aim was "not a slave world," even tho "we cannot hold the German people [as contrasted with the Nazis] entirely guiltless for these continued aggressions."

Speak For Moderation.

Strabolgi, a labor party leader, and the bishop of Chichester differed immediately with Vansittart on the post-war treatment of Germany. Strabolgi asserted it was necessary to live with the Germans somehow and that the peace settlement should not be dictated by passion and emotion.

Referring to photographs of American soldiers in friendly poses with German civilians in occupied villages, he said they should be reproduced by the millions and dropped all over Germany in reply to German propaganda that "we are advacing to murder, rape, and destroy."

The bishop of Chichester argued that distinctions had been drawn by Premier Stalin in 1942 between the Hitlerite state and the German people, and that the British government had endorsed the distinction in 1943. He said he favored destruction of the Nazi state and punishment of war criminals, but that the countries of Europe were so interpendent all of them must be rebuilt.

Cranborne took issue with the bishop of Chichester, declaring he would not say on behalf of the government "that we regard the German people, as opposed to the Nazi movement, in no way responsible for this terrible war."

HOLDUP VICTIM CALLS WOUNDED PAROLEE BANDIT

Photographs of Earl Spencer, 27, paroled convict who sought treatment of bullet wounds in Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday, were identified last night by Dr. Manuel Turek as those of a gunman who tried to rob him Monday night in his office, 4010 Madison st. When Spencer staggered into St. Joseph hospital in Fort Wayne, he said he had been shot at the edge of the town and had walked to the hospital.

Two men participated in the holdup here. One guarded the door while the other forced Dr. Turek to hand over $300. As he did so, a coin fell to the floor. The gunman stopped to pick it up. Dr. Turek grabbed his gun hand and, in the scuffle that followed, the pistol was fired twice. Spencer was found to have two wounds. He was arrested.

When Detectives Charles Fuller and Gene Conway showed Dr. Turek several rogue's gallery pictures, he picked out Spencer's. The prisoner was paroled in 1942 from the southern Illinois penitentiary at Menard, where he was serving a year to life sentence for armed robbery.

DEWEY BUTTON WOMEN WATCH THE CABS GO BY

Because Mrs. Hazel Lee, 2907 Logan blvd., and her daughter, Anita, 18, refused to remove Dewey campaign buttons from their coats, they were unable to hire a cab Monday night, she said yesterday.

Mrs. Lee said she and her daughter stood at Randolph st. and Michigan av. for more than a half hour in an effort to engage a cab. Dozens of persons who arrived after the Lees were ushered into the cabs by a driver who acted as a starter, she said. Finally, Mrs. Lee demanded to know why.

"Lady," she said the starter told her, "hell will freeze over before you get a cab while you're wearing those Dewey buttons."

F. D. R., CHURCHILL PROMISE HOME RULE FOR ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—The White House tonight disclosed steps had been taken by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to give Italy a greater measure of home rule.

Their decision was reached in conference at Mr. Roosevelt's Hyde Park, N. Y., estate following the Quebec conference on post-war problems. A joint statement concerning the plan was released here and in London. It contained an invitation to the Italian government to send representatives to the allied capitals.

Tells of Progress.

"The Italian people, freed of their Fascist and Nazi overlordship, have in the last 12 months demonstrated their will to be free, to fight on the side of the democracies, and to take a place among the united nations devoted to principles of peace and justice," the statement said.

"We believe we should give encouragement to those Italians who are standing for a political rebirth in Italy, and are completing the destruction of the evil Fascist system. We wish to afford the Italians a greater opportunity to aid in the defeat of our common enemies.

"The American and the British people are, of course, horrified by the recent mob action in Rome, but feel that a greater responsibility placed on the Italian people and on their own government will most readily prevent a recurrence of such acts.

Reversion of Control.

"An increasing measure of control will be gradually handed over to the Italian administration, subject, of course, to that administration's proving that it can maintain law and order and the regular administration of justice. To mark this change the allied control commission will be renamed 'the allied commission.'"

Immediate considerations in Italy, it was said, are relief from hunger, sickness, and fear, which necessitated instructions to UNRRA to send medical aids and essential supplies at once.

At the same time, the statement said, steps should be taken toward the reconstruction of Italian economy, laid low under the misrule of Mussolini. Toward this end it was recommended that the trading with the enemy acts be modified with relation to Italy.

"We all wish to speed the day when the last vestiges of fascism in Italy will have been wiped out, and when the last German will have left Italian soil, and when there will be no need of any allied troops to remain—the day when free elections can be held thruout Italy and when Italy can earn her proper place in the great family of free nations," the statement said.

ELECTORAL FEUD FLARES ANEW IN LOUISIANA

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 26 (AP).—Louisiana's Democratic central committee directed its 10 Presidential electors today to pledge support of the party nominees or resign and be replaced.

The committee, by a vote of 77 to 17, ordered its chairman, John Fred Odom, to call another meeting of the committee for "further action" if any of the 10 resigned or had not signed pledges by midnight, Oct. 2.

G. O. P. CONGRESS TO BACK DEWEY URGED BY LYONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Carroll, Ill., Sept. 26.—Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, today stressed the importance of electing Republican senators and representatives to support Thomas E. Dewey, the party's Presidential candidate. To Lyons and his campaign audiences, there was no doubt that Gov. Dewey would sweep Illinois and the nation on Nov. 7.

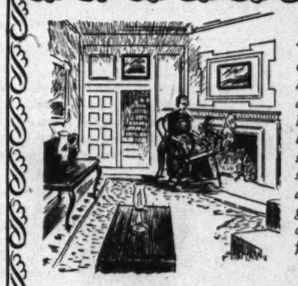
"It is not enough to elect Gov. Dewey President and Gov. Bricker Vice President," Lyons said. "They must have the support of a clear working majority in both the house of representatives and the senate if the provisions of the Mackinac charter and the Republican national platform are to be carried thru."

Lyons' first speech today was in the Rockford plant of the Woodward Governor company.

Then at a luncheon meeting the candidate repeated his pledge to help Dewey restore private enterprise so that business men could provide post-war jobs. His audience there was a group of manufacturers.

Limited Mail Resumed to 11 Areas of France

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday that limited mail service has been resumed to 11 departments in France, including the city of Paris. The postmaster said that mail service is restricted to nonillustrated postcards or a personal character written in English or French.



MARTHA Washington was greatly admired by everyone for the fine simplicity of her character as well as her charm. When she returned to Mount Vernon after her husband's last term as president she wrote, "I am again fairly settled down to the pleasant duties of an old-fashioned Virginia housekeeper, steady as a clock, busy as a bee, and cheerful as a cricket."

THE OLD-FASHIONED Virtues

All honor and admiration are due to the wonders of modern efficiency and scientific progress! But in character, it's the old-fashioned virtues which count for most. And so it is, we believe, in the making of fine candies. Our constant insistence upon the best of everything in the way of choice ingredients, wholesome purity and careful skill are responsible for that proud tradition of quality which belongs to Martha Washington candies. And that superior quality, we promise you, will never change.

BEWARE WEST'S PSEUDO CULTURE, RED ARMY TOLD

Warned Against Lure of 'Sinful Mouths.'

[By cable to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 26.—The impact of western civilization—Romanian style—upon the Red army is the subject of considerable comment here and among Red army men, as additional thousands of men and women soldiers daily move thru Romania, Poland, and Bulgaria in pursuit of the Nazis.

The observations and conclusions reached by Leonard Soboleff, one of the soviet union's best known war correspondents, who is with Russian troops in Bucharest, make some of the most interesting reading to appear in the soviet press.

"These Deceitful Phantoms."

Here is Soboleff's basic conclusion, which also is in the form of a sort of appeal to the Red army forces serving outside the fatherland:

"We shall have to pass thru many foreign countries. A lot of tawdry brilliance will blind your eyes, Red army men. Don't believe these deceitful phantoms of pseudo civilization. Look into the heart of the country, look into the soul of the people. This won't deceive you, this will prove the real culture of the country.

"At the end of the war you will return to your fatherland from the foreign countries where you have engaged in battles. Again the foreign peoples will live their own life. But in every spot where you have been a trace will always remain in the hearts of these people because you carried with you a high culture, the great soul of the Soviet people, who shed their blood for the freedom and happiness of millions of people."

Urges Water Test.

What Soboleff and some anonymous Red army men thought about Romanian womanhood:

"You see pretty, standard-looking women with faces carefully done pale, despite the burning sunshine, with their make-up in the most complicated way and with dark red lips—the fashion seems to prescribe a 'sinful mouth.'

"Two Red army men sitting at a table drinking coffee are exchanging opinions. The first said, 'They look swell.' His companion retorted, 'Put them under a stream of water and only then should you judge. No, my lad, our girls are better. There is no bluff there.'"

LEHMAN PLEADS FORNATIONS' AID IN UNRRA WORK

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 26 (Special).—The success of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration in its $2,000,000,000 task of aiding the liberated areas of Europe and Asia depends upon continued support and coöperation by the 44 participating governments and the allied military authorities and control commissions in occupied territory, according to Director General Herbert H. Lehman in an address at today's closing meeting of the 11 day session of the council.

Lehman told UNRRA's legislative body that UNRRA should not have to be in the position, as he said it has been in the past, of being compelled to "fight" to be able to do its work. The degree of coöperation UNRRA receives, he pointed out, will make a difference of many weeks in the speed with which it can provide $50,000,000 in relief for Italy.

L. B. Pearson, chairman of the session and Canadian minister at Washington, echoed this statement, warning of the dangers of governmental "indifference, doubts, suspicions, and prejudices."

DR. SCHUSCHNIGG REPORTED ALIVE IN NAZI CAMP

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 26.—Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg is still alive but is a political prisoner in the Buchenwalde concentration camp, it was learned here today. The former Austrian chancellor was put there after the Moscow conference when the allies expressed a desire to establish an independent Austria.

After the occupation of Austria by the Nazis March 13, 1938, Dr. Schuschnigg was held prisoner for several months in the notorious "Hotel Metropol," headquarters of the Vienna gestapo.

In autumn, 1938, Schuschnigg was taken to northern Germany. For three years he lived with his wife and her daughter in a village near Berlin.

POLES IDENTIFY WARSAW ARMY HEAD, 'GEN. BOR'

He's Gen. Koworowski of Cavalry.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Gen. Bor, commander in chief of the Polish underground army defending Warsaw against the Nazis, was tonight identified as Lt. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski, a cavalry officer and native of Skalat, near Lwow. The source of the identification is reported to be Bor himself.

Now 46 years old, Bor at the age of 18 in 1916 joined a Polish secret military organization, which prepared an anti-German uprising. After his father's death in 1923, he intended to go back to work on a farm, but the late Gen. Sikorski, then premier, persuaded him to remain in the army.

In 1939 he commanded a cavalry brigade as a colonel. After the collapse of the Polish defense, he became one of the organizers of the underground army.

Set Price on His Head.

The Gestapo did everything possible to capture Bor, setting a price of $1,600,000 on his head and putting 200 secret agents on his trail. Bor was surrounded eight times by the Gestapo, it is said, and once was actually captured, but escaped. The Germans knew Bor's surname but confused him with another Polish officer.

Bor commands 250,000 men still battling desperately against the Nazis in Warsaw.

In the interest of harmony with Russia, which refuses to recognize the Polish government in London, Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski will soon be relieved as commander in chief of the Polish army, it was reported tonight. Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk's cabinet also will be shaken up, it is said.

Churchill Refuses Aid.

President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, facing the alternatives of accepting the cabinet mandate that the general go in the interest of harmony with Russia or of finding a new government, decided reluctantly to sacrifice Sosnkowski, a reliable source said.

Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons today the British government is too far away from Poland to assume responsibility of ordering or supporting a general uprising of the Polish people. He said, however, that Britain has promoted coöperation between the Poles and soviet Russia "despite formidable and practical difficulties."

The prime minister's statement occasioned a few lifted eyebrows among those who recalled the present war started over the Nazi invasion of Poland.

BAND PLAYS AS YANK WOUNDED ARRIVE IN JERSEY ON GRIPSHOLM

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 26 (AP).—The Swedish liner Gripsholm, bringing home 218 sick and wounded American officers and enlisted men who were prisoners in Germany, docked at a Jersey City pier this morning after a voyage from Goteburg, Sweden.

Also aboard were 24 Canadian soldiers, 12 American, Swedish, and Canadian civilians, and eight state department officials.

To the accompaniment of music by a military band, army medical corpsmen, carrying stretchers, marched down to the American Export Lines pier as the liner came in.

Smiling and cheerful, the American soldiers were the first to disembark. Some were carried on stretchers, but most of them walked down the gang plank.

SOLOMONS HERO LOST AT SEA IN ATLANTIC STORM

A hero of the major naval battle off Vella Lavella in the Solomons last Oct. 6, Lt. [j. g.] John Denney Jr., 7153 Euclid av., was lost at sea Sept. 13 when the destroyer Warrington sank in the Atlantic during a hurricane, his mother, Mrs. John Denney was informed by the navy department yesterday.

Lt. John Denney Jr.

In the Solomons battle Lt. Denney was one of the survivors of the destroyer Selfridge aboard which 52 were killed or reported missing and 14 were wounded while fighting nine Jap warships. The ship's crew sank an enemy cruiser and two destroyers.

Lt. Denney was commissioned at Abbott Hall, Northwestern university, in March, 1943. He had been graduated from Loyola academy in 1935 and from University of Notre Dame in 1942. A brother and four sisters also survive.

Danes Hoist Flags on King's 74th Birthday

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 26 (AP).—King Christian of Denmark celebrated his 74th birthday today, and the population hoisted flags and deluged the castle with telegrams. Castle Amalienborg was attacked by the Germans last week in a skirmish with palace guards, and now the guards seal off the square in front of the king's residence.

REDS PUSH NAZIS BACK NEAR RIGA; WIN 500 PLACES

LONDON, Sept. 27 [Wednesday] —(AP).—Yielding more than 500 towns and villages to the Russians, the mauled divisions of the German northern army corps fell back on Riga today.

Red army forces took more than 200 places in their drive to clear the scattered enemy from the west coast of Estonia southwest of Tallinn and pressed on down within 45 miles northeast and 37 miles east of Riga, taking 300 places in Latvia.

Riga, last Baltic capital in enemy hands and a highly valuable naval base for the Red Baltic fleet, already is closely threatened by the Russians six miles to the south. Only a narrow escape corridor westward along the sea remains to the Germans.

Turka, in southern Poland, 12 miles from the border of Czecho-Slovakia was captured.

More Pressure on Hungary.

The German radio said soviet pressure on the Hungarian border from Romania was increasing, with several attempts to cross from the area north of Arad. The Ankara [Turkish] radio said the Russians had crossed the border northwest of Arad and were 15 miles inside Hungary.

The German radio said soviet attacks on the Beskid passes leading from Poland to Czecho-Slovakia were repulsed, but the commander of Czecho-Slovak forces inside the German puppet state of Slovakia reported the Germans had been forced to withdraw forces from the interior to meet the Red army pressure.

The Polish underground forces of Gen. Bor in Warsaw reported a sustained soviet artillery barrage from the right bank of the Vistula, with Poles inside the city acting as spotters.

Red Supplies to Warsaw.

MOSCOW, Sept. 26 (AP).—Russian war planes have flown supplies to Partisans battling the Germans in Warsaw, the soviet sponsored Union of Polish Patriots said today, stating that 282 Red army planes parachuted 300 tons of food and large quantities of cartridges and hand grenades to the besieged Poles on Sept. 13 and 14.

This was the first announcement here that Russia, like the United States and Britain, had sent supplies to the underground army in the capital.

Details of the fighting were told to the union by "Lt. Eva," described as the first messenger out of Warsaw who has arrived in Lublin. She said that when she left Warsaw the Germans were shelling every part, "street after street and house after house," seeking to drive the population away.

The home army and the peoples' army have joined forces, she related.

Await Hungary's Plea.

LONDON, Sept. 27 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Paris radio, quoting Istanbul diplomatic circles, said it was believed today it was "only a question of hours" before Hungary appeals to the allies thru Turkey for an armistice.

CHARGING JAPS MAKE TEN PINS FOR MARAUDERS

But Battle of River Takes Bad Turn for Battalion.

At grips again! Merrill's Marauders begin their second behind-the-lines mission in Burma for Gen. Stilwell and find themselves facing an unexpectedly large force of Japs. Their thrilling story is told by a Chicago sergeant who helped lead them from Ledo, India, to Myitkyina, Burma.

BY S/SGT. WM. J. ANDERSON.
Composite Unit 5307 [Merrill's Marauders], United States Army.

As told to CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

All night long we lay on the east bank of the Inkangahtawng river and listened to the rumble of trucks on the highway beyond as they moved supplies northward to the Japs opposing Lt. Gen. Stilwell and his Chinese forces. Because of the large Jap force between us and the road we had not been able to get thru and block it. The night was quiet, but daylight showed the Jap force had grown to alarming proportions. We set up machine guns and mortars, loaded up, and waited.

Without warning the Japs charged. They came in dense waves, making for B battalion, west of the river, and for the river itself in the hope of reaching us. We opened up with everything we had. The sun was in their faces and they made excellent targets.

How long their fanatical, suicidal charges continued I don't know. The slaughter was equal to that at Walawbum. B battalion alone was credited with killing several hundred.

Attack Ends Suddenly.

As at Walawbum, the attack ended suddenly, and there was a brief lull. Then came a salvo of heavy explosions that sent the echoes rolling in the valley. The Japs had opened up with their heavy 90 mm. mortars and some newly arrived artillery. Their observation was practically perfect and B battalion casualties soared. After a very few minutes they were calling upon us to help evacuate their wounded.

But when our men stepped out into the stream, the Japs spotted them immediately and started throwing in shells. So flat was the trajectory that the projectiles burst among us only an instant after we heard the guns fired.

Shells Scream Over.

Those of us who had waded out into the river advanced at a low crouch with our heads just above the surface. The shells screamed over only a foot or two above our bodies and sent up geysers of sand along the shore we had just left. At the same time, we were exposed to Jap machine gun fire. We were ordered back.

An emergency call was sent to our air force. Within a short time P-51 dive bombers were overhead, arriving in flights of two and four planes. But they couldn't spot the Jap artillery, which ceased firing the instant the planes appeared.

The air force warned us two Jap columns had crossed the Inkangahtawng above and below us and were advancing in an encircling movement.

Our position was untenable and in the early afternoon Col. McGee, with B battalion, gave the order to withdraw. We sent over two platoons to cover the retirement and B recrossed with its wounded. Fifteen of its men had been killed and buried on the west bank. Eight more died during the trip across or immediately afterward and were buried on our side.

Warned by Air Force.

The air force now warned us that a large Japanese force was heading southward from below Walawbum. There was only one thing to do: Head for the hills to the east to avoid being cut off from the other company of C battalion, which was waiting in the vicinity of Nhpum Ga hill and village.

At the end of the second day, after covering about 20 miles, we found a large rice paddy and radioed for the air force to evacuate our wounded who were in a bad way. This was done without incident by Taylor and Piper Cubs and we continued to Nhpum Ga, completing the entire march in five days. Contact with the air force continued good. Our food drops were accomplished regularly.

At Nhpum Ga village we rejoined our other company while B battalion went on a little way and rested. C battalion passed them by the next day and continued eastward, down Nhpum Ga hill. While this was going on we learned that the Japs had begun to infiltrate both north and south of the trail we had followed.

Artillery Brought Up.

Those to the south were diverted reinforcements originally intended for the units opposing Stilwell. The ones drifting down from the north were stragglers from Walawbum.

On about March 21, the southern Japs brought up their artillery and opened fire from the sides of a high hill which provided excellent observation for them. Our camp, near the foot of long Nhpum Ga hill, apparently was out of their vision but their 70 mm. anti-aircraft shells fell with deadly accuracy and appalling havoc into B battalion.

The opening salvos killed 10 men and wounded 15. The most serious cases were carried down the hill in homemade litters and turned over to us. We carried them eastward to a large, firm rice paddy, then called in the air force again. We had nothing but admiration for these sturdy little ships and their plucky pilots.

We dug in around our new air field and waited for B to move down the hill and join us .There was no point in its staying up there like clay pigeons for the Jap guns.

Makings of Disaster.

Unknown to us, however, Col. McGee had received orders to hold the hill 48 hours, until Stilwell's Chinese could relieve him. We waited, because there was no logical place to go. And while we waited and Col. McGee held the hill, there came the makings of a major disaster.

The Japs north and south of us made junction across the hillside trail and blocked it in two places. B battalion was trapped under the Jap guns. We were shut off with a wilderness of hills and jungles behind us. There was no word from A battalion, miles to the west, beyond the Inkangahtawng river.

INDIAN TROOPS CLOSE IN ON JAP BASE OF TIDDIM

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceion, Sept. 26 (AP).—Troops of the 5th Indian division are closing in on Tiddim, Japanese base in northern Burma, and are meeting "no serious opposition," headquarters announced today. Just how close the vanguards were to the city was not announced, but the distance last Saturday was reported to be only seven miles.

Allied aircraft, meanwhile, continued attacks upon Japanese communications, hammering the Monywa railway center on the Irrawaddy river and sweeping on east for attacks on enemy troop concentrations on the road linking Bahmo and Lungling.

New Jap Commander.

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Heitaro Kimura has been appointed commander in chief of Japanese forces in Burma, according to a DNB dispatch from Tokyo. Lt. Gen. Shozo Kawabe was commander in Burma before the ill starred Japanese invasion of India was launched.

Romulo to Join MacArthur as a Brigadier General

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26 (AP).—Col. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine resident commissioner in Washington and a member of Gen. MacArthur's staff was promoted today to the rank of brigadier general. Philippine President Sergio Osmena pinned the stars on Gen. Romulo, who soon is to rejoin MacArthur in Australia.

3 PEACE NEEDS FOR WAR FUND TOLD WORKERS

Even if the war against Germany ends soon, the National War Fund still must furnish means for morale building programs among troops in Europe and for relief services in liberated countries, Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of Chase National Bank of New York and president of the National War Fund, said here yesterday.

He spoke to 1,500 chairmen and other workers of the Community and War Fund business division assembled at their first formal session, a luncheon in Hotel Sherman, where they received instructions for the opening of the drive on Monday.

Many Activities Benefited.

The business division has a quota of $3,930,000 of the $12,980,000 goal assigned the Chicago metropolitan area, which includes Lake, Cook, and Du Page counties. The fund raises money for the United Service organizations, the U. S. O. Camp shows, the United Seaman's service, War Prisoners' aid, and 17 allied organizations. In Chicago, beneficiaries also are 11 overseas refugee agencies of the Jewish Welfare Fund, and welfare agencies of the Community Fund.

Stressing the necessity for the fund this year, Aldrich said: "There are three great undertakings which the National War Fund will have to carry thru even if the war against Germany ends in the near future.

Demobilization Delay Cited.

"First, because we must keep large forces in Europe . . . and, because repatriation of war prisoners is a long and complicated task, the end of fighting . . . will create problems of morale taxing the energies and resources of the three major agencies serving our forces—the U. S. O., the United Seamen's service, and War Prisoners' aid.

"Second, the liberation of occupied countries will present . . . opportunities for private aid and services to supplement the relief programs of UNRRA and the reestablished governments . . . and, third, we shall still be fighting a great and terrible war against Japan. . . ."

Other speakers included Mayor Kelly; Elmer T. Stevens, president of the fund; Clarence B. Randall, drive chairman, and Richard Wagner, chairman of the business division.

Bob Hope, movie comedian, heading a troupe of entertainers, urged support of the War Fund campaign in a talk in the Chicago Arena last night before 6,000 workers. With him were Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, and Vera Vague. Earlier Hope spoke on a radio broadcast from the Eighth Street theater.

NAPOLEON MISSED THE BOAT, —BUT

MISS WALEEN

Had an inventor's attempts to perfect a submarine been successful, Napoleon might not have died in exile on the isle of St. Helena! The wily dictator once plotted a daring escape from the island in an underwater craft designed by Robert Fulton.

Miss Waleen, manager of the Board of Trade Book Shop, says this exciting incident is strictly from history and is one of the high-lights of Vaughn Wilkins' New novel, "Being Met Together" ($2.75). Miss Waleen's customers have placed this fast-moving tale in the "Wow-whatta-book!" class.

A brilliant flash on the non fiction front is "Invasion" ($2.50) by Charles Christian Wertenbaker—the book that was written and published with such incredible speed that it almost scooped the newspapers. The author does a magnificent job of describing the events and personalities involved in the Normandy operations.

If you haven't already picked up a copy of "The Beards' Basic History of the United States," Miss Waleen suggests you do so now, while the 69c editions are still available. This would be a valuable asset to a student's library.

When you're shopping for gifts on that overseas Christmas list, don't forget Miss Waleen has all the "trimmings"—greeting cards, colorful wrapping, ribbons, and seals.

Drop in at the Board of Trade Book Shop real soon and get acquainted with Miss Waleen. You'll find her friendly and anxious to help you. You can depend on the same good service at all these Handy Book & Gift Shops: Palmer House; Daily News Bldg.; Hyde Park (1457 E. Hyde Park), Merchandise Mart; Post Office News (37 W. Monroe); Field Bldg.; Board of Trade.

SUPER FORTS RIP JAP MANCHURIA CITIES 3D TIME

Steel Production Center of Anshan Raided.

A B-29 SUPER FORTRESS BASE IN WEST CHINA, Sept. 26 (AP).—American Super Fortresses bombed industrial installations at Anshan, Manchuria, for the third time by daylight today.

The B-29 squadrons, second in size only to those which made a mass attack on Manchuria Sept. 8, took off early in the morning to "clean up anything overlooked in previous visits to the key city in Japan's Manchurian war production area."

[In Washington, a war department announcement said two other towns, believed to be Ahdan, just south of Anshan, and Dairen, a port city, also were attacked, but details were not yet available. The Tokyo radio said Anshan, Dairen, and other localities were attacked by 70 American planes, that only negligible damage was inflicted, and that two American craft were shot down and four damaged. A later broadcast from Japan said 13 planes were destroyed.]

Steel Plants Attacked.

Primary targets of the raid were steel and chemical plants in the Manchurian manufacturing center. Anshan is the second largest steel producing center in the Japanese empire.

The damage inflicted on basic raw material plants in the area in previous assaults by American bombers is believed to have caused a sharp drop in Anshan's war production, and the bombing today of fabrication and processing facilities is expected to knock out the city as a functioning arsenal for many months.

Interception Fails.

Results of the latest attack will not be released until returning pilots have made their detailed reports. Announcement of opposition offered by the enemy in the air and from the ground also has been delayed.

Some of the returning pilots said Japanese interceptors arose at several points in occupied China while the B-29's were en route to their targets, but failed to interfere with the mission.

CHINESE KILL 60 JAPS IN FLIGHT FROM KEY TOWN

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 26 (AP).—Chinese troops engaged a Japanese column withdrawing from Pingka, a key village in the Salween bend, and killed 60 of the enemy before the arrival of Japanese reënforcements from the east forced a Chinese withdrawal, the Chinese high command said today.

Pingka is 25 miles southeast of the Yunnan province city of Lungling, where the Japanese have been isolated for four months. The rear guard of the enemy leaving Pingka was said to be offering stiff resistance. The main body of the enemy was reported to have reached the Burma road town of Mangshih.

From 300 to 400 Japanese troops withdrew from Lungling on Sept. 24 in the direction of Mangshih, the high command said.

LIFE AS 1 OF 3 CULTIST 'WIVES' TOLD AT TRIAL

Mate Pledges Infant to Marriage.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 26 (AP).—The former polygamous wife of one of 32 defendants accused of conspiring to practice plural marriage testified today that her 3 day old child was promised as the future bride of another of the defendants.

The witness was Mrs. Cathryn Cosgrove of San Diego, Cal., who told a District court jury she was "married" in the rites of the "Fundamentalist" cult to Heber Kimball Cleveland in August, 1941, and lived with him nearly two years.

Her child was born, she said, at Grand Junction, Colo., July 13, 1942. Three days later, she said, "I was told by my husband that when our baby was of marriageable age she was to marry David Darger, who was then living at Grand Junction."

3 Women Live Together.

Cleveland brought two other women to Grand Junction and they all lived together in an auto court, she testified.

The woman was the state's first witness in its efforts to prove that the defendants, all members of the "Fundamentalist" cult, conspired to violate Utah's laws against polygamy and unlawful cohabitation.

The defendants contend that they are following the original doctrine of the Latter-Day Saints [Mormon] church, which advocated polygamy in its early years but outlawed the practice in 1890.

Mrs. Cosgrove said she met Cleveland while she was a nurse at a Salt Lake City hospital. A month later, she said, they discussed plural marriage.

He Proposes Marriage.

"He told me," she testified, "that celestial marriage was for time and eternity, but that the marriage of one man with more than one woman was right in the sight of God."

"The next afternoon," Mrs. Cosgrove went on, "he called me and asked me if I'd like to marry him."

She said she agreed and the two went to the home of Joseph White Musser, another defendant identified as the editor of the cult's magazine, Truth.

Musser performed a marriage ceremony, Mrs. Cosgrove said, and at its conclusion "told me that if Fred [Cleveland] was not good to me he'd take . . . me for himself."

WOMAN, 71, DIES IN HOME.

Mrs. Mary Goranson, 71, of 1436 Hollywood blvd., died in her home early yesterday of a heart attack.

FREED POWER TO PRIME FLOW OF NEWSPRINT

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 26 [Special].—The removal of remaining restrictions on electric power use in Ontario and Quebec is expected to aid the newsprint industry in filling its quota of Canadian newsprint for the general newsprint pool for all newspapers. The Thorold, Ont., mill of THE TRIBUNE, which has a capacity of 165,000 tons a year is expected to benefit materially by the change.

The order, issued Monday in Ottawa by Munitions Minister Howe, affects principally the big Thorold mill of the Ontario Paper Company, Ltd., owned by The Tribune company, which for two years has been operating at 40 per cent of capacity. When the power limitation was originally imposed it was expected to apply to the entire industry. However, it has been gradually relaxed until only Ontario Paper's Thorold mill and a neighboring paper board mill have been materially curtailed in their power use.

Only Limitation.

The restriction on power consumption by newsprint mills was in effect only for the first few months of 1943 in the province of Quebec, where 65 per cent of Canada's newsprint capacity is located. The only limitation on Quebec's output of newsprint for the last year has been that imposed by the shortage of men and materials.

The drastic limitation retained in the Thorold district has been excused by government officials as a necessary war measure. Thorold is situated on the Niagara peninsula where a number of war plants are located. It was to assure a sufficient flow of power into these war plants that the limitation was maintained, officials asserted.

When the restrictions were put into effect it was recalled that there had been violent attacks made earlier upon THE TRIBUNE by certain newspapers and other interests in Canada who objected to THE TRIBUNE's political views. It also was pointed out that the drastic effect on the operations of THE TRIBUNE's subsidiary was not unpleasing to the Roosevelt administration in Washington.

Mill Handicapped.

Ontario Paper officials said today they would put back into operation immediately one of the company's three idle machines. This will bring operations back to 60 per cent of capacity.

The two other idle machines will be put to work when workers who shifted to other industries return and the supply of pulp is sufficient. The mill is handicapped by the fact that the removal of the power restrictions comes near the end of the navigation season.

Increased production of the mill will go into the general newsprint pool on which all newspapers draw for supplies. The additional production will help the newsprint industry fulfill its fourth quarter quota of 200,000 tons monthly.

45,000 Tons a Year.

Capt. Arthur Schmon, president of Ontario Paper, estimated that the Thorold mill will supply additional newsprint at the rate of 45,000 tons a year until next May or June, after which the company expects to raise the additional output to 70,000 or 80,000 tons thru full operations of its five machines.

$2,995 Fur Coat

George Langston with $2,995 sable coat he had when seized after robbery. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

George Langston, 20, Negro, of 5916 Wabash av., was in police custody yesterday following his capture after he and a white man had smashed a display window of the David Adler shop at 169 N. Michigan av., and had stolen a fur coat. The coat, a sable valued at $2,995, was recovered. Langston's companion escaped. The Negro was seized by Emmett Vale, 5809 State st., a cab driver, and Harold Fetters, an employe of the Illinois Central railroad, and turned over to Policemen Thomas Sullivan and Maurice Goldman.

ONE WORD TELLS BRICKER STORY: IT'S INTEGRITY

from party labels when they cast ballots for state offices. Usually they follow the national trend in voting for Presidential candidates, but they frequently upset national landslides to elect governors opposed to the landslide party.

Wins by Big Majorities.

In 1938 the people of Ohio wearied of Gov. Davey's Democratic regime and elected Bricker governor by a margin of 118,225 votes. In 1940 President Roosevelt swept the nation and carried Ohio, but Bricker was reëlected as governor by a margin of 377,338 votes.

He is the first Republican governor ever elected to three successive terms in Ohio. He is the first Republican governor in 40 years to serve more than one term.

"Good housekeeping" is the term used in Ohio to describe Bricker's administration. His friends tell how he dropped more than 2,000 employes from the pay roll a few weeks after he took the oath of office for the first time. The 2,000 were not replaced by Republicans, despite pressure from county chairmen.

State Expenses Reduced.

In his first year as governor, the state's operating expenses [salaries, wages, and maintenance costs] dropped nearly 4 million dollars. Easily padded items took a sharp drop. Traveling expenses came down $400,000. Postage costs dropped $59,000.

At the end of Bricker's first year in office, the state had been placed on a pay-as-you-go basis; 3 million dollars had been paid off on school district debts; state contributions to poor relief had increased a million dollars, and old age pension obligation $1,700,000 greater than those of the previous year had been met.

Columns of similar statistics on Bricker's six years as the head of the state government are available in the election campaign handbooks and in the annual reports of the Ohio director of finance. They make rather dull reading, as compared with accounts of the wholesale vote frauds, boodling and terrorism of the Thomas J. Pendergast political machine in Kansas City, Mo.

But Bricker's supporters are proud of the dull statistics. They ask that his record be compared with the record of Harry Truman in the only administrative job Truman ever held—presiding judge of the Jackson [Mo.] County court, a position that corresponds to chairman of the county board of commissioners in other states. Truman's regime ran the county so deeply into debt that the Missouri legislature passed a budget law, forbidding counties to spend more money than they receive.

[The next article in this series will compare the early careers of Bricker and Truman.]

FIGHTING TALKS OF DEWEY STIR OKLAHOMANS

Record Crowd Cheers Him at Tulsa.

Rebroadcast Dewey

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Gov. Dewey's speech from Oklahoma City will be re-broadcast thruout the nation tomorrow night at 9 p. m. [Chicago time], Republican National Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr., announced tonight. He said it would be carried by the Mutual Broadcasting system. "Response to the address was so great," he asserted, "that we determined to re-broadcast it as a public service to those unable to hear it originally."

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Dewey special train, Sept. 26.—Gov. Dewey this afternoon and tonight continued his slam-bang attack of Monday night against President Roosevelt and the White House clique.

In Tulsa, Okla., before a record breaking railroad station crowd he charged his opponent had pardoned Earl Browder, ex-convict draft dodger of World War I, to campaign for the New Deal.

At Claremore, Okla., birthplace of Will Rogers, Dewey promised to rid Washington, D. C., of the "smart alecks" headed by Harry Hopkins and the "hoodlums from the political machines of Chicago, Jersey City, and Kansas City." He referred to the Kelly, the Hague and the Pendergast machines in that order.

Hits Popular Note.

Dewey, approaching the end of a 6,700 mile campaign tour, has struck a stride which stirs the public. He said the Tulsa crowds, which were inspired by his Oklahoma City talk, was the largest station gathering of his five years stumping experience. His secretary, Paul Lockwood said he was flooded with thousands of congratulatory telegrams, an all-time high for Dewey.

A crowd of 15,000 at the Tulsa station, which broke police cordons and cheered and whistled, demonstrated they wanted to hear the "turn the rascals out" theme. The candidate responded to the wishes of the crowd. He poured brimstone on the New Deal. He said the election must "restore integrity to the White House."

Promises a Cleanup.

"We'll get rid of the whole crew to whom my opponent is indispensable," said Dewey. "We could start, of course, with Harold Ickes and Secretary Perkins."

The crowd whooped. "Then," he continued, "we could go thru with the elegant collections of loafers contributed to the government by Boss Kelly of Chicago and by your neighboring Pendergast machine in Kansas City, and those destroyers of civil liberties on the federal pay rolls from Jersey City."

There were more shouts of approval.

"Then," he continued, "we could get rid of Sidney Hillman and his political action committee and finally—or perhaps first—we can clean out those whose politics and philosophy are with the gentleman whom my opponent had to pardon from prison so he could campaign for him, the Communist, Earl Browder."

After conferences with Oklahoma leaders, Dewey boarded his campaign train later this evening for Albany, N. Y.

Seen as "Victory Stride."

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], visiting in New York, said today that Gov. Dewey in his speech at Oklahoma City "swung into his victory stride last night. The 'indispensable man' met his match."

Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, said Republican leaders and Democrats for Dewey had told the Republican Presidential nominee that his speech last night "had definitely turned the state of Oklahoma to the Republican column."

Sen. Taft [R., O.]:

"The President chose to open his campaign, not by fair discussion of the great issues of a tragic time of war, but by a bitter attack on his opponents and an unscrupulous misrepresentation of their positions.

"He left himself wide open and Gov. Dewey riddled his arguments. It is a great satisfaction to have a candidate able and willing to fight in the open against false claims. The first round is over and Dewey is the victor."

Katina Paxinou with her great Dane, Tommy, in the Dearborn station yesterday.

Frank Sinatra, who passed thru Chicago yesterday en route to New York, lost his bow tie and almost his shirt to his fans. To avoid just such a catastrophe, he left the Santa Fe Chief at 14th st. and took a Clark st. car, where surprised passengers recognized but did not maul him.

The lad the bobby socks swoon for went to Henrici's, but his public, evidently knowing his habits and disappointed at the station, was there to greet him. Sinatra tried to leave by the back way, but a truck driver obligingly blocked the alley, detaining the Sinatra taxi and giving the Sinatra fans time to tear off the famous bow tie and rip the Sinatra shirt.

Another arrival on the Chief yesterday was Katina Paxinou, academy award winner for her performance in "For Whom the Bell Tolls," en route to New York to appear in the stage show.

HILLMAN'S KLAN CANDIDATE WILL REMAIN IN RACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26 [Special].—Hal Styles, the ex-kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan in Jamaica, N. Y., who last May won the Democratic nomination for congress in the 15th California district with the backing of Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee, asserted in a radio talk today that he will remain in the race despite the exposure of his Klan activities.

Styles, who is proprietor of a radio program known as "Help Thy Neighbor," told his invisible audience that he had copyrighted his address so that no part of it could be published in the press, which he accused of persecuting him.

This was Styles' first public utterance since he admitted in a radio talk last week that he had once been a member of the Klan, as charged in local newspaper articles. He attempted to explain it by saying he had joined as "a sort of spy."

"Forgot His Knitting."

The Hollywood Democratic club and other local Democrats, who were thrown into confusion by the unmasking of their candidate as an ex-Klansman, were reported today to be conducting an inquiry on an asserted explanation by Styles that he wrote an article for a now defunct New York newspaper exposing the Klan.

Styles likened himself in his address to a "persecuted prophet." He described himself as "a God fearing radio man" who had temporarily "forgotten his knitting" and strayed into the field of politics.

Replying to charges that he has changed his name from Harry J. to Hal since coming to Los Angeles in 1932, he said his name actually is "Heinrich," and this can be translated as Harold or Hal.

Controversy Spreads.

The political hot water into which Styles was dunked by the exposure of his Klan affiliation spilled into the adjoining 14th congressional district today when Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic nominee for congress in that district, was challenged to state whether she still is supporting Styles.

Mrs. Douglas, wife of a screen actor, Melvyn Douglas, whose real name is Melvyn Hesselberg, made no immediate reply to the challenge, which came from William D. Campbell, former special assistant to the United States attorney general, her opponent in the congressional race.

Douglas, a friend of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, became a congressional storm center in 1942 when he was appointed head of the volunteer talents division of the office of civilian defense. He joined the army Dec. 6, 1942, as a private and rose to a captaincy in seven months.

Campbell said in an open letter to the press, "I think the voters of my district are entitled to an answer to this question, since Mrs. Douglas does not live in the 14th district, but in the 15th, where she has been active in sponsoring the candidacy of Mr. Styles."

CAFE ROBBED OF CIGARETS.

Thirty cartons of cigarets, valued at $45, were stolen by burglars from a restaurant operated by Wayne Bowman at 4353 Elston av., he reported to police yesterday.

NEW DEAL PARALYZED DOWNSTATE, CROWD IS TOLD BY LUEDER

Defeatism has so paralyzed downstate Democratic organizations that in 40 counties Republican candidates are unopposed and New Deal leaders are striving desperately to keep the true condition hidden from Cook county workers, State Auditor Lueder told a large audience at Highland Park yesterday.

Lueder is a member of the Republican caravan that includes Lt. Gov. Cross and Atty. Gen. Barrett, all candidates for reëlection. In his first campaign talk to north shore voters Lueders declared that "nowhere in this nation does the prospect of success for another New Deal victory look as black as it does in downstate Illinois.

"The tidal wave of defeatism is sweeping north and before long its devastating effects will be felt in Cook county, the last bulwark of New Dealism in this state," Lueder added.

NEW DEAL LACKS FAITH IN PEOPLE, GREEN DECLARES

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 26 [Special].—Community life, the basis of our national progress, depends upon freedom of opportunity and enterprise which the New Deal in Washington has been trying to destroy, Gov. Green said tonight in a broadcast round table conference at the executive mansion.

"The New Deal and its innumerable bureaus have no faith in the initiative and courage of the American people," the governor said. Tonight's conference was the fourth in a series of weekly meetings among Gov. Green and representative citizens of the state.

Taking part in the conference were Joseph Oester of Mendota, farm implement dealer; C. M. Nicholson, Decatur, insurance broker; J. B. Thiele, Ramsey merchant; Joseph Kula, Chicago, and Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, Chicago, former state Legion auxiliary president.

G. O. P. Candidate Quits Arizona Governor Race

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 26 [Special.]—Jerrie W. Lee, Republican nominee for governor, today announced his withdrawal from the race because of "unforeseen business conditions." He is an accountant. Gov. Sidney P. Osborn, the Democratic candidate, is seeking reëlection to a third term. Republican leaders will confer soon to determine if they will sponsor a write-in candidate to oppose Osborn.

SUPREME COURT RULINGS HELD BOON TO GUNMEN

Gun toting cases in Chicago have risen from five or six a month to five or six a day recently, but Municipal courts, before which offenders are arraigned, can do nothing about it, Judges Jay A. Schiller and Charles S. Dougherty said yesterday.

Judge Dougherty, a former assistant state's attorney and an expert on criminal law, said that under the Illinois Supreme court's interpretation of existing state laws the judges are compelled to discharge those brought in for carrying concealed weapons in all except a few cases.

16 Defendants Set Free.

Judge Schiller, for 14 years on the bench and now sitting in the Rackets court, where such defendants are brought to trial, said he had 11 gun toting cases on Monday and five yesterday.

"I was compelled under the law to discharge every one of the defendants," Judge Schiller said. "The attorneys contended that the defendants were illegally seized by the police and searched. On questioning, the police have to admit that is in most cases a fact. Many of those arrested are known hoodlums, or criminals with records. But that makes no difference. Under the law as now interpreted by the state Supreme court we must turn them loose."

New York Law Studied.

The two judges said they will initiate a discussion of the problem at a general meeting of their court colleagues in Chief Justice Scheffler's office at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Judge Schiller disclosed that the chief justice, alarmed at the recent rise in gun carrying cases, is looking into the Sullivan law in force in New York.

This law carries an automatic penalty of five years for any person previously convicted for a felony, if caught carrying a pistol.

Judge Dougherty explained that some Supreme court justices follow the federal rule that evidence seized without legal search and seizure is illegal, extending this rule even into search of suspected gun toters and seizure of their weapons.

Gov. Green Will Speak for G.O.P. in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26 (AP).—Gov. Green of Illinois will deliver a Dewey-Bricker campaign speech here Oct. 13, Republican City Chairman David W. Harris announced today. Gov. Warren of California has canceled an address scheduled for Oct. 5 because of duties.

EVER SIP A $2,000,000 OLD FASHIONED?

● Here's the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so delicious!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND
THEN DO THIS!

Place ½ level teaspoon of granulated sugar in Old Fashioned glass! Add 2 or 3 dashes of Angostura bitters, and just enough water to dissolve the sugar!

Muddle thoroughly. Add ice cubes, and 1½ oz. of smooth, delicious Fleischmann's BOND! Then stir!

Twist a strip of lemon peel over top and drop rind in drink! Garnish to suit with Maraschino cherry, a slice of orange, or a strip of pineapple!

"LET'S GO TO THE Community House"

IN that friendly-looking, white, colonial building, on odd Thursdays, the Civic Association meets at lunch. And almost any day you'll find the comfortable meeting room taken over by some other business or social group. The game rooms in the basement now house the local U.S.O. where many a returning boy finds a hearty welcome.

Townspeople value their House at far more than its dollars and cents cost. They say you can't estimate the worth of the donated labor that went into it—or of the vigorous planning and action of community-minded citizens.

They are exactly the kind of public-spirited people in the towns and smaller cities of America for whom PATHFINDER Magazine is written and edited. They recognize in this 50-year old news weekly the same independence of thought and action that motivates them. They agree with its progressive views.

PATHFINDER—printed and illustrated better than ever—edited more keenly—maintains its firm hold on the loyalties of men and women readers. It will grow apace with the lifting of paper restrictions. More and more, PATHFINDER is being used by national advertisers to reach the important market of "Main Street U.S.A." where so large a proportion of the national income is spent.

F. D. R.'S BROKEN PROMISES TOLD BY SEN. BROOKS

G. O. P. Victory Is Called Only Remedy.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Sen. Brooks last night followed up Tom Dewey's attack upon President Roosevelt with an impromptu speech in which he called attention to the fourth term candidate's broken pledges.

Brooks, who appeared without advance notice at the 44th ward G. O. P. meeting held at 2313 Lincoln av., said that Roosevelt's speech of Saturday night left the G. O. P. no recourse but to slug it out with the New Dealers from here on.

"The President waited until congress had adjourned and then delivered a tirade against the Republican party," Sen. Brooks declared. "In his Saturday night talk Mr. Roosevelt repudiated his own announcement that he would not campaign in the usual partisan sense.

Answers with Facts.

"But on Monday night Tom Dewey took off his gloves. In fair, sportsmanlike manner, in the best American tradition, he let the other fellow do the name calling. Then he replied with hard hitting facts."

Brooks began his recitation of Roosevelt's official utterances with a quotation from the President's address on Sept. 23: "Words come easily, but they do not change the record." No one should pass up this invitation to examine the record of the New Deal administration's deeds as contrasted with the words of its leader, Brooks added.

Brooks recalled the President's 1932 comparison of government with a family, which if it continually spends more than its income, will wind up in the poorhouse.

"American families which long have practiced thrift were driven to even sharper realization of the truth of this axiom by what Roosevelt did to them," Brooks said. "In 1932 the per capita federal debt was $156, or a little over $600 a family. Now this same family owes $10,000!"

Cites Skyrocketing Debts.

Citing Roosevelt's promises of a balanced budget, of reduced spending, of sound financing, Brooks pointed to the trebling of a national debt of 20 billions during the New Deal's first seven years, and its present skyrocketing toward 300 billions.

"This is the background for Mr. Roosevelt's reckless use of the name of Goebbels in leveling accusations of deception against the Republican party," Brooks said. "It must be the background. There is no other."

Brooks took up the topic of American intervention in the war and repeated Roosevelt's 1940 preelection pledge to fathers and mothers, "again, and again, and again," that their sons would not be sent to fight in foreign wars.

He quoted Roosevelt's other assurances that he not only believed this country would stay out of war, but that "every effort of your government will be directed toward that end."

Millions Now Fighting.

"And now millions of our finest young men are fighting on every continent, on the seven seas, and in the skies above," Brooks said. "Yes, more millions are fighting under our flag far from their homes than ever fought in the history of any nation of the world."

Even in his record of harassing business by word as well as deed Mr. Roosevelt carelessly lets the record trip him, Brooks said, quoting the President's remark in Cleveland in 1936 [before the election that year]:

"'I repeat here that the record shows that no administration in the history of the United States has done so much to encourage the business of the nation.'"

Businessmen are crying for guides to help them thru the jungles of Washington red tape, and can look only to the end of the New Deal to open up the path of free enterprise and American progress, Brooks said.

GOV. GREEN'S REGIME HAILED BY SENATOR FOR HELP TO AGED

An increase of 40 per cent in the average grant to persons on the Illinois old age assistance rolls was cited yesterday in letters to Republican precinct committeemen by State Sen. T. Mac Downing [R., Macomb], a sponsor of legislation that unified control of several agencies in the Illinois public aid commission.

A state-wide review of old age assistance rolls to eliminate undeserving cases was completed in July. One result of this review was to help make possible larger grants to those who remain on the rolls, Sen. Downing said.

When Gov. Green took office in January, 1941, the aged were receiving an average grant of $22.05 a month. In August of this year they were getting an average of $31.05 a month, an increase of 40 per cent. Since the I. P. A. C. took over the administration a year ago the average has increased from $28.58 to $31.05.

The average for the United States is $27.55. Indiana's average is $18.11, Iowa's is $28.40; Michigan's is $29.15; Wisconsin's, $27.45, and Missouri's, $22.04.

LOOT CAR OF BONDS, LUGGAGE.

Alfred Primock, 701 N. Michigan av., reported to police the theft of luggage and war bonds valued at $1,500 from his auto which was parked at Washington st. and Wabash av.

$50,000 Fire at Brick Company

Burns Three Hours

Fire that originated in a coal hopper on the second floor of the engine room of the National Brick company on County Line road in Deerfield yesterday caused damage estimated at $50,000. Firemen from Deerfield, Highland Park, Fort Sheridan, Glenview, United States Naval Air station at Glenview, and Northbrook fought the blaze for three hours and prevented its spread to five other buildings. Harry Wehrheim, treasurer of the company, said the loss is not covered by insurance.

★ Eric Johnston visits Stalin at Moscow SOVFOTO

ERIC JOHNSTON TELLS OF HIS INTIMATE PERSONAL TALK WITH STALIN. On his recent trip to Russia, Eric Johnston, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, enjoyed the unique privilege of a frank three-hour interview with Stalin in the Kremlin. In his article "My Talk with Joseph Stalin" in the October Reader's Digest, Johnston says: "I believe it advisable to break precedent and report the highlights of this conference." Don't miss this revealing story of Eric Johnston's dramatic visit with the Russian leader.

LEADERS OF 300 UNIONS PLEDGE COURTNEY AID

Endorsement of State's Atty. Courtney, Democratic nominee for governor, by officials of more than 300 Illinois labor unions in all parts of the state was claimed yesterday by William A. Lee, chairman of the Illinois AFL committee for Roosevelt and Truman.

The endorsement, Lee reported, was based on Courtney's record as state senator and state's attorney for Cook county, and on his labor pledges in the present campaign.

The Cook county Democratic campaign officially opens tomorrow night when, in accordance with party custom started by Mayor Cermak, candidates will attend a rally in the 22d ward at Masonic hall, 23d st. and Millard av.

Henry Sonnenschein, candidate for reëlection as clerk of Superior court and committeeman of the ward, will be chairman. Mayor Kelly and other leaders will speak.

The Cicero Democratic organization will hold a mass meeting at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Sokol hall, 5708 Cermak rd. Municipal Judges John Gutknecht and Cecil C. Smith and Appellate Court Clerk Sheldon W. Govier, all candidates for reelection, addressed a 6th ward meeting last night.

DEC. 7 WARNING BARED BY NAVY GROUP LEADER

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27 [Wednesday] (AP).—Rep. George J. Bates [R., Mass.] today was quoted in the Boston Herald as declaring that "military leaders and others high in authority in Washington were notified several hours beforehand of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor."

The veteran member of the house naval affairs committee attributed "the disaster to official blundering in Washington" and said "current investigations by the war and navy departments had thus far uncovered no evidence to justify the court-martialing of Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel, army and navy commanders at Hawaii."

Bates was quoted as saying further that "altho the warning of the impending attack came thru several hours before it occurred, official Washington did not decide to do anything until one hour before the Jap planes appeared."

Kennamer, Freed Killer, Dies in Action Overseas

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 26 (AP).—Phil Kennamer, 28, Tulsa's "society gang" slayer of Thanksgiving day, 1934, has been killed in action as a paratrooper with the United States army in France, his father, Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, was notified by the war department today. Kennamer was paroled April 21, 1943, from a 25 year manslaughter sentence for the shooting of John F. Gorrell, socially prominent Tulsa youth.

Lt. Col Julius Klein Head of Port in New Caledonia

Lt. Col. Julius Klein of Chicago, who went overseas 15 months ago as commander of a quartermaster truck battalion, has been appointed commander of an army port in New Caledonia. Col. Klein formerly was a member of the Illinois 33d division.

TRUCK UPSET SPILLS MEAT.

James McGuire, 44, of 6248 S. Laflin st., was shaken up last night when he lost control of his trailer-truck at Ashland av. and 28th st., drove over a curb, and struck a pole. The trailer overturned, spilling part of 5½ tons of dressed lamb. McGuire is employed by Swift & Co.

CHICAGO FAMILY HEARS 2D SON IS KILLED IN ACTION

Last July, Mr. and Mrs. William Prahm, 534 W. 63d st., were advised by the war department that their son, Le Roy Prahm, 21, a paratrooper, had been killed in action in France June 12. This week they were notified that another son, Clifford Prahm, 23, an infantryman, was killed in action in France Aug. 25. Both boys attended Englewood High school. Clifford entered the army in September, 1942, and his brother in November, 1942. Two sisters, Beulah and Dolores, also survive.

The war department yesterday notified Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Young, 56 E. Oak st., that their son, Sgt. William H. Young, 28, was killed in action in Italy on Sept. 12. Sgt. Young enlisted Jan. 9, 1942, leaving Northwestern university medical school. He fought both in North Africa and Italy with the 755th tank battalion of the 5th army, attached to the French. Last Jan. 28 Sgt. Young received the bronze star from Lt. Gen. Mark Clark. Also surviving is a brother, Sgt. Graham Clark, stationed in New Haven, Conn.

Sgt. W. H. Young.

F. D. R. IS QUOTED BY LEO CARR AS BOOST FOR G. O. P.

Leo Carr, Republican nominee for sheriff, took a paragraph from President Roosevelt's speech folio last night. Speaking at 213 Lincoln av., in the 44th ward, Carr quoted from a Roosevelt radio chat of Nov. 4, 1938:

"Judge parties and candidates not merely by the promises they make, but by the kind of people they travel with; by the people who finance and promote their campaigns. By their promoters ye shall know them."

"That," said Carr, "is an unmistakable indorsement of the entire Republican ticket, from Gov. Dewey on down. Take the Kelly administration for example. It is financed by hoodlums. It will be my duty as sheriff to put these hoodlums in jail. You may be sure I will do it."

"We'll gladly examine your hair and scalp and tell you its exact condition—and without charge for one very good reason. Because there may be nothing wrong with your scalp, or there may be so much wrong with it that we just can't help you at all. But if you have the usual local hair and scalp conditions such as excessive oiliness, dryness or itchiness that cause as much as 85% of all baldness then, undoubtedly, we can help you.

Our examinations are always without charge to give you a chance to learn the truth about your hair and scalp and to let you decide if you want treatment.

WHEELER FLAYS SECRET GLOBAL POLICE PLEDGES

Implores Nation to Fight Undercover Pacts.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] implored the nation in a radio address tonight to resist any secret agreement that would pledge the United States to an international organization for policing the world.

He warned against joining a world organization to preserve the terms of a peace treaty until those terms are known and the territorial intentions of Russia and Great Britain are disclosed.

Attacking the proposals made at the secret Dumbarton Oaks postwar security conference, without mentioning the conference by name, Wheeler said they would empower the President's representative to commit this country to war without the approval of congress or the American people.

Proposes European Union.

The senate veteran proposed a federation of European states—a United States of Europe—as a practicable establishment for maintaining peace in Europe without future involvement of the United States.

Wheeler ridiculed those who utter "pontifical talk" about world affairs as if world affairs were "above the heads of ordinary Americans."

"If you dream along with our global planners," he said, "you will have visions of peoples all over the world sitting by their firesides or under their coconut palms, or in their sod huts, discussing the beauties of world organizations, world courts, or world armies. This is all very inspiring, but travel the world over and you will find nothing to justify this picture."

Assails Secret Diplomacy.

Charging that "secret diplomacy is in the saddle," Wheeler said people wonder why their leaders are "afraid to trust them with the global facts of life." If Americans are intelligent enough to win the war, he said, they are intelligent enough to discuss the peace.

"Today," Wheeler said, "we are being told we must agree to a world organization before we know the commitments of our government or the terms of peace. Proponents of this idea are afraid that if and when the people know the full details of our commitments they will be so disillusioned that they will want no part of these global schemes."

What Are Peace Terms?

On the hush-hush question of relations with Russia and Great Britain, Wheeler told his radio audience:

"Before we commit ourselves to join any world organization to preserve the status quo of a peace treaty, we should know the terms of that treaty.

"We should know whether or not Russia or England or any other of our allies intends to seize territories of countries now recognized by the United States."

Saying that Germany and Japan will be rendered impotent, Wheeler added:

"This being so, there remain three nations that could possibly start a world war. [He identified them later as Great Britain, Russia, and the United States.]

Questions League Purpose.

"Is, then, this world organization, which would be controled by these three leading powers, being formed to dictate to the smaller countries what they can and cannot do? Or is it, as has been suggested, for the purpose of preventing them from going to war with each other?

"But how will it prevent wars among the big three, or by any one of the big three against another power? No nation strong enough to resist is going to acquiesce in disciplinary measures against itself."

Wheeler scoffed at the suggestion that Russia or England would surrender their sovereignty by giving up the forces they have built to defend their territory.

Doubts World Police Support.

"Are the American people," he demanded, "willing to turn over to some international organization over which they may not have any control, the power to send their boys to police the world?

"The answer to the question of peace in Europe is a federation of European states—a sort of United States of Europe. It is an answer that is practical and workable for Europe, and holds out the best guarantee against future involvement in European affairs by this republic."

CARRIER ADMITS HE STOLE FROM MAILS FOR BETS ON HORSES

Jans S. Wells, 36, of 934 Leland av., a substitute mail carrier at the Jefferson Park postal substation, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to an indictment charging him with stealing from the mails.

Assistant United States Atty. Bernard Sokol told the court that Wells had taken 125 letters addressed to the Bankers Life and Casualty company, 4434 Lawrence av., during the last year. The letters, Sokol said, contained about $900 in premium payments, and their failure to reach the office resulted in lapsing of policies.

"What did you do with the money that you took out of letters?" Judge Igoe asked. Wells said he played the horses.

"But only in a small way, your honor," the defendant said. "Never much more than $20."

Judge Igoe continued the hearing until Oct. 27 for further investigation.

Willie Williams, 50, a Negro, of 2453 State st., charged with inducing and assisting another man to vote in the name of an absent registered voter in the mayoralty election Feb. 23, 1943, was given a preliminary hearing before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday. Judge Jarecki set the case for trial Friday. Williams was a Republican precinct captain in the 2d ward when the election was held. A warrant issued then for his arrest was not served until Monday night. Williams said he has been working as an orderly in a hospital.

Mom and Pop and the Car...

"Of course I knew the answer! Our Standard Oil Man told me the difference between a transmission and a differential."

You can count on Mom knowing that the transmission and differential need fresh gear lubricant in the fall—to make shifting easier and to protect those expensive parts.

Mom's interest in the care of the car isn't at all surprising. After all, it's going to be a long, long time before she—or you—can get a new one.

Fortunately, any motorist—man or woman—can keep a car running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline. Just take it to a Standard Oil Dealer. He's trained in wartime car-saving service.

GOV. DEWEY'S SPEECH.

A lot of people who have been wondering whether they could afford to trust the leadership of the American nation to Thomas E. Dewey got their answer Monday night when he wound up his western campaign tour at Oklahoma City. In his speech there he told Americans who have been fighting a 12 year battle for the preservation of their way of life and for the salvation of their nation that this time they have a fearless, competent, hard-slugging champion, a man they can be for.

If Gov. Dewey is inaugurated 33d President of the United States on Jan. 20 his success can be attributed in large measure to the blunder made by President Roosevelt on Saturday night before a hand-picked gathering of teamsters' union officials. The banal jocularities and animal stories Mr. Roosevelt indulged in on that occasion were bound to give deep offense to people who live in dread for the safety of their sons and husbands in battle.

Mr. Roosevelt's jokes did him another kind of damage. They stung Gov. Dewey to cold anger, coupled as they were with charges of "fraud and falsehood" flung in the governor's direction, and they inspired him to give, in his address last night, the clearest statement of the issues which lie before America today that our people have been privileged to listen to from a political rostrum. Gov. Dewey started by hurling the "falsehoods" back in Mr. Roosevelt's teeth. He documented his assertions with a precision that will make the palace guard research and speech writing bureau squirm. They can't laugh off those facts, nor can they recall, much as they might like to, the published statements of the commander in chief, of little Mr. Truman, or of Maj. Gen. Hershey, and some of the others Gov. Dewey quoted.

Gov. Dewey stated, for the first time since his nomination, the real issue that affects every American voter this fall—whether America shall be turned over to the communistic domination of Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder. Mr. Roosevelt, he said, is indispensable only to Hillman, Browder, Harry Hopkins, Madam Perkins, Harold Ickes, and the corrupt and infamous big city bosses.

"Shall we, the American people, perpetuate one man in office for 16 years in order to accommodate this motley crew?" Gov. Dewey asked. "Shall we expose our country to a return of seven years of New Deal depression because my opponent is indispensable to the ill-assorted, power-hungry conglomeration of city bosses, Communists, and career burocrats which today compose the New Deal?"

The American people, Gov. Dewey said, will answer those questions in November. "They will see that we restore integrity to the White House so that its spoken word can be trusted once again."

Gov. Dewey has not yet won his campaign. The six weeks which lie before him are critical for him and for the nation. He has become the first Presidential candidate since 1932 to trade body blows with Mr. Roosevelt. Gov. Dewey has shown that he can fight for keeps, and that is the only kind of a man who can beat Mr. Roosevelt.

Gov. Dewey has gained strength all over the country, thanks to his Oklahoma City speech. If he wins it will be because he continues to carry the fight from here on out. If he loses it will be because he has listened to false counsel and fights the way the New Dealers want him to.

A LABOR FRONT IN THE MAKING.

Some strong voices in the labor movement have been heard of late in opposition to Sidney Hillman and his political action committees. A number of CIO unions have refused to coöperate. Arthur Evans reported from Iowa the other day that many midwesterners who have been obliged to join CIO unions to get work in industry are wholly out of sympathy with the PAC and will vote against it. The same can be said, of course, of a great many A. F. of L. unions and union members. Hillman's high pressure campaign to get contributions suggests no great eagerness on the part of the rank and file to come across.

These are evidences of good sense and political savvy. Any one who will take the trouble to read the program of the PAC cannot fail to see that the only kind of government that could hope to hand out all the candy that Mr. Hillman and Mr. Browder are promising is a government that runs everything and everybody. That kind of government can't tolerate private ownership and management of business, industry, and farming, of course; and neither can it tolerate the existence of labor unions run by their members in their own interest.

Lenin abolished labor unions. In their turn, Mussolini and Hitler took the same step. So must every government which promises everybody everything. The only way such promises can be made good is to assign a place in the economy and a wage to everybody and make him obey orders under threat of the concentration camp. The hours, conditions, and wages of labor must be fixed by government, and the existence of organizations of workmen who desire to have some voice in the matter cannot be tolerated.

The union men who are refusing to accept the Hillman-Browder leadership are doing so because they know in their bones that a victory for the PAC means the establishment here of something which will look and smell just like Hitler's labor front. The unions will be suppressed. If their officers and members don't like it the force of government will take care of them in summary fashion. The government will be the boss, and you can't strike against the government; you can't even sue it.

With that prospect in view, it is scarcely remarkable that a great many long headed union members and union officials are showing no enthusiasm for such self-anointed messiahs as Hillman and Browder. They wouldn't be in this thing themselves if they didn't feel confident that they were going to run the labor front when it is set up.

PROMOTION ON THE FIELD.

Pvt. Theodore Bachenheimer of Fullerton, Cal., parachuted down all alone near a Dutch village during the recent paratroop attacks in Holland. He walked into town, made friends, and organized his own army of 300 Dutch partisans, equipping them with captured German weapons. The Dutch made him boss of the outfit and call him "kommandant." Now he is directing his army's fight against the Germans from a factory building headquarters. A United States regimental command post thought well enough of Pvt. Bachenheimer's accomplishments to assign another parachute trooper to maintain communications between him and the post. We would like to suggest that the courier bring over a pair of bars for Pvt. Bachenheimer's shoulders. The best young officers graduate on the battlefield.

THE BANKERS CAN HELP.

The American Bankers' association, which is meeting this week in Chicago, has an important job to do. Its members should discuss freely and openly the international monetary and financial plans which were agreed upon at the Bretton Woods conference in July, and advise the country what ought to be done about the plans.

International monetary stabilization is an intricate and highly technical subject about which bankers are well informed. The matter of foreign loans is also a field in which the bankers are specialists. The government has entered into agreements for making radical innovations in both currency stabilization and foreign credits. The country is entitled to have clear and unequivocal advice from the bankers about the proposals.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National bank in New York, in a speech in Chicago recently let it be known that he is against the commitments our representatives approved at Bretton Woods. Several of the other big New York banks in their monthly reports on business conditions have been equally critical. A considerable number of economists who had reputations for knowing about finance before the New Deal have expressed alarm at the agreements. Rep. Charles S. Dewey of Illinois, who has had wide experience in finance, has taken a firm stand in opposition.

In fact, the only support for the Bretton Woods plans has come from the delegates to the meeting, from politicians, and from some of the newspapers which have yessed everything the New Deal ever did. Even farsighted men in England no longer support the schemes precisely because they are of British origin. These men fear they will be blamed when the untested methods wind up in failure.

There is need for the bankers as a group to enlighten the public on the proposals, which are up their alley. An alternative would have been for members of the American delegation to stand up and defend in public discussion what they agreed to. But efforts to do that have been unavailing. We proposed some time ago a series of debates with Secretary Morgenthau, principal American representative at the New Hampshire meeting, facing Congressman Dewey in the main event. Harry White, the secretary of the treasury's right hand man, we hoped would welcome an opportunity to be pro, with Dr. Benjamin Anderson as the anti. Sen. Tobey and Gen. Leonard Ayres would make an interesting bout. And for local color, we would match Edward Eagle Brown and Dr. Melchior Palyi. The A. B. A. convention would have been a good occasion for one of the debates. But, so far it has been impossible to get Morgenthau, White, Brown, and the others to face their critics in full view of the public.

At any rate, the bankers can give the country their full and frank opinion of the plans. Courage and frankness are called for. It's a banking question and the country looks to the bankers for leadership. It's not time for soft-pedaling.

SCRAP THE RUBBER FACTORIES?

A recent London dispatch credited the Dutch news agency, Aneta, with the statement that the United States, Great Britain, and the Netherlands are planning informal discussions on post-war rubber problems soon. Before the war almost all of the crude rubber used in this country was furnished by a British-Dutch rubber cartel which exploited Malaya and the Dutch East Indies. The same left wing New Dealers who have been so strong in the condemnation of cartels are the ones who have been demanding that we close down our synthetic rubber plants in this country after the war and depend on the British and Dutch plantations for our rubber supply. They or men of their type can be expected to represent the United States in the rubber discussions if Mr. Roosevelt makes the appointments.

When the Japanese, with the help of some of the natives, drove out the British and Dutch, America was cut off from the rubber supply upon which she had been dependent. The ingenuity of our nation created a synthetic rubber industry, sufficient now for the greater part of our post-war needs. This venture was financed partly by the taxpayers and partly by individual companies. Thousands of American workmen are employed in making rubber today at the American scale of pay.

It is unthinkable that our government will scrap our investment of 750 million dollars in synthetic rubber factories, disinherit all these American workmen, and return to dependence upon overseas sources of rubber controled by alien cartels which employ slave labor.

A lonely, sandy, wave-washed shore
That has not heard the cannon's roar,
Whose exotic ferns and plants
Require no reconnaissance?

Alas, I fear that no such place
Remains upon this planet's face.

A Legend of Versailles.

The story that the Prussian general Blücher threatened to blow up the Jena bridge in Paris [Aug. 29] after the battle of Waterloo is matched by a legend of Versailles. In 1800 a certain Mme. Rimbault, young and pretty, good business woman and first-class cook, started a restaurant in the former home of Mme. Pompadour, called the Hôtel des Réservoirs, at Versailles, catering to sightseers. She prospered.

In 1815, Blücher arrived, threatening to demolish the great chateau in revenge for Napoleonic depredations in Prussia. He stopped at Mme. Rimbault's for luncheon or dinner, and enjoyed her hospitality so much that he abandoned his destructive ideas. He would not ruin the business of such an amiable hostess who served such excellent wines.

The Hôtel des Réservoirs continued in operation as a restaurant until 1934. After the death of its last owner, Henri G. Grosscœuvre, a marvelous collection of Versailles mementos was auctioned off; most of the items were bought by the French government. J. D. V.

We had driven ½ gallon when we came to a little roadside lunchroom. My wife sat in the car while I went in to get some sandwiches. There were no other customers. A little middle aged man, decked out in white jacket and apron bustled up for my order. Then he loudly called back to the kitchen, "Two fried hams on toast." I could soon hear a frying sound from the rear. After a few minutes I noticed that the waiter had disappeared. I absent-mindedly strolled back toward the kitchen and glancing thru the door saw the waiter, now wearing a lofty cook's hat, busy over the ham. I walked softly back to the front and waited. In a few minutes he bustled up minus the stove pipe hat, with the sandwiches.

E. M. S. asks: "What are the mailing dates and package limits for men in the naval reserve attached to the maritime service?"

The deadline for Christmas packages to men in the maritime service is the same as for the army, Oct. 15. The address will give the name of the seaman in full and if his ship is operating in the Atlantic, the address will give the name of the ship, C/o Postmaster, New York, New York. If his ship is in the gulf service it will be sent C/o Postmaster, New Orleans; if he is serving in the Pacific, the package is sent C/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal. In all instances, be sure to give the name of the ship. Packages for maritime service men may be up to 11 pounds in weight, not over 18 inches in length or 42 inches in length and girth combined.

BED REST IN MUMPS.

MUMPS is a malady which caricatures the face. If both jowls are involved, the sufferer will present features so grotesque that they will border on the ridiculous. In consequence, the subject is called upon to accept a goodly amount of jocular comment. Old time artists delighted in delineating the appearance of the victim, particularly at a height of an attack.

But the disorder is no fun. The seat of the ailment is one or more of the glands which produce saliva and the cause is a virus which as yet has not been identified accurately. As a rule, the structures in front of the ears become inflamed. Bulging extends forward and downward, never backward or upward. Sometimes the glands beneath the chin or underneath the tongue will be affected. If the swelling is severe, we must always be on the lookout for a disturbance of the larynx, which will interfere with breathing. Only rarely, however, will it be necessary to open the trachea surgically.

More often than not there is an ushering in period of from two to four days, in which the patient will feel somewhat below par. Sore throat may be complained of and stiffness of the neck muscles is a common sign with those who are older. Then comes puffing of the gland, with or without a mild temperature. In more than a third of the cases, only the parotids will be disturbed, the left more frequently than the right. But the infection may be communicated to the opposite side and attack all the saliva factories as well as their ducts leading into the mouth.

Complications may be encountered and one reason why we insist upon bed rest and quiet is to avoid inflammation of the sex glands, which is more common in males. If the victim who is making an uneventful recovery, suddenly develops a temperature, we may well suspect that a fresh region—perhaps in a remote portion of the body—is involved. Should orchitis [enlargement of the sex glands in males] become a part of the picture, prostration may ensue. As a rule, however, symptoms persist for only a week, with return to normal within two weeks thereafter. Some atrophy may follow in a small fraction of those afflicted. In a recent army report, an epidemic occurred in a small task force and 35 per cent developed orchitis.

We are dealing with a contagious condition—one that can be spread possibly by discharges from the eyes [tears], saliva, or thru particles expelled during coughing. Ten days after the onset covers the period in which there is likelihood of dissemination. In order to be certain, two weeks may be permitted to elapse before neighbors and friends may be accorded the privilege of visiting. Thereafter, the invalid may be allowed to mingle with others, unless there are signs of a new outbreak.

Thus far there is no specific treatment—no antitoxin—altho convalescent serum has been recommended. Because the infection may be mild, difficulty may arise in insisting upon bed rest. This is the only safeguard we have against unwelcome upsets. The diet should be light, and scrupulous sanitation of the mouth may well be enforced. A mild antiseptic gargle will be helpful.

Finally, it may be said that the pickle test is worthless. Anything that increases the flow of saliva, however, may lead to more swelling and pain. This is one occasion when gum chewing is out.

COLD SHOWER.

R. B. writes: Is it harmful to take a hot shower and instantly switch to cold?

REPLY.

Some people follow this plan and like it. Most of us would find the sudden change shocking. Cold is responsible for the prompt contraction of skin capillaries. This results in the rapid filling of blood vessels in the abdominal organs. There is a temporary rise in blood pressure.

OVERDOSAGE.

O. P. writes: I understand that there is danger in giving high potency vitamin D capsules. What is the effect of too much?

REPLY.

Huge doses are not recommended. There is a slight tendency to the formation of mineral deposits in the kidneys, bladder, etc.

NOT THIS BLINDNESS.

A. A. writes: Has alcoholic intoxication anything to do with color blindness?

REPLY.

Neither cause nor effect. But the eyes may play many tricks—buildings will lean and wobble, sidewalks wave, and objects be multiplied. Inability to detect shades is an inherited defect.

RETURNING THE FIRE

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Cheer Up, World.

Feeling dispirited about the war? Feeling low, loathsome, wretched? Do you want to shoot your best friend? Do you think the world is getting worse and worse and that the insects could do a much better job of it? Are you troubled with good health? If so, we are sorry, but it will pass, for the 11th glad book came off the presses last Wednesday.

You have forgotten the glad books? You're a lucky dog if you can. The glad books are the Pollyanna books, the first of which was published in 1912. Since then Colorado teahouses, Texas babies, cozy cabins, dresses, dolls, games, and a brand of milk have been named for that dear little bundle of sweetness and light, Pollyanna, and her name has wandered into dictionaries of the English language. More than a million and a half books about her have been sold.

Pollyanna started out as a little girl who invented the glad game and made even a Vermont village rejoice that it was alive. Later she grew up, possibly just to dispute the proverb that the good die young, and as the Boston Transcript observed then: "Having made every one glad in Beldingsville, Vt., she enlarges her sphere of activity and attempts to bring joy to all Boston, a prodigious and of course, impossible, task."

That's where this department gave up back in the dark ages. So, we might add, did Eleanor H. Porter, Pollyanna's creator. The responsibility, or possibly the remorse, for having created such a world-shaking bit of gladsomeness was too much for her. She died, but not without having tried a retraction. She said the creation had put her in a false position, that she had never believed that "We ought to deny discomfort and pain and evil; I have merely thought it better to 'greet the unknown with a cheer.'" Fortunately for the future sale of her creation, no one believed her. The jacket to the 11th glad book [Pollyanna's Protegee] says Mrs. Porter's death was untimely, but considering that she also spawned six other books, with a total sale of 800,000, we can't see that her death was untimely at all.

You'd think that Pollyanna's good works would have stopped with her creator's death, but not at all. Harriet Lummis Smith took up the shining burden. She wrote four more glad books before she gave up. Then Elizabeth Borton took a hand. She wrote four. Now comes Margaret Piper Chalmers with her first offering, the 11th glad book. Whence from here, God wot.

Creating a literary character no one had sense enough to leave alone is not the milestone it should be. The Dumas boys, père et fils, had quite a writing factory between them. And the Oz books, created by Frank Baum, also were continued by another, Ruth Plumley Thompson. Baum rebelled as early as 1910 and did his best to end the series in "The Emerald City of Oz" by saying his characters were permanently cut off from communication with the rest of the world. Three years later he reinstated them by wireless telegraphy in "The Patchwork Girl of Oz." Then he, too, died. But as far as our brief research goes, only Pollyanna [the name is trademarked and usually comes with an * after it] has fattened three authors and has a fourth licking her lips.

With all the cheerfulness which Pollyanna exuded and scattered thruout the world you'd think World War II. never would have occurred, but it did, and Pollyanna is up to her happy ears in it for 322 sentimental pages. Her husband is overseas, as is her son, but as a lieutenant, j. g., of course, for there isn't an enlisted man in Pollyanna's world. As usual, she meets curmudgeons and changes them to darling, lovable people who only needed a kind word and a smile to reveal their true worth; cherishes a foundling girl who turns out to be an heiress and naturally marries the j. g.; reunites a husband and wife who didn't know they loved each other until Pollyanna went to work; uncovers a Nazi spy ring, and is glad . . . glad . . . glad! all the way thru the book. O, it is lovely! Cheer up, world. It is better to be nauseated than grim.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Candidate Roosevelt, in his first speech since the naval yard "discussion," proclaims he cannot talk out of both sides of his mouth at the same time. He uses tactics just as interesting.

Just before the 1940 election, he promised the people of this country, in addressing the mothers, that our boys would not be sent to fight on any foreign soil, and with emphasis used the oft repeated quote, "again and again and again." And yet, the same mouth, one month after election, declared war.

The broken promises of this man will draw their just dividends on Nov. 7 in the form of a sound defeat at the polls.

BEN SORO.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Mr. Roosevelt asks us to believe that the Republicans brought about the catastrophy of the last war [with Wilson as President, of course] and that they attempted to halt our preparations for defense in 1939 and 1940, but he wants us to forget Pearl Harbor and his words that my husband and two brothers would not go overseas. Well, they are overseas, and I for one will never forget.

MRS. WILLIAM H. SMITH.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The trite arrogance, contempt, and self-arrogated sufficiency! If that's not "campaigning in a political sense," I will take vanilla.

SHILLELAH.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I think it was one of the most ridiculous speeches for a President of the United States to make in this time of national crisis. While our boys are shedding their blood and giving their lives for us and our country, the President gets up and cracks jokes about his dog.

A SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Maybe Fala should make the next speech! PULLMAN.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The Great Ego said: "I am accustomed to hearing malicious falsehoods about myself, such as that old worm eaten chestnut that I have represented myself as indispensable." If he doesn't consider himself indispensable, why does he keep on running? B. P. S.

SOMBER SUNDAY MUSIC.

Winnetka, Ill., Sept. 22.—Will not some radio station or sponsor give us a cheerful program during the breakfast hours on Sunday? A young mother having no help who comes down early to get the breakfast would like to fill the house with music for the father and children soon coming down. She can get only Bach or the antique and somber whines of ancient string classics. She'd welcome something like Mendelsohn's "Spring Song" or even "O What a Beautiful Morning," or perhaps a charming Straus waltz. Please give us good cheer on Sunday mornings.

INDISPENSABLE STRAW BOSSES?

Lemay, Mo., Sept. 20.—B. W. Mills would like to know how our indispensable commander in chief can get away when our armies are locked in the most critical struggle of the war.

Maybe he forgot about the other indispensable men—Plow-'Em-Down Henry, Earl Browder, and Sidney Hillman. Don't forget they are running the show. GEO. GEBHARDT.

HE THINKS REPUBLICANS SHOULD CONCEDE.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—After our President's speech of last Saturday, aren't you about ready to throw in the towal and concede his election? I'm sure that you know, tho of course you won't admit it, that Mr. Dewey hasn't the faintest chance of election—his unspeakable stupidity in attempting to make the present administration responsible for the depression has cost him whatever small chance he had. While every intelligent voter resented such falsehoods, it remained for the President to show clearly, once and for all, how foolish a charge that was. Mr. Dewey is so horribly mixed up in praising most of the legislation sponsored by the New Deal, and at the same time making ridiculous charges which insult the intelligence of the American voter, that he will be snowed under in November. You're far too intelligent not to know this. Why not admit it?

R. M. HURLEY.

GOV. DEWEY'S FITNESS.

Lake Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 20.—For over 50 years I have listened to candidates present their claims to the public, but for a clear cut, outspoken declaration of principles, I have never heard the equal of Thomas E. Dewey. His record as governor shows his real ability and integrity, while we all know that he writes his own speeches, rather than reading those of a ghost writer. His ability and trustworthiness are of a high order and he is well fitted to lead this country out of our present condition of confusion and uncertainty.

OLD TIMER.

WANTS A REPUBLICAN SERVICE CENTER.

Berwyn, Ill., Sept. 20.—Don't you think it is a duty of the Republicans of this city to our boys and girls in service to have a Republican service center where Gov. Dewey's painting may be placed and where the boys and girls who believe in our republic and not in the New Deal democracy can go for recreation and refreshment? The centers here are being supplied by Republicans as well as Democrats, but who is getting the credit for them all over the country? N. B. KNAPP.

THE DECISION.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Regardless of all political ballyhoo, the only fundamental decision conceded to the electorate is: Shall the Reds and their fellow travelers continue to hold the balance of power in these United States?

AFL UNION RIPS CIO-RED LINK TO NEW DEALERS

House Probe Into PAC Activity Opens Today.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—On the eve of a congressional inquiry into evidence linking President Roosevelt, Earl Browder, and Sidney Hillman in the 4th term campaign there came from the ranks of organized labor tonight the strongest blast yet voiced against "Stalinist controlled attempts to capture the government from within."

Denunciation of the New Deal-Communist-CIO hookup as "the road to collectivism" came from the Seafarers' International Union of America [AFL], rival of the National Maritime union [CIO], headed by Joseph Curran, officially designated as one of the most faithful followers of the Communist party line in the United States.

A "Stalinist Stooge."

The denunciation was carried in the Seafarers' Log, official organ of the union, which is powerful on both the west and east coasts. It called Curran a "Stalinist stooge" and accused him of impeding the war effort.

The editorial said that seamen who fail to attend the Communist political rallies organized by Curran and who refuse to contribute to the CIO-PAC's political campaign in behalf of President Roosevelt are classified as "inactive seamen" and deprived of their earning privileges.

"This is a totalitarian malpractice," the union organ declared, "aimed at securing a government in the United States which will march down the road to collectivism controled by secret tentacles of the Stalinist octopus as the prelude to a seizure of power. These totalitarian termites are intent on 'marrying' the administration and thru this strategy capturing the government from within.

Burden Is Aggravated.

"Woe to the NMU member who dares to express the opinion that the right to vote as he sees fit is inherent in our system of society and government! Thru the regimentation of Stalinist controled 'unionism' the burden of American seamen is aggravated beyond belief. We are in mortal danger of losing freedom at home thru the machinations of this sinister, political, racketeering sect."

The denunciation was voiced as the house committee on un-American activities prepared to open hearings tomorrow into a mass of evidence accumulated over a period of months by Chief Investigator Robert E. Stripling. The evidence is expected to show the intimate electioneering association of the White House, Communists, and the CIO political action machine.

Stripling said he intends to present a general outline of the evidence gathered and then to let the committee members choose a method of procedure. Rep. Costello, [D., Cal.], will preside as chairman and Rep. Thomas, [R., N. J.], will be the minority member. Other members of the eight man committee are absent from Washington.

Seventy-one highly placed government officials, including members of the White House staff and two cabinet members, were listed some weeks ago by the chief investigator as the recipients of telephone calls and telegrams from Hillman and his associates.

The evidence was forwarded to Atty. Gen. Biddle for prosecution under the Hatch act, prohibiting political activities by government personnel, but no action was taken. Biddle was one of those named in the list.

"All right, I invited them! But you asked them to make themselves at home!"

DEATH PENALTY FOR CHICAGOAN IN CAMP MUTINY

Alexandria, La., Sept. 26 (AP).—One Negro soldier has been sentenced to death and another to life imprisonment by a general court-martial in connection with a disturbance at Camp Claiborne Aug. 17, Brig. Gen. Louis F. Guerre announced today.

Pvt. Leroy McGary, 2243 W. Lake st., Chicago, tried on charges of mutiny and other military offenses, received the penalty of death at a court-martial convened Sept. 16.

Pvt. George S. Washington of Houston, Tex., received a sentence of life imprisonment under the same charges.

DORSEYS DENY GUILT IN FIGHT; TRIAL DATE SET

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26 (AP).—Band Leader Tommy Dorsey, his wife, Actress Pat Dane, and Allen Smiley, Hollywood sportsman, pleaded innocent today to charges of felonious assault upon Movie Actor Jon Hall. The trial was set for Nov. 14.

At the same time, charges of felonious assault upon Actor Eddie Norris were dismissed. The charges grew out of a fight after a party at the Dorsey apartment in the early morning of Aug. 5.

The charges involving Norris were dismissed by Superior Judge Clement D. Nye after the Dorseys' attorney, Isaac Pacht, had argued that Norris' story of his injuries was unsubstantiated by other witnesses.

Hall's grand jury testimony said he returned to the Dorsey apartment after leaving the party, asked for a purse forgotten by his companion, and became involved in a fight with Dorsey after he patted the band leader's wife on the shoulder.

State St. Bridge Steel Sought in Plea to WLB

Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt said yesterday that the city is preparing an appeal to the war production board for steel and other material to enable completion of the State st. bridge, torn down five years ago when the subway was under construction. Substructure of the bridge already has been finished.

A WOMAN TURNS AGAINST GUFFEY, LAWRENCE, PAC

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 26 [Special].—Accusing Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.] and David Lawrence, chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic committee, of entering into a fourth term conspiracy with the Communists, Mrs. Mary A. McQuade, veteran Democratic party worker, today resigned as a member of the state committee.

"It is evident that Lawrence, Guffey, and Auditor General F. Clair Ross have become the willing tools of communism and the kind of political action practiced by Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder," Mrs. McQuade said in a statement after announcing her resignation.

Calls It Arrogant Machine.

She charged the state organization in Lawrence's hands is an arrogant machine that flouts the rights of the little people.

"I am definitely opposed to policies and actions that bear the stamp of communism," she said. "I consider them a menace to the future of this country. I have always been a good Democrat. I resent the disintegration of our party into a corrupt vehicle upon which Sidney Hillman and the Communists can ride rough shod over the civil liberties of the American people."

Mrs. McQuade since 1938 has been Democratic committeewoman for Dauphin county [Harrisburg].

Defeated Rival Favored.

In the 1944 primary she defeated Mrs. Margaret Smith of Harrisburg for membership on the state committee and two weeks ago broke with Lawrence when the state chairman appointed Mrs. Smith resident secretary of the committee.

Mrs. McQuade's accusations that Lawrence and Sen. Guffey have become the tools of communism was regarded as a reference to evidence of hearty coöperation between the state committee and Hillman's political action committee.

The state committee recently moved into pretentious headquarters here, it was said, taking over three floors of a large building. Posters bearing the PAC imprint are displayed in profusion on the walls of the committee offices and a high salaried personnel is at work.

Guffey and Lawrence, usually at loggerheads, have patched up political differences, in an effort to deliver the state for the fourth term with PAC help, it was said.

OPA List Lowers Prices of Melons and Potatoes

Three items on the weekly fresh fruit and vegetable community price ceilings will be somewhat lower tomorrow, and there will be one increase, Marion W. Isbell, area office of price administration director, said yesterday. While potatoes will go down 2 cents to five pounds for 25 cents, sweet potatoes will be a cent lower at two pounds for 16 cents, and honeydew melons will decline a cent and a half to 9½ cents a pound. Peas, now coming from California, will rise 2 cents a pounds to 22 cents.

Seeks Divorce

CAROL GALLAGHER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 26 [Special]—Carol Gallagher, blonde film actress today filed suit for divorce from Cowboy Actor Dick Fornan, charging that he had inflicted "grievous mental suffering" upon her ever since their marriage 21 months ago.

Carol, 20, won the $1,000 grand prize in the New York Daily News Annual Beautiful Child contest in 1934. At that time her first name was spelled Carolee.

She was married to Foran at Flemington, N. J., on Jan. 1, 1943, and separated from him last Sept. 3. In her suit she asked custody of their 7 months old son, Sean Nickolas and "equitable" support for the boy and herself.

GENERAL URGES DODGE WORKERS TO STAY ON JOB

Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, commnding general of the 20th bomber command when it first bombed Japan and now chief of engineering and procurement for the air technical service command, yesterday urged employes of the Dodge Chicago plant to stay on the job.

His plea was contained in a special message to the plant, emphasizing the necessity for providing a continuous stream of planes and munitions if the war in the Pacific is to be won in the shortest possible time.

"There is nothing more important to the shortening of our war in the Pacific than the rapid production of super-bombers and giant transports required in vastly increasing numbers by the 20th air force," the general said.

"We must not forget that the end of the war with Germany will not end our war with the Japanese; that regardless of the date of Germany's collapse, our forces in the Pacific must fight on."

U. S. BARS SHIPS FROM CALLING AT ARGENTINA

New Trade Curbs Also Put in Effect.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—New economic pressure was applied against Argentina today as the United States ordered American ships to halt calls at Argentina ports on northbound voyages after Sept. 30. They have been making no other stops.

At the same time it was learned that the state department had instructed the foreign economic administration to ban export licenses to Argentina, which, with the ship action, virtually cut off all commerce with that nation. Licenses only would be granted, it was reported, for materials necessary to public health and safety. Neither the state department nor FEA would comment officially on the report.

Even Stronger Measures Seen.

The shipping action, which falls just short of an embargo on imports from the South American nation, which has refused to coöperate fully against the axis, was regarded as another step in the series of measures designed to bring Argentina into allied collaboration.

It was reported this government is considering the application of much stronger methods to influence Argentina.

The shipping crackdown against Argentina was taken by the war shipping administration at the direction of the state department. It was said that the move was ordered because of war requirements for the diversion of ships from the Argentine run to other areas, but this explanation was accepted here with considerable reservation in official circles as it was emphasized no ships will be taken off other Latin American runs. The order does not apply to Argentine owned ships under the United States flag.

Friendly Nations Promised Shipping.

A state department spokesman said "Those countries contributing effectively to the prosecution of the war, of course, will continue to receive sympathetic consideration with respect to American ships for their domestic need."

The United States has been moving steadily toward a break with the present Argentine government, in the opinion of diplomatic circles here. Late last July Secretary of State Hull assailed Argentina as a deserter to the allied cause and recommended that the United States and other American republics continue to refuse to recognize her government.

On Aug. 16 the Argentine gold stocks in this country were frozen. The free flow of Argentine gold from this country was ordered halted shortly after Dr. Adrian C. Escobar, Argentine ambassador, was called home for consultations. This action was widely regarded as a protest against that nation's cooperation with the axis.

Break Seen Logical.

Following these two steps, there was much discussion of the advisability of ordering economic penalties against Argentina. Today's orders were considered a further step in that direction. It has been argued within the state department that a breaking off of relations is the logical outgrowth of the non-recognition policy, which has continued for nine months.

The British have opposed such a step because the United Kingdom receives the bulk of its meat from Argentina. It was argued that a complete break would work as much harm to the allied cause as good.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 26 (AP).—Shipping circles here expressed the opinion today that the United States ban on American flag ships calling at Argentine ports would not seriously inconvenience Argentine exporters who are sending goods to the United States.

The shippers said that generally speaking sufficient tonnage is available in Argentine flag ships to handle most of the cargo in sight at the present time.

THE GUMPS

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Sept. 26, 1944.

THE outdoor fan who thinks he's an expert at identifying birds and wildflowers should invade the field of mushrooms if he wants to test his powers of recognition. There are over 1,300 species of mushrooms in the Great Lakes area, including edible varieties, a few poisonous types, and perennial growths. Some mushroom growths are used as mediums for artists' drawings, one type is an excellent first aid in stopping bleeding, and another species can make a man intoxicated.

Dr. Verne O. Graham of the Chicago Academy of Sciences recently hiked with us thru two of the woodlots on the Wheaton farm. One of the country's leading authorities on fungus growths, Dr. Graham lists more than 1,200 varieties in his new book, "Mushrooms of the Great Lakes Region." He found more than 40 of these species during a morning walk thru the farm woodlots.

Shoestring Is Delicacy.

Perhaps the most common of the edible mushrooms gathered at this time of the year is the honey-colored mushroom. It is called Vaclavky, or "Jimmy mushroom" by the Czechs, Vaclavky being the Bohemian word for St. James. This small mushroom is a delicacy on the table, but a deadly enemy of trees. It commonly is called the shoestring fungus by nurserymen and fruit growers because its foundation growth [in the ground and beneath tree bark] looks like a long shoestring. The honey-colored mushroom is the fruit of this "shoestring."

We found a red oak in the lower woods which probably had been killed by the shoestring fungus, and near the southwest corner of the big pond Dr. Graham noticed a white oak which is being seriously damaged by the same growth.

Most Fungus Beneficial.

The shoestring fungus is one of the few mushroom growths which is commercially dangerous. Most of them, in addition to being edible, have a natural function—that of hastening the decay of dead wood and returning it to the form of beneficial humus. In most cases mushrooms grow only on soil, stones, or unhealthy or dead wood, and even in the case of the shoestring fungus on live trees, the parasitic growth enters after the tree has been injured by lightning or other natural causes.

Additional data on mushrooms will be published in this space tomorrow.

★ The GARDEN ★

IMPROVEMENT of soil texture provides an important autumn chore for the gardener whose plot is too heavy with clay or too light [having a high sand content]. A common complaint from new gardeners in the Chicago area this season was that their clay soils packed badly during the middle of the summer, making it almost impossible to cultivate the ground and reducing the quality of root vegetables.

For such gardens, horse manure is the ideal material to work into the soil because it contains fertilizing matter as well as humus. Thus it enriches the ground and at the same time makes it more friable by penetrating the clay particles. Two bushels of horse manure, containing straw, is recommended for each 100 square feet of garden surface. Well rotted manure can be applied now, but should be left on the surface for about a month before being plowed under.

If animal manure is not available, sand can be added to heavy clay soils to make them more friable. The use of sand will be discussed here tomorrow.

WAC MARRIAGE IS VOIDED ON 2D MATE'S PLEA

Arthur Douyard, 24, of 5428 Hyde Park blvd., an aeronautical engineer, in Superior court yesterday obtained an annulment of his marriage to Darlene Guttersruud Douyard, 18, a discharged WAC, on his complaint that she still was married to her first husband, Norman Guttersruud, who is in the army. Douyard told Judge Joseph Sabath that he married the young woman in South Bend, Ind., Nov. 26, 1943, and later learned she had not been divorced from Guttersruud, to whom she had been married Aug. 15, 1942. Douyard's sister, Elaine, a WAC stationed at Vaughan General hospital, near Maywood, testified that Darlene had told her she was married to Guttersruud.

RETURNED VETS TOLD THEY MAY PICK OWN JOBS

Rules Lifted to Aid Re-employment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—War Man Power Director McNutt today announced the lifting of all man power controls for returned veterans of the present war. He explained the action was taken to speed up the reëmployment of returning veterans and to remove obstacles in the way of their return to civilian life.

With the removal of controls, veterans of this war will not be required to obtain or present statements of availability in order to change jobs. They may be hired by any employer without referral by the United States employment service or other authorized agencies.

Entitled to Referral.

If they seek employment thru the USES, they will be entitled to a referral, as a matter of right, to any jobs of their choice without regard to the essentiality or priority status of such jobs.

McNutt said the lifting of controls will permit veterans to be hired without regard to employment ceilings. However, veterans already employed will be counted against an established employment ceiling unless the applicable local employment stabilization program provides otherwise, he said.

Veterans of the present war are defined as those who have served in the military forces subsequent to Dec. 7, 1941, and have other than dishonorable discharges.

Women are Included.

The term military forces includes the army, navy, marine corps, Coast Guard, naval reserve, national naval volunteers, women's army corps, women's reserve of the naval reserve, women's reserve of the Coast Guard reserve, and the marine corps women's reserve.

McNutt emphasized that local offices of the USES will continue to give all possible placement and counsel assistance to veterans, and altho such veterans may be referred to jobs without priority referral, USES offices will continue to offer referral, priority, and other essential openings to veterans.

REDS PROMOTE TWO GENERALS.

MOSCOW, Sept. 26 (AP).—Col. Gen. Mikhail Nikolaievich Chritiakov, one of the heros of Stalingrad, was promoted today to the rank of marshal of artillery and Col. Gen Semion Feodorovich Zhavoronkov was promoted to marshal of aviation on order of the presidium of the supreme soviet.

HALTS TROLLEY HE CAN'T CATCH; $5 HIS PENALTY

Every evening for a year, Charles P. Messana, 31, of 1230 S. Spaulding av., a toolmaker, has raced for the 5:31 o'clock street car at 31st st. and Pulaski rd. to take him home from work, and each evening the car has pulled away just as he panted up to it. Monday night, he told Judge Harry J. Beam in Fillmore court yesterday, the car pulled away once too often. He could stand it no longer, he told the court, and pulled the trolley off the wire. Judge Beam was sympathetic, but fined Messana $5 on a disorderly conduct charge.

What Victory Fleet Day means...

Victory Fleet Day, September 27, 1944—third anniversary of our wartime merchant fleet—honors American-flag steamship companies for their management and operation of our great new Merchant Marine.

Of all civilian effort in this war, none has made a greater contribution to victory than the shipping industry.

As General Eisenhower said recently: "When final victory is ours there is no organization that will share its credit more deservedly than the Merchant Marine."

The millions of American fighting men who have won the battles of Europe and the Pacific . . . their millions of tons of equipment . . . are there because American shipping got them there—fast! In recent months there has been a ship sailing on the average of every 30 minutes!

When we got into the war in December, 1941, the United States had 1150 ships of various types totalling 11,000,000 tons. Now, less than three years later, the American Merchant Marine with 3400 ships, operated by private companies under the supervision of the War Shipping Administration, has swelled to the amazing figure of approximately 40,000,000 tons . . . comprising cargo ships, passenger liners, tankers, colliers, and ocean-going ore carriers.

Just consider what this huge expansion has involved.

Many lines were assigned to operate ships other than their own . . . often over strange, new routes. All facilities had to be expanded beyond previously-known limits . . . and quickly. There were ship and shore personnel to be trained by the thousands; new split-second loading and unloading schedules to be devised.

Everywhere speed was of the essence. Every day the ingenuity of management was strained to the utmost that the cargoes of war departed as needed and on time.

The American shipping industry, silently and for the most part unseen and unsung, has taken on the toughest transportation job in history . . . and won it.

This pennant has been awarded by the War Shipping Administration to American-flag steamship companies in recognition of their services for managing and operating our wartime merchant marine.

In tribute to the management and men of our giant maritime industry, Admiral Land, speaking for the War Shipping Administration, says: ". . . this record has been made possible through the splendid, cooperative efforts of the steamship companies acting as our agents. We are pleased to have this opportunity to salute the operators."

are you bothered by the smell of wet paint?

air-wick* kills all household odors!

You know how air-wick almost magically kills the odors of cooking...freshens closets, bathrooms, smoky living rooms. Well, why not use it also to help eliminate the smell of fresh paint? Simply uncap the bottle, place it near the source of the paint odor, pull out the wick...and that's all. There's nothing to light...nothing to burn. If the odor is unusually strong, it will take more than one bottle of air-wick to eliminate it completely ...but even one bottle will lessen the irritation. air-wick contains activated chlorophyll...the miracle substance found in its natural state in green leaves. You will find air-wick at hardware, paint, grocery, drug, chain, variety and department stores.

*air-wick deodorizer and household freshener is fully protected by U.S. patent. air-wick is a trademark of Seeman Brothers, Inc., New York 13, N.Y., distributors.

There is only one air-wick. Remember air-wick is the only household product of its kind that contains activated chlorophyll

VICTIM SPURNED MRS. ANDREWS, BROTHER SAYS

Dined with Another on Eve of Slaying.

Salinas, Cal., Sept. 26 [Special].—A younger brother of Jay Lovett testified today at the murder trial of Mrs. Frances Andrews, oil heiress, that Jay had a glass of beer with Mrs. Andrews the day before he was shot to death and on the following day spurned a dinner invitation from her. Instead, he dined with the wife of a San Francisco physician, the brother said.

Mrs. Andrews is accused of shooting Jay, who was 19 and a farm hand on a neighboring ranch, in a fit of jealous rage on the night of last July 15. Twice married, she is 37 and the owner of a large ranch in Carmel valley where the shooting took place. Her present husband is in the army.

The brother, Luther Lovett, 17, said he and Jay stopped with a load of hay in front of the Andrews' home on July 14, and that both went in and had beer with Mrs. Andrews. He then drove on alone with the hay while Jay remained in the Andrews house, he said.

Invited to Dinner.

The next evening, according to Luther, Mrs. Andrews drove to the Lovett home and invited Jay to dinner. Instead of going, Jay kept a dinner engagement with Mrs. Nancy Linde, wife of a San Francisco physician, Luther testified.

Luther was the last witness put on the stand by the prosecution during the day in which the state built up its case with testimony concerning events on the night of the tragedy. Mrs. Andrews is basing her defense on a theory that Jay committed suicide.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Willicombe, who live near the Andrews' ranch, testified that Mrs. Andrews arrived at their home in an automobile about 11 p. m. They said she was smeared with blood and that she screamed for help and shouted that Jay killed himself. She told them she had pillowed the wounded boy's head in her arms and that she had left him on the highway to summon help, she said.

Mother Sought Weapon.

Willicombe, who is confidential secretary to William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, said he paid little attention to the body because he assumed it was a case of suicide. Mrs. Willicombe said Jay's mother was at the scene asking for the weapon with which Jay was shot, and that she feared the mother wanted it "to shoot Frances."

The gun made its first courtroom appearance today when District Atty. Anthony Brazil produced it from his pocket and entered it in evidence after Deputy Sheriff Charles Brown identified it as the weapon he found near the body the night of Lovett's death. It is a foreign made .25 caliber automatic pistol, admittedly the property of Mrs. Andrews.

The heiress has told investigators that Lovett was a frequent visitor at her home and that he often borrowed the pistol. He must have taken it from her bureau drawer the night he died, she said.

Hyde Park Area Firebug Sought by Police Squads

Police squads from the Hyde Park station continued their search last night for a firebug who set four fires in that area early yesterday. Fire insurance men and detectives searched thru the debris left by the fires but could find no clew. All four fires originated in the basement of the apartment houses. Two hundred persons were driven to the street but no one was injured.

WOMAN CLAIMS HOMELESS BOY AS FATHER DIES

New Orleans, La., Sept. 26 (AP).—Harry Feldern Jr., 11, homeless schoolboy, tonight awaited the arrival of a woman who said she was his mother but whom he does not remember.

Harry Feldern Jr.

The youth was left homeless yesterday when his father, Harry Feldern Sr., dropped dead in the Canal st. shopping area.

A message to the Orleans parish coroner's office from Memphis, Tenn., signed "Mrs. M. von Feldern" said: "Hold child for mother until I get there. Leaving today."

Advised of the telegram, Feldern said, "I am not sure that I remember my mother."

After his father collapsed, the boy told attaches of the coroner's office that he did not know of a single living relative.

MOTORIST HEARS A THUD; LEARNS CAR STRUCK SON

George F. Doyle Jr., 7, of 5033 Maypole av., was playing with other boys yesterday in the alley in the rear of his home. An automobile approached. The Doyle boy unexpectedly ran into the side of the car. The motorist did not see the boy, but heard the thud, stopped his car, and leaped out. The driver was George Doyle Sr., the victim his son. The father's grief was later changed to joy when physicians at St. Anne's hospital told him George Jr. had suffered a few rib fractures, and possible internal injuries, but would recover.

AIR CRASH FATAL TO BROTHER OF BENNY GOODMAN

Flight Officer Jerome D. Goodman, 21, brother of Band Leader Benny Goodman, was killed Sunday in the crash of a B-24 bomber near Casper, Wyo., it was learned last night. Flight Officer Goodman was a student at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., when he enlisted in the air corps in 1940.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the chapel at 5145 Broadway.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Dora Goodman of New York, four brothers, and three sisters.

The Goodman family lived in Chicago many years, but recently moved to New York. Benny Goodman now is appearing there with his band. Two other brothers, Irving and Harry, now in the army, are expected to attend the funeral. The fourth brother, Louis, lives here at 1220 Sherwin av. A sister, Ida, wife of Dr. Harry Winsberg, lives at 4217 Van Buren st.

"Reading is a clue"

says DR. HENRY C. LINK

noted psychologist and vice-president of The Psychological Corporation, New York City

Wartime aptitude tests have a lesson for the advertiser

It has taken the war to reveal to the public the importance of the "Sc. Q." men. These are the men with the scientific form of intelligence quotient. America's vast war-production program is absolutely dependent upon these men who can make things and make things work. Also, the operation of intricate weapons demands them.

The Army and Navy discover the "Sc. Q." men among selectees by using psychological tests. It has been found that what a man reads is one of the important clues to his talent, bent or aptitude.

Here is a fact of profound significance for advertisers. The man whose talent is for dealing with people, the "good mixer" type, prefers the popular type of magazine. The bookish fellow, the school teacher, goes for the "highbrow" type of publication.

But the mechanically-inquisitive type of man looks to POPULAR SCIENCE Monthly and other magazines in that field for news of the latest developments in science and industry.

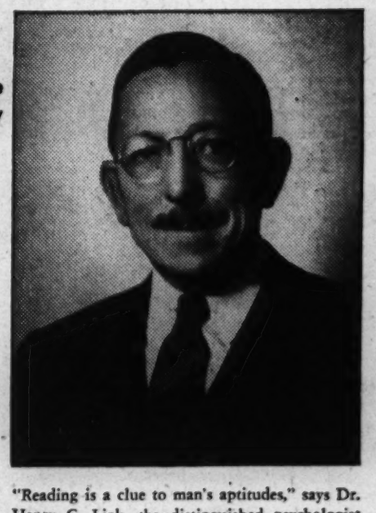
For over seventy years, the editors of POPULAR SCIENCE Monthly have served a growing army of these mechanically-inquisitive men. They number more than 700,000 . . . an active, responsive audience held together by one of the most versatile, vitally-alive editorial jobs in all magazine-publishing history.

These "Sc. Q." men are the pace-makers. They are the producers of new things . . . weapons today . . . radios, automobiles, washing machines, and electronic wonders tomorrow.

Likewise, they are first to buy new devices. Surveys prove conclusively that POPULAR SCIENCE families rank considerably higher than others in ownership of all kinds of mechanical appliances.

Sample them first. If you make a mechanical product, the man with the high scientific quotient is your best prospect. With his enthusiasm for the new, he is not only first to own, but he becomes a "salesman" for any new product of which he approves. Here is a whole army of these men . . . 700,000 strong . . . who will act as a spearhead of influence with friends and neighbors to gain acceptance for that new product of yours.

Figure on this important audience, now and postwar. You can reach this group as a unit only through the pages of POPULAR SCIENCE Monthly.



"Reading is a clue to man's aptitudes," says Dr. Henry C. Link, the distinguished psychologist whose books "The Rediscovery of Man" and "The Return to Religion" have sold over half a million copies. "The mechanically-inquisitive group looks to POPULAR SCIENCE Monthly and other magazines in its field for the latest developments in science and industry," says Dr. Link.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	3 diamonds
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is given as it actually occurred. While it was not very scientific, it was plausible enough and no serious fault can be found with the final contract, tho it is apparent that a spade slam cannot be defeated. East reasoned that since his partner's takeout was at the level of two probabilities favored his having the tops in hearts. In which case with the expected diamond lead, he could pull trumps and discard everything on the solid spade suit.

It is North's problem as to the opening lead that provides the interesting feature of this hand. The unimaginative opening is the king of diamonds, trusting to get in with the ace of clubs to cash the setting trick. North was sure that the dummy would have the ace of diamonds, because since he lacked the ace of clubs, he surely would not have bid a slam with a loser in each minor suit. There was reason enough to expect a solid spade suite in dummy, very good hearts and the ace of diamonds.

The dummy will also probably contain a singleton club or the king and another. North decided therefore than the only possible hope to defeat the contract was for his partner to obtain the lead and return a spade. This could be done if partner held the king of clubs, or even the queen if dummy happened to have the king and another and declarer misguessed the situation and ducked. North therefore made the daring lead of a low club.

South followed with the jack and did not even reach for the trick. It was a minute or two before he was aware that he had held the opening lead. This was quite astonishing and he stopped to ask himself why his partner had made such an amazing opening against a slam contract. There could be only one reason, that he wished to have his partner lead something, and that something must be spades. The spade return immediately defeated the contract.

Given Absent Treatment, She Still Likes Boy

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The same old story—boy meets girl, girl likes boy, girl gets brushoff.

The same beginning and the same sad climax, but what about the ending? This is the story of a young gal who was all joy because a particular Joe had been darkening her door regularly for more than a year. But when she decided to branch out and date a few odd Jacksons who happened to be around, her original boy cut adrift. A few nights of holding the fort alone on the home front changed her mind about variety being the spice of life and now she wants to make peace. She seems to think that her old boy friend still likes her more than somewhat and with typical feminine faith she believes that just one date with him and she'd be right back in clover.

Her letter goes this way:

"I met him about 18 months ago and we liked each other at first sight. We went together about a year and then his boy friends began to ask me out. So I went out with them occasionally and he didn't seem to mind at first but then he stopped coming over every night and I began to realize what was happening. We haven't gone out together for about eight months now and I miss him terribly. I've dated other boys since and dated many before he came along. I want to get him back but I don't know just how to do it. . . ."

If the split-up has been gradual and indefinite—the girl has still one chance, her trump card, and that's all. Perhaps it's for a school dance, a party or something the crowd is planning together—but a girl can call up an old acquaintance just once, on the basis that the old friendship still holds water, and ask him to join the fun as her date. If he refuses that invitation or accepts but doesn't offer a return engagement, the chance is gone. A girl can let a fellow know just once that she's still willing to be his Girl Friday and beyond that it is up to him.

If it is just a misunderstanding that's holding up the show, try to straighten things out at once. You may both be missing a lot of fun, and even if you are only in high school—you're not getting any younger!

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 26.—Father Bernard Hubbard, the Glacier priest, is doing a colored film on Alaska for Twentieth Century. The picture's woven around a simple family plot to be silhouetted against a streamlined but true pioneer picture of Alaskan developments. No dance hall girls, no dangerous Dan McGrew, just pioneers and magnificent scenery. Thousands of feet of atmospheric shots have already been taken in Fairbanks, Nome, and along the Alaskan highway. The first person photographed during those shots was a little girl from Hollywood, Helen Ann Scheidecker. She was visiting friends up there and hoped to become a second Shirley Temple. She posed with flowers, vegetables, etc. . . . Bette Davis is visiting friends in Georgia. Her mother didn't know she had a friend there. . . . Kenny Baker's deal at Metro is hotter than hot. . . . Mrs. Spencer Tracy signed up to work for Dewey. Says Spence will be furious—she doesn't care. . . . A crowd in the Ambassador lobby went wild when I introduced Mrs. Dewey to them. Just by being herself, a beautiful, gracious lady, she's getting lots of votes for her husband.

Really a Very Small World.

Leo McCarey, at Dewey reception, complimenting Lillian Gish on her test for "Miss Susie Slagle." Then Leo went to Porter Hall and said how sorry he was Porter's part had been cut out of his last two pictures, especially "Going My Way." Mrs. Hall ran into an old friend, Mrs. Carl Hogan. They went to dramatic school together—hadn't seen each other since. She said to Mrs. Hogan, "I'm so glad you're here. I didn't know." Mrs. Hogan replied, "O, yes, I came out with Tom and Frances, but we leave tomorrow." Then it dawned on Mrs. Hall that her friend was with the Deweys. The Hogans are two of the Dewey's oldest and dearest friends.

Ladd Party Couldn't Be Beat.

The Alan Ladds' shindig for Al Delacorte had the younger generation putting its best foot forward. There was Sonny Tufts giving an imitation for Helmut Dantine as the heavy in "Mrs. Miniver." Gail Russell spent much time upstairs looking at the baby. She's just 20, and shy as can be. . . . Jess Barker came alone. He'd expected Susie Hayward to come with him, but she refused. . . . Lana Turner and Turhan Bey came together. . . . Deanna Durbin minus her usual beaux. . . . The Y. Frank Freemans brought the Tom Girdlers. . . . Van Johnson all over the place. . . . The Frank Sinatras couldn't have received their invitation—they never answered. . . . Altogether, Al Delacorte said it was the kind of evening he's dreamed of. Believe me, he's done much to boost these kids up the ladder. It's nice to know they appreciate it.

Mermaids and Mermen Shindig.

Jimmy McHugh's shindig for swimming champions at Beverly Hills was bigger than he'd bargained for. Esther Williams came to watch, but Johnny Weissmuller pulled her into the briny. It was the Finnish champion of 1895 that really got the hand. At 67, he put on an eye-filling exhibition. And two 10 year olds were something to shout about. . . . Fred Astaire writing about thrill he got dancing on the steps of the palace of Versailles for 7,000 of our boys. He joined up with Dinah Shore's gang. I, too, remember my visit to Versailles. After visiting the palace and all historic places, I went to dine at a little cafe—but couldn't eat the delicious dinner. I was too hysterical watching a Frenchman eating corn on the cob with a knife and fork! . . . O, my gosh! The Police Gazette has gone in for a new type of cover girl. Last month Zorina in a bathing suit, and in December, Gerry Gayle, now making with the pirouette at Slapsy Maxie's. . . . Earl McEvoy, assistant director, has been so happy at Metro that he named his new daughter Marian G. McEvoy.

The $64 Question Again.

Chet Lauck [Lum, of Lum 'n' Abner] has got a state assemblyman as manager of his ranch in Nevada. That's all very well, but I'm just asking Lum when he's going to send me that other chinchilla. He brought me a pair and the mate died—and how can I grow my own coat with only one chinchilla—a male at that? . . . Count Basie and his 1 o'Clock Jump band will be really breaking it up at the Plantation for a Red Cross benefit tonight. He and his cats have asked me to be among those present. . . . Clare Luce's five second speech "Have You Cleared It with Sidney?" went over so big her next one will probably be: "Where Isn't Eleanor Roosevelt?"

Thru the Looking Glass

New York: The question of how soon the effect of the liberation of Paris will be felt in the cosmetic or, more particularly, in the perfme industry, has a great many persons in something of a frenzy here.

How soon essences, oils, bottles or perfumes may legitimately be shipped from France no one knows. The wishful thinkers say it will be soon. We encountered one beaming optimist who thought his perfume might be shipped by the first of the year. More balanced persons say it may be a long time. They remind your that Morocco, Algiers, and Tunisia have been occupied by the allies for nearly two years, but there is as yet no shipping from those ports—and the same restrictions, it is felt in responsible circles, must necessarily prevail for France.

They feel, sensibly enough, that for the present the only businesses for which the military authorities can sanction international transaction will be those necessary to the military success. Perfumes or the ingredients thereof can hardly be classified as essential to the military effort.

Don't think for a minute, tho, that some people aren't behaving as tho perfumes are vital. Washington must be besieged with passport requests from those who want to climb aboard the next clipper to look into the state of French fashions, flower fields, essential oils, and factories. The requests apparently are being denied. Legitimate business intercourse between cosmetic firms in this country and their affiliates in France seem impossible for the present. "I know a man who knows a man who talked to a man who just came back from Paris" is the sort of thing that passes for authoritative information at the moment.

It may be days, months, or years before the cosmetic industry has its French imports. There are those, within the industry and out of it, who feel that the lack of imports can hardly be classified as crucial. And there also are those who feel that the mad dash for Paris, or the attempt to make it, is, at this moment, a most unbecoming kind of opportunism.

No one underestimates the importance of eventually reckoning on restoration of its exports as one of the realistic fruits of the liberation of Paris—but first things must come first. The milliners, the dressmakers, the fabric makers, the perfumers, and even the fashion authorities who are clamoring to get to Paris to resume business as usual right this minute are being viewed in many quarters with raised eyebrows.

Style Showing Points Way for Opera Season

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

If feminine opera-goers follow the trends indicated in yesterday's fashion show entitled "Guilding the Lily," staged in Marshall Field's 28 Shop by the Illinois Opera guild, the opening of the opera season Oct. 18 will see a renaissance of long evening dresses, duvetyns and bengalines, rich fur stoles, and flashing jeweled buttons. More than 500 spectators filled the smart little room to capacity, and the $1,500 netted by the show and cocktail party which followed will be used to purchase opera tickets for music students and service men and women.

A substantial number of the audience were men, and altho the new fashions were a little bewildering to some [including one gentleman who referred to a giant feather cartwheel as "a good nest for a pigeon"], all admired the bright colors—neon tubing blue, cocoa au lait, wood violet, Kelly green, and burnt orange. Mme. Kerstin Thorborg, who had loaned three costumes which she wears for roles in "Aida" and "Die Walkure," which were modeled by Miss Mary Jane Brummel, Mrs. Mary Mertes, and Miss Beth Coleman, watched the show from a front row seat in a gown and cap of maroon velvet embroidered in gold.

The appearance of the three costumes and of a bridal party in fuchsia and delphinium blue velveteen, with Mrs. Edward A. Wheeler as the bride in ivory velvet, climaxed the show. Mrs. Wheeler's attendants were Robert Bruce Smythe, Miss Madeline Hoffman, Miss Janet Carr, Mrs. Alexander Burke, and Miss Irina Cantacuzene.

On the Record

By Claudia Cassidy

Operatic Treasure.

The Swiss cheese theory that opera singing is just as good as it ever was gets another puncture and a plug with the release of two Columbia albums. The dramatic soprano situation is sieved by the reissue of the late Claudia Muzio's operatic recital [M-259; four 12 inch records], which stirs poignant memories of the great nights of Chicago opera, but the heldentenor front is handsomely held by the one and only Lauritz Melchior, who with Herbert Janssen sings magnificent excerpts from the last act of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" [M-550; five 12 inch records].

Lauritz Melchior.

Altho the "Tristan" set is assembled from recordings made with the Colon orchestra under the direction of Roberto Kinsky and the Columbia Opera orchestra with Erich Leinsdorf, the effect is of unbroken line and magnetic impact. Mr. Janssen is an admirable Kurvenal, and Mr. Melchior is the one man in my time who has had the voice, the presence, and the vaulting imagination to sing Tristan. The best I can say for this set is that I sometimes forgot it was not the real thing.

There was magic in Muzio's voice that no one who heard it will forget, a creamy graciousness and at the same time a fiery splendor, unique, so far as I know, in opera. Not all of this operatic set does her full justice, but it is rich in singing you can point to as authentic illustration of why she so often made opera thrilling. In the album you will find Mimi's life story from "Boheme," the farewell of her memorable Violetta in "La Traviata," the superbly sung prison scene aria from Boito's "Mefistofele," the big aria from Giordano's "Andrea Chenier"; "Casta Diva," from Bellini's "Norma"; "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino"; and arias from "La Sonnambula" and Cilea's "L'Arlesiana." The conductor is Lorenzo Molajoli of Scala fame, and the album is an acquisition. How about a reissue of the Muzio song recital?

Giant in Shadow.

Victor has just released an album of Sergei Rachmaninoff's Fourth Piano Concerto, in G minor, played by the late composer with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia orchestra [M-972; four 12 inch records]. This is the revised edition, of course, but the fourth concerto, like the first, simply doesn't stack up with the second and third. The performance is good and often takes on the exhilarating sense of spaciousness never long absent when the giant was at the keyboard.

"Nutcracker" and Others.

Columbia has reissued Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker" as played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the late Frederick Stock, an album which is too inadequately recorded to do justice to orchestra or score [M-395; three 12 inch records]. A first rate Victor single has William Primrose and the late Emanuel Feuermann in superb performance of the Beethoven Duet in E flat for Viola and Cello, while Artur Rubinstein's full throated piano fills another Victor 12 inch with his own arrangement of Albéniz's "Navarra" and Brahms' Ballade in G minor, Opus 118, No. 3.

Y to Enroll Vets Free in Membership Drive

A campaign organization meeting to plan the 1944 membership drive of the 23 neighborhood departments of the Young Men's Christian association of Chicago was held in the Central Y. M. C. A. last night. The drive, scheduled for October, is expected to surpass last year's all-time high of 84,810 members. William S. Miller, campaign chairman, told workers they should not only enroll regular members, but should extend a free three month membership to discharged service men.

Calkins Family Makes War Its Major Activity

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO sons-in-law serving as lieutenant colonels in the army air forces, another who is a seaman in the merchant marine, a son in the navy, one daughter flying for the WASPs and another working for the government in Washington, D. C., add up to nearly 100 per cent participation in the war by the family of Mrs. George B. Calkins of Hubbard Woods. Mrs. Calkins is playing the rôle of war time grandmother by caring for the 4 year old daughter of the merchant marine sailor, Leonard Dewes Bergweger, and his wife, the former Marion Calkins, who is working in the nation's capital.

The former Evelyn Calkins, Mrs. Albert William Fletcher, now is stationed in Laredo, Tex., flying B-26 bombers and towing targets. Occasionally she sees her husband, Lt. Col. Fletcher—a lieutenant when they were married in 1941—who was stationed in the South Pacific for two years and who now is in Colorado. Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. Fred Schoellkopf IV. [Patty Calkins] are living in Dayton, O., as Col. Schoellkopf, a fighter pilot, is stationed at Wright field. Col. Schoellkopf, who completed 74 missions in the African theater, has been flying since he was 15.

Lt. George Burnham Calkins Jr., who was at home on a short leave this summer after an absence of 2½ years, has completed some special training courses in Miami, Fla., and is awaiting reassignment. He served for two years in the Mediterranean area, ending up as skipper of a PC boat.

Romantic News.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Sihler of Highland Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances, to Lawrence D. Cowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Cowen of Colorado Springs, Colo. Mr. Cowen recently received a medical discharge from military service because of an injury sustained in training with a V-5 naval aviation unit. Miss Sihler will be a junior at Colorado college.

A wedding that took place in Honolulu this summer is of interest here because the bride grew up in Highland Park. She is the former Antoinette Elizabeth Templeton, daughter of Mrs. Clifford Frank Templeton, formerly of Highland Park and New Orleans, and the late Mr. Templeton, and her marriage to Capt. Ben Orvell Hindman of San Antonio, Tex., took place in St. Augustine's-by-the-Sea church Aug. 10. Capt. Hindman, who is stationed in Honolulu, and his bride, who has been working there for the government, are at home on the island. Young Mrs. Hindman was educated at the Ogontz school and at schools abroad.

Here and There.

There will be at least one dancing party during the Christmas holidays for the debutantes, a dance which Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Meincke of Glencoe will give the night of Saturday, Dec. 23, for their daughter, Miss Barbara Meincke. No location for the party has been selected, but it will be held in town, and invited to partner the buds of the season and other young friends

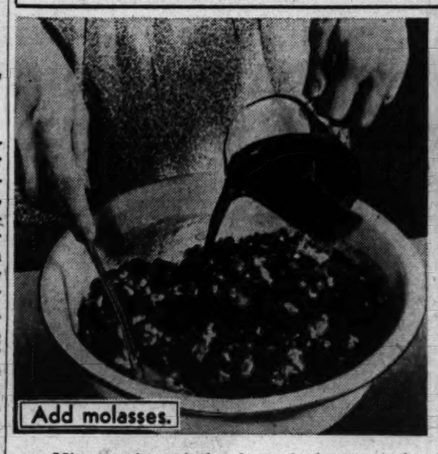
Mary Meade Prepares a Holiday Fruit Cake



Add molasses.

Mix with batter.

1. Mix together ⅓ lb. chopped citron, ⅓ lb. candied cherries, ⅓ lb. candied pineapple, 2 lbs. seeded raisins, 1 lb. currants, and 1 lb. mixed candied fruit. Add 1 cup wine and let soak overnight. Stir in 1 lb. chopped walnuts or pecans, ⅔ cup honey, ⅔ cup molasses.

2. Make cake batter as follows: Cream together thoroly 1 lb. margarine and 1 lb. brown sugar. Add 12 well beaten eggs and 4½ cups cake flour sifted with 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cloves. Add to fruits and nuts; mix well.

Decorate cake.

Fit for a king.

3 Pour into well greased pans lined with greased heavy brown paper. Place pan of water in the oven. Bake at 250 degrees for 2 to 3 hours, depending on size of cakes. Thirty minutes before done, remove cakes from oven, brush with unbeaten egg white and decorate. Return to oven. [TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

4. If you're looking for a simply elegant cake packed with fruits and nuts, moist and non-crumbling, this is your cake! To store, cool cakes, peel off brown paper, wrap in wine moistened cloth, then in waxed paper. Keep in tightly covered metal box. (Makes 11 lbs.)

Fur Trimmed Accessories Tops in Luxury

BY REA SEEGER.

Fur trimmed costume accessories designed for fall and winter suits and coats are the last word in flattering luxury. There are breathtaking gloves cuffed in leopard, mink, silky Persian lamb in gray or black, or in thick nutria and beaver. They unquestionably are the most sensational gloves ever displayed. The cost is rather startling, but what these accessories do for any dull suit is something of a marvel. The most expensive are the leopard cuffed models. The leopard fur is a good six inches deep and the circumference close to 20 inches. Less costly gloves are trimmed with bands or coin dot applique of flat fur.

Ascots of striped satin have a dozen tails of mink or ermine at the end. There are some with diagonal bands at each end. There also is a long scarf, with fur ends tied in a huge chest bow, so the fur ends act as a contrast to the vee line of a jacket or coat.

Blouses made with soft fur bows at the throat, have the same tail fringe effect. Mink is the most popular fur for this purpose. Most of the blouses are of soft gleaming satin in bright colors, with the fur for contrast.

Bags of small, easy to carry size, and the larger models are luxuriant with fur bands and tails. Pouch affairs have bands in horizontal patterns, featuring mink, beaver, nutria, or Persian lamb in gray, brown, or black. Other bags have fur tail trims along the outer edges. Sometimes the fur tails are fastened in clusters of three or six. The fur is smoothly teamed with hats, gloves, scarfs, and blouses, also flatteringly accented with fur or the same pelts.

Fifth Presentation Added to Tribune's Annual Style Show

Disappointed applicants for tickets to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's 1944 American Fashions show, originally limited to four presentations on the afternoons and evenings of Oct. 5 and 6, will be glad to know that a fifth show has been added. It will be held at 8:30 Wednesday, Oct. 4, and like the others it will be staged in the W-G-N studio theater.

Tickets will be $2, and mail orders should be sent as soon as possible. All checks should be made out to American Fashions, Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., 435 N. Michigan av., Chicago 11, Ill.

Several hundred money orders for tickets were returned to senders after the two matinee and two evening performances were sold out. It was announced yesterday that people whose money orders had been returned should note the fact in requests, for they will be taken care of first.

This will be THE TRIBUNE's 5th annual show. It is a $5,000 competition and has attracted fashion artists from all over the country. Mrs. Grace Pickering, fashion authority who has made the annual contests authoritative style events, has described the entries this year as typically American.

At least 35 creations will be modeled at the shows. The designers of them will receive a selections prize of $50. All of the models will then compete for the grand prizes: $2,000 for first place, $1,000 for second, and $500 for third.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Glazed Pecan Rolls.
[About 1 dozen large rolls.]

1 cake compressed yeast
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons lukewarm water
½ cup scalded milk
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
½ cup mashed potatoes
1 egg, well beaten
2½ cups flour
¼ cup butter or margarine [about]
¾ cup brown sugar
Cinnamon
24 pecan halves
¼ cup chopped pecans

Combine crumbled yeast with the teaspoon of sugar and the lukewarm water. To scalded milk add sugar, salt, and shortening. When shortening has melted, stir in mashed potatoes. Combine with yeast mixture when lukewarm. Add beaten egg and enough flour to make a very soft dough. Beat well. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Roll out to rectangle about ¼ inch thick. Spread with about half the butter, melted. Sprinkle with some of the brown sugar and the cinnamon. Place remaining butter and brown sugar, with pecan halves in bottoms of muffin tins. Sprinkle chopped pecans over dough, roll up as for jelly roll and cut in 1 to 1½ inch slices. Place cut side down in prepared muffin tins and let rise. Bake in moderately hot [375 degrees] oven for about 15 to 20 minutes. JEAN E. MCCURDY.

Jewish Hymn Marks Opening of Yom Kippur

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The hymn, "Kol Nidre," opened Yom Kippur services last night in all synagogues and temples thruout the city. This hymn, described by Dr. Louis Binstock, of Temple Sholom, as a "soulful melody, full of awe, despair, and yet, withal, serenity and hope," is also a prayer, asking that all vows and oaths during the year be absolved and forgiven.

"This absolution," said Dr. Binstock, applies only to vows between man and God, and does not in any way apply to an obligation between man and man. "Kol Nidre" came into its special significance during the days of the Spanish persecution of the Jews. Many were forcibly converted to Christianity and took vows to that faith and against their own.

"But most of them could not change the inward bent of their hearts by the outward expression of their lips, and they continued to practice Judaism in secret. These Marranos, as they were called, would assemble, especially on Yom Kippur, in some concealed place, to take advantage of the "Kol Nidre" prayer to renounce their vows and to ask God's forgiveness for this sin."

Dr. Louis L. Mann, of Chicago Sinai temple, told his Yom Kippur congregation last night that human nature being what it is, there will always be need for repentance. He asserted that the present day war against religion has been turned against the Jew in particular.

"Judaism," said Dr. Mann "became a psychological fixation for the destruction of the Judeo-Christian civilization. The recent book, 'The Fight Against God,' reveals the challenge of neo-paganism to the supremacy of a moral law, the inviolability of personality, and the equality of opportunity.

"There are, however, hopeful signs. Christians, at the risk of their lives, kept Jews in hiding to shield them from premature death thruout Europe. The Pope himself concealed Jews in the Vatican while the Germans were in control of Rome. Brotherhood born in war will flourish in peace!"

Dr. Mann announced Sinai temple's "Farewell Festival," will be held Sunday night. The present building has been sold. A new temple is planned after the war at Cornell av. and 51st st.

Opened March 5, 1912 with Dr. Emil G. Hirsch as rabbi, Sinai temple has had many distinguished civil leaders among its members, including Gov. Horner, Julius Rosenwald, Joseph Byfield, Milton Florsheim, S. W. Straus, Oscar Foreman, and M. E. Greenbaum.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Approximately 1,600 students have enrolled in 42 schools of nursing in the Chicago area for the fall term, Mary Elizabeth Falk, state procurement officer for the United States cadet nurse corps, has reported. The figure includes enrollments in schools in Oak Park, Evanston, and Evergreen Park.

The majority of the new nursing students, Miss Falk said, are members of the corps which, thru funds alloted by the Bolton law, subsidizes tuition, board and lodging, uniforms, and allowances of students who, in turn, pledge their services, on graduation, to essential civilian or military nursing, in order that vacancies left by graduate nurses who have gone into the army and navy may be filled.

In the class of 19 which will be graduated at 8 p. m. today from the school of nursing of Provident hospital, are five members of the United States cadet nurse corps. All of the latter will enter essential nursing in return for their government sponsored nursing education.

The graduation exercises will take place in the Lamson auditorium, 5034 Vincennes av. Stanley R. Clague, secretary of Modern Hospital magazine, and a member of the recruiting committee of the National Nursing Council for War Service, will be the speaker.

A total of 69 cadet nurses now are in training at the hospital. Thirty-four of these entered the school this month. Ground already has been broken for a new nurses' home at Provident to accommodate a greater number of cadet nurses. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy at the end of December.

Mrs. Thomas F. Finigen has been reëlected president of the Mothers of Flying Army Officers of America. More than 200 mothers of army air forces commissioned men now are registered with the group, whose membership, at the time it was organized in February, 1942, was only ten.

Service projects have grown with the organization, and now include contributions to a fund maintained at Vaughan General hospital for purchasing textbooks and personal items for men whose stay in the hospital is too short to permit their waiting for such supplies from regular sources. Currently, the mothers are packing Christmas boxes.

There are 18 gold star mothers in the membership, and 25 whose sons have been reported missing. Mrs. Martin Young, founder and first president, is the mother of Capt. Martin W. Young, missing in the Asiatic theater since May.

One of the specialized jobs at the Great Lakes Naval Training center is being performed by a woman for the first time. Seaman 1st Class Louise Kepler is the first WAVE to act as chauffeur for Capt. R. R. M. Emmet, commander of the station, and officers on his staff.

Lake City Woman's Club Will Fete District Head

Mrs. David C. Slagle, 1st district president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will be a special guest of the Lake City Woman's club at a luncheon and card party at 12:30 p. m. today in the Morrison hotel.

INSTALMENT IX.

ANOTHER GLASS SPLINTER.

The coroner leaned forward. "Did it occur to you at the time, or has it occurred to you since, that Mr. Harsch had any thought of taking his own life?"

"O, no—he wouldn't!"

"Have you any reason for saying that?"

"Yes. He talked of working with Mr. Madoc—he asked me if I would help him if he decided to do that. And he rang up to make an appointment for next day with a busy man. He was punctilious and considerate for other people's time and—feelings. He would never have made that appointment if he hadn't been meaning to keep it."

The coroner looked at her for a moment. Then he said,

"The pistol you found lying beside Mr. Harsch—had you ever seen it before?"

"O, no."

"Did you know that he possessed a pistol?"

"No."

"Thank you, Miss Meade." He sat back in his chair and said, "Call Mr. Madoc!"

Janice went back to her seat. The professor was already striding up the aisle. By the time she was once more facing the platform, Mr. Madoc was refusing to be sworn.

"You are an agnostic?"

In his best lecturing voice Madoc replied.

"Certainly not. I read my Bible. If you were to read yours you would be aware that the taking of an oath is forbidden—'Let your communication be yea, yea, and nay, nay. Whatsoever is more cometh of evil'—Matthew, V. 37."

The coroner coughed, and said rather dryly.

"You may affirm, if you wish it."

"I have no desire to participate in any of these perfectly meaningless forms. Do you suppose they would prevent me from perjuring myself if I had made up my mind to do so?"

"Am I to understand that you have some objection to answering truthfully the questions which will be put to you?"

"Certainly not. I am a truthful man—my yea is yea, and my nay, nay. They will be neither more nor less so because I have or have not recited any of this gabble."

"Mr. Madoc, I must ask you to respect the court."

"I respect what is worthy of respect. I respect justice. Honor to whom honor is due. I have made my protest, and am now willing to affirm."

The village listened spellbound whilst he did so.

Having completed the meaningless form, Mr. Madoc flung himself into the chair set for Janice, thrust his hands into his pockets and leaned back. To questions as to Mr. Harsch's position in the household, he replied briefly that he had lodged at Prior's End for four years. He was on the footing of a friend, but he paid his way. Their work was widely different, and each had his own laboratory.

He was then asked whether there had been any change in Mr. Harsch's manner on the Tuesday evening, to which he replied with the utmost brevity.

"No."

"He was just as usual?"

"Certainly."

"He was in the habit of going for a walk after supper?"

"He was."

"Did he say in your hearing that he was going to play the organ?"

"I believe he mentioned it."

"He was in the habit of playing the organ?"

"I don't know what you call a habit. He liked playing. He was a musician. He played when he had time."

The coroner took up one of the papers before him.

"Did Mr. Harsch possess a pistol?"

Evan Madoc took his right hand out of his pocket and said with a kind of angry face,

"I haven't the slightest idea!"

"You never saw one in his possession?"

"Certainly not!"

"He might easily have had one without your knowing it?"

"He might have had a dozen. I am not in the habit of rummaging in other people's boxes."

A constable laid something down upon the table.

"This is the pistol, Mr. Madoc. Have you ever seen it before?"

"I have not."

"Do you know what make it is?"

"German, I should say."

"You know something about firearms?"

"I disapprove of them. I am a pacifist. I spent some time in Germany a few years ago. I have seen pistols of this make there."

"Mr. Harsch might have possessed such a pistol?"

"Any one who had been in Germany might have possessed one. As to whether Michael Harsch did or did not, your guess is as good as mine."

He was again called to order, and appeared to consider himself dismissed. His chair made a rasping noise as he pushed it back and got to his feet. The coroner stopped him.

"I have not finished with you, Mr. Madoc. What were your relations with Mr. Harsch?"

"Host and guest—fellow scientists."

"You were on friendly terms?"

"Friendship is a big word. I do not use it lightly."

"You are begging the question, sir. I must ask you to answer it. Was there any quarrel between you and Mr. Harsch?"

"There was no quarrel."

"You were on friendly terms?"

"He was my friend."

Mr. Madoc was dismissed. He came striding to his seat and flung himself down upon it.

At the grating sound of the chair Garth looked sideways, and found himself presented with an excellent view of the sole of Mr. Madoc's left shoe, a well worn surface to which a rubber sole had been affixed. This, too, bore signs of wear. Some of the rubber had broken away. Glistening against this broken surface, a sizable splinter of glass took the light, and Garth Albany's eye.

Weddings Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Witold Melin are at home in Detroit, Mich., following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Marcella Schoenthaler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schoenthaler of Kenmore av. She was graduated from Northwestern university and studied at the Sorbonne in Paris. Mr. Melin's parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Melin of Detroit.

When Miss Alice Kathleen Riley and Gerard Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gerard Chapman of Hinsdale, were married last Saturday in St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Cloquet, Minn., the bridegroom's mother and his brother, Ralph Chapman of Brattleboro, Vt., were among the wedding guests. The bride, daughter of Mrs. Helen J. Miller of Ogden, Utah, was attended by Mrs. John Shields of Duluth, Minn., and Mr. Chapman was his brother's best man.

The former Miss Riley was graduated from the school of journalism at the University of Minnesota and Mr. Chapman from the Northwestern military and naval academy and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. After a wedding trip to Wisconsin, they will live in Cloquet, where Mr. Riley is engaged in chemical research.

Mercy High Auxiliary.

The Mothers' auxiliary of Mercy High school will give a card party tonight at the school.

Calkins Family Makes War Its Major Activity

of Miss Meincke will be midshipmen from the naval reserve school at Northwestern university. As the party is a supper-dance, it will provide the opportunity for numerous small dinners that night. Miss Meincke is a student at Pine Manor. The Meincke family spends each summer at Chatham, Mass.

Fortunately Lt. William John Hagenah Jr. of the naval air corps, who has been on assignments in South America, was at home last Saturday in Washington, D. C., "between trips" when his son, who has been named for him, was born at the Doctors' hospital. The baby's mother, the former Ada Blanche Wrigley, is a daughter of the Philip K. Wrigleys, who are grandparents for the first time. The baby has two great-grandmothers and a great-grandfather, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr. and the Bert L. Atwaters. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Hagenah of Glencoe.

Mrs. Ira C. Humphrey and Mrs. James R. Bremner will entertain at tea at 3 p. m. today at the Woman's Athletic club for Mrs. Alvin W. Jenkisson, president of the Chicago Drama league.

Wedding.

Miss Bette Barron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Barron of River Forest, and Lt. [j. g.] William Eli Ripley of the naval reserve will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the River Forest Presbyterian church, with a reception following in the Barron home. The bride's cap and the trimming on her veil will be made of rare duchess lace given to her by Mrs. Cady Jordan.

Mrs. Judson D. Fuller will serve as matron of honor, and Miss Gloria Angsten, Miss Philippa Daley, and Miss Ann Heath of Des Moines, Ia., as bridesmaids. Lt. Ripley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Ripley of Shaker Heights, O., will have his father as best man.

Miss Barron was graduated in 1943 from Smith college, and her fiancé, who just has returned from a year's sea duty, received his degree from Amherst college. After the wedding they will go to his new post at Tacoma, Wash.

Child Needs Opportunities for Learning

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright; 1944; By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: My little boy will be 3 years old in January," writes a mother. "He is an average child—healthy, happy, always active. So far I have not tried seriously to teach him much except in giving him suitable toys, encouraging him to talk more clearly, trying to teach him colors with some success, and a few other minor things.

"He has picture books, and I tell him stories but he is interested in these for only short periods at a time. His inclination is more for active play. I try to teach him to color objects with his crayons, but he prefers to scribble on everything and break the crayons into bits.

"As I do not know much about what to expect of a child at this age, I would greatly appreciate any advice or suggestions."

Teaching, as such, has no place in the young child's life. He's bent on finding out all there is to know about the world he's come into, and in the process of doing so he's learning as fast as he is able. About all we need to do is to make conditions favorable for this learning, that is, give him opportunity to satisfy his curiosity, answer his questions, be responsive to his play and interested in it, and provide the best channels for his ceaseless activity. That's a great deal.

To do this, we supply him with the right playthings, books, materials for manual activity, and plenty of outlet [or equipment] for this tremendous bodily energy he possesses and must use. If he rejects story telling wait a while. Pictures to look at may be enough for him. If he doesn't feel the urge to create his own pictures with pencil or crayon, let him alone, but definitely do not put him to filling in with color pencils set designs or pictures. His learning at this age has to be a spontaneous thing — something from within, reaching out, but we must of course satisfy and encourage it with response and materials, too.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Stringing Along.

Hebilly West, a gal engineer with an industrial designing company, ordered a new suit from her tailor. When it was delivered she couldn't find her way into the skirt. So she asked the tailor about it. Said he: "Zippers I ain't got. Hooks from eyes I ain't got. Bottons don't hold. So strings I put in." Sure enough—the opening of the skirt laces.

Lament in the Loop.

The WCG's throng thru the lobby,
Lissome, attractive, and nifty;
Hélas! All girls look pretty—
The looker being "aetat: fifty!"

Opposites.

Here is one for your game of "opposites-that-mean-the-same": What goes on here? What comes off here?

JOHN A. DAWSON.

And More Opposites.

How about:
I sure hope business will let up or
I sure hope business will let down
so I can get my vacation.

FRAOCH EILEEN.

Most Important Study.

If it throws any gleam of light on their pathways, I'd like to urge high school and college girls to study more mathematics. So often math courses are neglected by the girls altho mathematics is vital to clear, unmuddled thinking.

In this hasty, hit and run age, when we are deluged with inaccuracies and half truths, I find myself thankful to my math teacher, who taught me that there is no comparative degree of success in working out a mathematical problem — the answer is correct or incorrect. To her I owe my habit of halting every now and then and saying to myself: "Wait a minute—this isn't coming out right!" S. M.

The Information Desk.

A reader wants to know the names of successful women restaurant operators in Chicago. . . . "A WCG in the midst of a hectic day" stops to ask the Real Word Expert what he thinks about the word share—which means either to give or to take. . . . Jones Commercial High school is giving a free class in advanced Spanish on Monday and Wednesday evenings with an eye to post-war South American commerce. . . . Among the free for all classes and lectures don't overlook courses in English, public speaking, straight thinking, beginning Spanish, and beginning French—and many others—offered by the Shell School of Social Studies this fall. You can call Wabash 1159 for information. . . . Janice Enright, an American Airlines stewardess, interviewed on a radio program, said she got the stewardess idea from this column, which makes us feel we have our wings. . . . Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Helen G., Chicago.—Here's a tip my mother passed on to me—and I think she got it from her mother: If you find a blur, or whitish spot on a piece of furniture, spread a thick coating of vaseline over it, and leave for 15 or 20 hours. Then wipe off the vaseline, and the spot will have disappeared.

Mrs. Ed. T., Racine, Wis.—For the last 10 years I've been brushing any important papers, such as diplomas, etc., which I wanted to keep, with a little bit of gutta-percha solution. This solution, brushed lightly over front and back, keeps documents and papers free from mildew, which does seem to get into such articles, no matter how carefully you try to store them.

Tailored Frock

Stitching smartly outlines the rever collar line, the pockets, and the belt of this nicely tailored frock, which makes up as well in crepe or velveteen as it does in woolen. Front buttoning makes it easy to press. Style No. 2520 is designed for sizes 12 to 40. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, or 2¼ yards of 54 inch fabric.

Methodist Church Heads Confer on New Program

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26 (AP).—Thirty-three Methodist church bishops and 563 district superintendents opened a two day meeting today to discuss a crusade for Christ program authorized by the general conference May 3 in Kansas City.

This Frothy Film Good Only for Your Very Idlest Moments

"A WAVE, A WAC, AND A MARINE."

A Monogram picture, directed by Phil Karlstein, with Elyse Knox, Anne Gillis, Sally Eilers, Richard Lane, Marjorie Woodworth, Ramsay Ames, and Henny Youngman, and presented at the Oriental.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

To two pretty girls add a generous portion of slapstick, a couple of songs, a night club sequence, and a soupçon of plot. Mix gingerly without sifting or sorting, bake lightly—and you'll get "A WAVE, a WAC, and a Marine." An idle timer for your very idlest moment.

The plot of this piece of cotton candy is from the file marked "Mistaken Identity." But not for long. Nothing, in fact, is very long in this picture, which is probably its greatest virtue.

A Hollywood talent scout [Henny Youngman] is sent to New York to sign up two dames co-starring in a Broadway musical. He tangles with New York's taxi system — it couldn't happen in Chicago—arrives at the theater too late to see the show, and, misdirected to the stars' dressing room, signs up their understudies [Elyse Knox and Anne Gillis] instead.

A rival scout [Richard Lane] captures the real stars and when the mistake is discovered upon arriving in Hollywood, scout No. 1's boss [Sally Eilers] fires him. You can guess the rest, but in case you're not good at it, Miss Knox, who is beautiful, and Miss Gillis, who is clever, are booked by Mr. Youngman in a vacant spot at the Trocadero, he not knowing they can't sing or dance. [How come they were understudies in a Broadway musical is not explained]. Every one who is any one was there that night, and when the girls wow them with a straight dramatic act, which had never been done before in the history of Hollywood night clubs, their contract is reinstated and Mr. Youngman is vindicated.

But there's a cloud in every sky, and when Miss Knox receives word her Bill has been killed in the Pacific she joins the WAC and in sympathy her partner becomes a WAVE. Then an agreeable producer offers to set everything right by shooting the girls' sequences in the new picture during their post-induction furlough, and in all ends with a jamboree in the producer's office. O, yes, the marine, Mr. Lane joins the leathernecks, tho it has nothing to do with the plot.

Marines to Give Program for Woman's Club Today

Capt. Arthur A. Engel, head of the United States marine corps public relations bureau here, will speak before the Chicago Woman's club at 11 a. m. today in Curtiss hall. Six marines who have been in combat overseas also will participate in the program. Mrs. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, president of the club, has arranged for the marines' appearance at this, the last summer meeting on the club's schedule. Mrs. Chamberlin is the mother of Maj. William Charles Chamberlin, who commanded an assault unit of marine troops at Tarawa and received the navy cross for heroism in that action.

TIGERS, BROWNS WIN; STILL TIED FOR LEAD

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN a Los Angeles wrestler was hauled up on a charge of attempting to evade the draft he told the judge he just "didn't like the idea of hurting any one." . . . "Doesn't wrestling hurt?" his honor inquired. . . . "Not the way I throw 'em," replied the grappler. . . . Johnny Baker, who kicked the field goal that gave Southern California a 16 to 14 football victory over Notre Dame in 1931, is a physical training instructor at the Moses Lake army air field in the State of Washington. . . . Walt Judnich, the former Brown slugger, hit five home runs in a game in Hawaii recently. . . . The New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association have had seven managers in the last seven seasons, but Fresco Thompson is set to return in 1945 for his second consecutive year. . . . Thompson's team made a great finish, knocking Kiki Cuyler's Atlanta entry out of the pennant battle in the final weeks. . . . Golf championships in Muscatine, Ia., are a family affair. . . . Three weeks ago Dr. E. L. Emerson won the local country club title for men and last week Mrs. Emerson carried home the women's trophy. . . . Al Tolmich, Wayne university high hurdler who once held the I. C.-4-A title, now a lieutenant at the Portland (Ore.) army air base, turned in the fastest time on record for the physical fitness dash. . . . Dink Templeton, maker of track and field champions at Stanford university, has resigned his bowling alley publicity job to assume a similar post with a San Francisco professional football team. . . . Dick Rasmussen, who won high school athletic fame in Tacoma, Wash., and Bill Cameron of Flint, Mich., also a prep flash, have signed with Shipstad and Johnson's Ice Follies of 1945. . . .

Pepper Martin is looking forward to a possible Cardinal-Tiger world series with special interest. . . . Martin is the sole survivor of the two clubs from the same two cities which participated in the famous 1934 post-season struggle. . . . Twenty-two Tigers were eligible for the series, including Catchers Mickey Cochrane and Ray Hayworth; Pitchers Elden Auker, Tommy Bridges, Alvin Crowder, Carl Fischer, Luke Hamlin, Elon Hogsett, Fred Marberry, Schoolboy Rowe, and Vic Sorrell; Infielders Henry Greenberg, Charley Gehringer, Marvin Owen, Billy Rogell, Herman Clifton, and Heinie Schuble, and Outfielders Goose Goslin, Pete Fox, Gerald Walker, Joyner White, and Frank Doljack. . . . Three of the outfielders, one pitcher and a catcher still are in the big leagues, but none is with the Tigers. . . . Fox is with the Red Sox, Walker and White are with the Reds, Hamlin is with the Athletics, and Hayworth is with Brooklyn. . . . With Ceferino Garcia and Ken Overlin both staging ring comebacks in California, fans of that state soon may see a resumption of the feud in which Ken beat Garcia for the title in New York.

Brown Autumn.

These are the days of mellow song,
For which brown autumn waited long,
To run her fingers thru the hair
Of fiery trees, and to prepare
A golden harvest in rich grain,
Or quench the thirsty fields with rain.
Her rivals, summer time and spring,
Have cleared away—now she will sing
A melody of colors, warm,
And all of nature will transform.
This is her fling—and gay her tune,
That gilds the very frigid moon.
Her passion's fierce, her laugh is bold,
Yet nature mourns when she grows old.

WILDCATS TEST LINE AGAINST BADGER PLAYS

Wisconsin 'T' Also Gets Attention.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern university's football players, 49 of whom saw action last Friday night in the overwhelming defeat of DePauw, drilled on defensive plays yesterday afternoon in preparation for their opening conference game Saturday in Dyche stadium against Wisconsin.

The Wildcats spent a portion of their practice period yesterday defending against an attack from the T formation as exemplified by the 11 young men who took the field last Friday night as a unit to play 10 minutes against DePauw. That unscheduled appearance, Coach Lynn Waldorf explained yesterday, was reward for diligent preparation of an attack the Wildcats themselves use sparingly.

"We hope to be prepared for any T plays Wisconsin uses Saturday as well as other methods of attack they have used in recent seasons," Waldorf said. "But as far as knowing many details of Wisconsin's personnel and style, we are going into this opening conference game hoping we'll guess right.

Potentially Strong Line.

"The DePauw game, despite the score, was of benefit to us," Waldorf continued. "Normally this would not be true, but so many of our players are inexperienced that this was the exception."

Northwestern's squad—82 were in uniform last Friday night—still is likely to produce a line comparable to any in the Western conference. In the main, however, reserves are inexperienced and Bob Funderburg, sophomore V-12 student, will be the only letterman in the starting backfield.

Since the start of fall practice three weeks ago, Northwestern has lost 10 players by ineligibility, six of them navy men. The four civilians are gone for the season but since this is examination week for the navy students, some of the navy group may regain eligibility. Other navy men, of course, may be dropped for the next month.

Doyle May Be Available.

Injuries also will prevent Frank Clawson and Ben Schadler, lettermen quarter backs, from playing against Wisconsin. Jack Doyle, civilian quarter back from Milwaukee, who suffered a fractured rib more than two weeks ago, may be available this week.

John Yungwirth, left half back from Fond du Lac, Wis., who performed capably in the opening game, still is leading the candidates for this key offense position.

WEBER TO LEAD BADGERS.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26 [Special].—Pat Weber, left end and one of the few veterans on the University of Wisconsin football squad, will captain the Badgers in their season's opener against Northwestern on Saturday, Coach Harry Stuhldreher said at the end of a scrimmage this afternoon.

The Badgers were minus their regular quarter back, Allen Shafer, but the remainder of the starting lineup was the same as that used for the past several days.

EAGLES DEFEAT BOSTON, 28 TO 7, BEFORE 19,815

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26 (AP).—Scoring in each period, the Philadelphia Eagles defeated the Boston Yanks, 28 to 7 as National league football returned to Boston tonight after a seven year lapse. The game, regular season opener for both teams, drew 19,815.

ANNOUNCE SITES FOR TRIBUNE'S BOWLING SCHOOL

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Prof. Ned Day, the one man faculty of the free bowling school which THE TRIBUNE will open on Oct. 12 in connection with the fourth annual All-Star tournament, already has prepared the major portion of the schedule with which he will teach tenpin fundamentals to beginners and iron out kinks for regular bowlers.

Mort Luby, who has been Day's manager in the arrangement of the school's curriculum, yesterday announced the following list of dates and sites which definitely have been set as classrooms for the school:

Oct. 12, 13, 14—Bryn Mawr Recreation, 2015 E. 71st st.
Oct. 15—Bensinger's, 29 W. Randolph st.
Oct. 16—Goldammer's Twentieth Century, 3253 N. Cicero av.
Oct. 17—Bowlium, Sheridan rd. and Montrose av.
Oct. 18, 25—Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway.
Oct. 19, 20, 23—Stevenson's Recreation, 757 E. 79th st.
Oct. 21—Hyde Park Recreation, 5122 S. Lake Park av.
Oct. 24, 26, 28—Park Manor Bowling Center, 100 E. 75th st.
Nov. 1—Milo Wiesner Recreation, 823 W. 35th st.

In addition to the above roster, a series of lessons is being arranged at other establishments thruout the city. Day will return on Oct. 12 from a three day visit to New York, where he will make a movie short on bowling, in time to give his first lesson at the Bryn Mawr Recreation, operated by Bill Wightman and Al Engelman.

Plan Three-Hour Sessions.

His daily program will consist of a three hour instruction in the fundamentals of the sport, in which he will go from alley to alley giving tips to those beginners who are rolling at the time of his appearance. In the evenings he will return to mix with league bowlers, after which he will engage in five-game matches with outstanding stars selected by the proprietor of the plant in which he is teaching.

Day will defend his national individual match game championship in the fourth annual all-star tournament conducted by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., from Dec. 2 thru 10 in the Auditorium Service Men's center. The committee in charge of the tournament, headed by Chairman Barney Hochstadter, already has contacted proprietors and coöperating newspapers thruout the country in connection with local eliminations.

Yanks Still in Race; Defeat White Sox, 9-5

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox became self-conscious after building up a 4 to 0 lead against the New York Yankees in Comiskey park last night—blew the lead in the fifth inning, went behind 7 to 4 in the sixth, and lost in the end, 9 to 5.

Thus the Yankees stayed in the pennant race mathematically three games behind the tied Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns, with five games to go for all contenders.

Yanks Can't Win Alone.

The Yankees will face the Sox this afternoon, then will move to St. Louis for four single afternoon games with the Browns. The Tigers will finish up with the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon, then will receive the tail end Washington Senators for four single matches to end the season.

If the Yanks win this afternoon from the Sox and take four straight from the Browns, they still would fail to win the American league championship IF the Tigers win three of their remaining five games.

Third Straight in Series.

The Sox fadeout last night gave the New Yorkers three straight in the series, and lifted the Yankees' edge for the season to 11 to 10. At one time the Sox enjoyed an 8 to 2 advantage. If the Yankees win this afternoon they will duplicate the ratio of the 1943 series 12-10.

CUBS WIN, 15-0; THEN LOSE TO PHILS, 10 TO 1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26.—By way of celebrating the formal clinching of fourth place money, a detail taken care of when the Reds walloped the Giants during the afternoon, the Cubs did everything but shoot out the Shibe park lights this evening in the first act of the twilight-night double header with the woebegone Phillies, winning, 15 to 0. But the second act was a Philly rodeo in which they fashioned a 10 to 1 score to break a nine game losing streak.

Twenty assorted hits boomed off the Cubs' bats in the first game. Al Gerheauser departed in less than two innings under a burden of five runs. The Cubs' prolific scoring failed to slow down Hank Wyse, who went on to a four hit success for his 15th of the year. Then Vern Kennedy reversed the procedure by throttling the Cubs on five hits, the Phils meanwhile having a gay time with what was thrown at them by Bob Chipman and Hy Vandenberg.

Four Philly hurlers toiled in the first game. Leading the Cubs' attack was Phil Cavarretta with two triples and a pair of singles.

Trout Beats A's, 6-0, for 27th Victory

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26 (AP).—Paul [Dizzy] Trout, making his 27th victory of the season his seventh shutout, today blanked the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 0, and the Detroit Tigers moved a half game ahead of the St. Louis Browns only to drop back into a tie when the Browns won tonight.

The Tigers belted Luke Hamlin for 11 hits and all their runs in four innings, Dick Wakefield bouncing his 12th home run off the flag pole 430 feet out in center field and Rudy York hammering his 17th homer into the upper deck in left field with one on base.

York Drives in Four Runs.

Trout, shutting out the Athletics for the fourth time this year, spaced six hits—four of them coming after two were out—and never was in serious trouble. This was his third game in seven days.

Carl Scheib, rookie right hander who relieved Hamlin in the fifth, blanked the Tigers on two hits the rest of the way. Jim Pruett, who reported yesterday from Milwaukee, replaced Frank Hayes to catch Scheib.

Six of Detroit's 13 hits went for extra bases, York driving in four runs with his homer and a single.

A crowd of 9,338 fans boosted Detroit's home attendance this year to 855,907 paid.

It's Newhouser Today.

Frank [Stubby] Overmire, No. 3 man on the Tigers' pitching staff, disclosed after warming up today that a sore arm will prevent his facing the Philadelphia Athletics tomorrow.

Overmire, who has won 11 and lost 11, told Manager Steve O'Neill that he was not in top shape and suggested that O'Neill nominate another hurler for the good of the club.

O'Neill said he would call on Hal Newhouser, winner of 27 games and beaten only nine times. Buck Newsome will pitch for Philadelphia.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26 [Special].—Chet Laabs raced home from second base on an infield hit in the first inning tonight and this run was all that 32 year old Sigmund Jakucki needed. The result was a 1 to 0 victory for the Browns over the Red Sox, putting St. Louis back into a tie with the Detroit Tigers for the American league lead. The Tigers whipped the Athletics in an afternoon game, 6 to 0.

Jakucki's victory, his 12th of the campaign, also was the seventh consecutive Brownie success. It was the 10th straight loss for the Red Sox.

And Chet Races Home.

Laabs had been the hero last night with a home run which was all Nelson Potter needed to win. Tonight he substituted speed for power when the Browns made their only dent in the crafty pitching job offered by Mike Ryba, Boston's 39 year old right hander.

Don Gutteridge opened by walking. He stopped at second on Mike Kreevich's single. After Gutteridge was caught off second, Laabs forced Kreevich. Vernon Stephens drew a pass and Laabs moved up to second. When Milt Byrnes beat out a single behind first base, Laabs dashed to the plate.

Jakucki Avoids Trouble.

There were only two other hits off Ryba the remainder of the game. The Red Sox reached Jakucki for five singles and had him in deep trouble in two late innings. Jim Bucher and Roy Partee singled with two out in the seventh, but Laabs took Skeeter Newsome's long fly. In the eighth a walk and a St. Louis error, followed by a passed ball and an intentional base on balls to Bob Johnson filled the bases. Jim Tabor ended the threat by hitting a fly to Byrnes.

The two teams will end their series tomorrow afternoon, after which the Browns will take on the Yankees in the four games which will conclude the regular season.

Open Series Sale Today.

Before tonight's victory the Browns announced that, starting tomorrow, they will accept mail orders for world series tickets. Ticket sales will be limited to the St. Louis metropolitan area, because of an office of defense transportation request, club officials said.

Requests must be limited to two seats each at $37.50 and must be made by mail only. No reserve seats will be available for single games. About 12,000 tickets will be available.

THREE SWEDISH STARS PLAN TO COMPETE IN U. S.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 26 (AP).—Gunder Hagg, Sweden's most noted runner, wants to meet Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student, in a series of indoor races in the United States early this winter.

Hagg, Arne Andersson, another distance star, and Haakan Lidman, a hurdler, earlier today accepted invitations from the United States treasury department to compete in the interest of war bond selling programs.

Andersson on July 17 ran the world's fastest mile, being timed in 4:01.6, three seconds faster than Haag's officially recognized record for the distance and almost five seconds faster than Dodds' 4:06.4 indoor mark.

HAGG'S BOSS PROTESTS.

MALMOE, Sweden, Sept. 26 (AP).—Stora Orfen, Gunder Hagg's boss in the haberdashery where the Swedish track star works, refused today to give him permission to go to the United States on a war bond selling tour. "Hagg has been running nine months," Orfen said. "It is time now for him to sell ties, suits and shirts.." Orfen said Hagg has signed a three year contract to work for him.

CROFT SUFFERS BROKEN NOSE IN LEAGUE DEBUT

Abe Croft, the Bears' rookie end from Southern Methodist university, was initiated the hard way in the National Football league, it was learned yesterday. A bash he suffered on the nose in Sunday's 42 to 28 defeat at Green Bay was of bone breaking proportions.

The news of Croft's broken nose was somewhat counter-balanced by the discovery that Al Grygo, freshman half back, did not suffer two broken ribs, as first reported. They merely are bruised. Still another freshman, Tackle Jake Sweeney, is limping from a leg injury. Otherwise, only the Bears' pride is hurt as they prepare for Sunday's exhibition game with the Washington Redskins in Wrigley field.

From Pittsburgh came the report that Johnny Butler, star half back of the Pitt-Cards, suffered a rib injury which will keep him out of Sunday's exhibition with the New York Giants in Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, the Packers are preparing for Sunday's contest against the Detroit Lions in Milwaukee.

BY JIMMINY WINS 52D LAWRENCE IN 2 HORSE RACE

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Alfred P. Parker's By Jimminy strengthened his claim to the 3 year old turf title today by soundly whipping William Ziegler's Bounding Home in a two horse race for the 52d Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park today.

The $13,850 he picked up for his easiest triumph of the year boosted By Jimminy's earnings to $162,688.

MILLER TO JOIN NOTRE DAME'S COACHING STAFF

1943 Star to Assist with Back Field.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 26 [Special].—Ed McKeever, Notre Dame's director of athletics, announced today that Creighton Miller, half back on the 1943 Irish eleven, would join the coaching staff beginning next Monday. Miller will assist McKeever in coaching the backs.

The Irish continued to work on defense against Pittsburgh plays this afternoon, but after the workout McKeever said he was "very disappointed." To add to McKeever's woes, two possible starters against Pittsburgh on Saturday were unable to practice and may not be able to play this week. Bill O'Connor, left end, has an infected heel, and Elmer Angsman, full back, has been inactive the last two days because of a leg infection.

PREDICT 50,000 AT PITT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 26 (AP).—A crowd of at least 50,000 for the 13th meeting of the University of Pittsburgh and Notre Dame Saturday was predicted today by Pitt. Athletic Director Jimmy Hagan. Favorable weather probably will send the figure to the 60,000 mark set at the Pitt-Irish game last year, he added.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy sent the Panthers thru hard scrimmages today and plans another session, tomorrow.

ILLINI LOSE 3D CENTER.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 26 [Special].—Pete Blom of Woodville, Wis., former end who had volunteered for a trial at center, suffered a fractured wrist in scrimmage today and is lost to the Illinois football squad for the rest of the season.

This puts three Illinois centers on the shelf, others being Emil Tomanek of Cicero and George Bujan of Christopher, Ill. Tomanek will be out for a month with a hand injury. Bujan may be able to play this week. The best of the remaining centers who have been moved from other positions so far is Alex Propkio, Gary, Ind., full back.

PURDUE WORKS ON PASSES.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 26 [Special].—Aerial tactics came in for the main share of attention this afternoon as Coach Cecil Isbell started speeding up preparations for Purdue's home football opener with Marquette on Saturday.

With Ray Schultz and Jim Walley taking turns on the throwing end, Isbell sought to increase the effectiveness of the overhead attack and at the same time devoted considerable attention to pass defense.

Isbell indicated that he would stand pat on the array of backs who last week outgained Great Lakes on the ground by nearly a 2 to 1 margin. The group includes Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, Ed Cody, Chalmers Elliott, and Stanley Dubicki.

Lambeau Sees Hard Road for New Leagues

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Earl [Curly] Lambeau, master of the Green Bay Packers, sees almost unlimited prosperity after the war—for the National Football league, of which his team is very much a member since its 42 to 28 victory over the Bears Sunday. As for the various new professional leagues which are popping up here and there, Curly isn't so sure.

"Of one thing I'm certain," says Lambeau, "and this is that there will be only one big league for seasons to come. The new organizations will have to suffer growing pains, just as we did for many years. If they build along the right lines there's no reason why, in time, they can't develop into big time class.

Long Haul Ahead.

Lambeau was commenting on the newly formed All-America conference, which has ambitious plans, and two or three obscure groups which even envision stretching their boundaries as far west as Honolulu.

"Let's be sensible about this," proposed the Green Bay veteran, whose team joined the National league as a charter member in 1921. "Every club in our circuit except the Boston Yanks has a reserve list of 60 players. When the hundreds of athletes are released from military service, each team will be three deep in every position. Now just how is any rival, starting from scratch, going to match such a setup? It's impossible. That's why it's going to be a long haul for the new ones, with a lot of headaches along the way."

At the same time, Lambeau concedes that the tremendous growth of professional football strongly indicates there is room for at least another high class league. He is just being frank about the job ahead. He would welcome another big league as a natural development of the sport, believing it would add much to professional football.

Will Need a Few Houdinis.

"Football's a sport, that's true, but it also is a business," he philosophized. "The same common sense prevails in each. There are pitfalls in professional football which will trip those who are new to the game. They will make mistakes as we made mistakes. They will have to go thru the mill—just as we send football teams thru scrimmage. This probably comes under the heading of learning the hard way. A new league would have to boast a group of Houdinis to click from the start."

Lambeau emphasized the necessity that operators of new teams fulfill their obligations. Most of all he hopes that salary wars will be avoided, pointing out that in the past promises of fat salaries to players by irresponsible promoters have hurt the athletes involved.

"I look for a lot of money to be lost by a lot of teams," said Lambeau. "There will be a lot of headaches, too. I know. And the headaches continue even when you're on top."

Lambeau was asked his reaction to the recent signing of Lt. Glenn Dobbs, the great half back from Tulsa, by the New York group in the All-America conference. Dobbs, a year ago, was selected by the Chicago Cardinals in the National league's annual draft of college players. He had not signed a contract and was considered fair game by the new conference, which has announced a policy of hands off on players and coaches under contract in the National league.

"I think," replied Curly, "that had the Packers selected Dobbs, we'd see to it that Dobbs played with the Packers when he is free to play professional football."

SKATE SHOW ON WHEELS KEEPS FANS IN WHIRL

"Skating Vanities of 1945," a musical on wheels, opened a six night stand in the Chicago stadium last night amid a panorama of rhythmic skating that ranged from the sublime to the deliberately ridiculous. All of it was thrilling for the crowd of 15,000.

The peripatetic skaters, with acrobatics, trick skating, and varied dances, amazed onlookers, most of whom probably had heretofore thought of the roller skate only as an article for youthful pleasure. Vividly costumed, the cast of 126 put on a two and a half hour show.

The belle of the revue, Gloria Nord, made her first appearance in a rug cutting solo [roller skating version] to the accompaniment of the St. Louis Blues and followed with three more appearances.

High point of the first act was a circus scene, which included an aerial exhibition by a quartet of feminine stars billed as Herzogs. After the intermission, a series of numbers with a Texas range motif was followed by a group of closing waltz and jive performances. Sharing honors with Miss Nord in colorful dancing were Dolly Durkin and Frank Foster with their bolero, and tap skater Count Le Roy.

HOCKEY IS HERE! HAWKS READY TO START TRAINING

Paul Thompson, beginning his fifth campaign as manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, arrived yesterday morning to begin preparations for the training session of the National Hockey league squad. Thompson will greet the largest practice squad in Blackhawk history when it assembles Sunday in the Hibbing, Minn., training quarters.

Thompson himself will head for Hibbing on Friday night. He expects to have traveling company in such veterans as Mike Karakas, Earl Siebert, Johnny Gottselig, Mush March, and Bill Thoms. The Hawks will remain in Hibbing until Oct. 24, returning here the next day for final drills for the season opener against the Toronto Maple Leafs in the Chicago Stadium on Oct. 29.

YOUNG MEN—16 to 26
Become Manufacturers' Engineers and Keymen under Junior Co-operative Engineering College Plan offered by CYO
and
CO-OPERATING MANUFACTURERS
The plan has two divisions—
A
3 YEAR CO-OPERATING ENGINEERING COURSE
Available for qualified high school graduates. Course calls for three years; 18 months actually at work training in industry and 18 months of school covering 4 semesters of basic college engineering subjects. Trainees will be paid for time spent working in industry. School tuition at normal cost.
B
2 YEAR PREPARATORY COURSE
The last 2 years of technical high school preparatory for engineering. Enrollment limited to those who have completed at least 2 years of high school. Can also be used by applicants for direct admission to "A" section to make up deficiencies in entrance requirements.
Screening tests now being administered weekly on Saturdays for admission to fall term starting OCTOBER 2. Enrollments accepted continuously thereafter.

CONTEMPT WRIT VOTED AGAINST FUND COLLECTOR

Defied House Demand for Names of Donors.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, was cited for contempt of congress today by the house committee investigating political campaign expenditures.

Chairman Anderson [D., N. M.] announced that the action, taken over the protest of Rep. Church [R., Ill.], the only Republican member present, resulted from Rumely's defiance of a subpena by the house group calling for a list of the financial contributors to the constitutional committee, which was founded by Publisher Frank Gannett. The subpena asked for the names of those contributing $100 or more.

Rumely, in defying the subpena, told the committee yesterday that his organization, which is campaigning for government by democratic processes, was a "nonpolitical" group and not subject to inquiry as a political campaign organization.

Not Political, Says Church.

Church told reporters after today's closed committee session that he had found no political activity by Rumely's group and no violation of the law in its refusal to name its contributors.

The Illinois congressman said that the organization had submitted a detailed report of its expenditures and had offered to let the house committee members see the list of contributors "confidentially" at its New York headquarters. The figures showed contributions of $95,197.95 by 6,470 donors between Jan. 1 and Sept. 2 of this year.

Anderson said the contempt citation against Rumely was referred to House Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.], who is expected to refer it to the United States district attorney's office here for presentation to a federal grand jury.

Voted by Democrats.

The contempt action was approved by the four Democratic committee members, Anderson, Sparkman [Ala.], Murphy [Pa.], and Gathings [Ark.]. The two other Republican members, Andresen [Minn.] and Brown [O.], were out of town, but Chairman Anderson said Brown concurred in the action.

Anderson said his committee will continue to investigate the Rumely group to determine whether contributors have deducted their donations as business expenses in income tax returns, instead of classifying them as political contributions, which are nondeductible.

DOCTORS' CHIEF HAILS NEW ERA IN U. S. MEDICINE

Medical science, stimulated by war time necessity, will save more lives in the next few months than have been lost in the entire war, Dr. Lyell C. Kinney, San Diego, Cal., said yesterday in his inaugural address as president of the American Roentgen Ray society, meeting in joint session with the Radiological Society of North America in the Palmer House.

"The war has brought a new era in American medicine," he said. "Stimulated by the war effort and backed by the funds and force of a government at war, the best efforts of our medical schools, hospitals, and allied sciences have been focused on medical research to save lives and prevent disease. The increasing tempo of that research has placed medicine decades ahead of its position on Sept. 1, 1939."

Dr. Lawrence Reynolds of Detroit, Mich., delivering the Carman-Caldwell lecture before the two societies, traced the history of the use of the roentgen ray in warfare. The earliest use, he said, was made by the Italians, under German tutelage, in an African campaign in 1896, just a few months after the discovery of the ray.

J. E. CALDWELL DIES; FINANCIAL FIGURE IN SOUTH

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 26 [Special].—James E. Caldwell, 90, who played an important part in the financial development of the south after the Civil war, died today at his home here.

He was the father of the spectacular financier, Rogers Caldwell, who after World War I. built up numerous banking, publishing, and industrial enterprises that crashed in 1930.

Caldwell was born in Memphis in 1854. His family was impoverished by the Civil war and he went to work at 16 as a bookkeeper in a grocery store at $40 a month. An early investment in an insurance company was successful and he followed this with the building of a portion of the Nashville street railway system. In 1890, he took over the Cumberland Telephone company and expanded it to cover Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, and the southern portions of Indiana and Illinois.

As a banker he organized the First and Fourth National bank of Nashville, which was merged in 1930 with the American National bank.

KEENAN DENIES OFFER OF $110,000 IN FIGHT ON NYE

New Dealer Attacks Vet's Testimony.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Joseph B. Keenan, New Deal congressional contact man and former first assistant attorney general, told the senate elections committee today that he had urged the candidacy of a war veteran against Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] but denied that he had offered to finance a veteran's campaign as charged recently by Nye.

Keenan appeared before the committee as a result of Nye's charges made in a senate speech two weeks ago, that Keenan had offered to raise $110,000 to support a veteran against Nye in the recent three cornered Republican senatorial primary in North Dakota, which Nye won.

Nye asserted the offer was made by Keenan at a meeting of North Dakota disabled war veterans and Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] in Washington a year ago. Langer denied Nye's charges in a senate speech last week, but admitted he had suggested raising a $10,000 fund in North Dakota.

Keenan Denies Offer.

Keenan's testimony today followed the line of Langer's speech. He recalled that Langer had discussed a $10,000 fund in North Dakota if Fay De Witt, one of the veterans at the meeting, would run against Nye. Keenan denied he had said he could promise $100,000 additional, as charged by Nye.

Nye supported his charges in the senate with a transcript of sworn testimony given the elections committee last June by Neal Williams, Fargo, N. D., a veteran, and by affidavits made by Williams, De Witt, and other veterans at the meeting.

In a letter written last week to Sen. Green [D., R. I.], chairman of the elections committee, and released by Green today, Keenan attacked Williams' testimony as not to be taken seriously.

Cites Mental Trouble.

"I had heard," wrote Keenan, "of the testimony given before your committee by an individual by the name of Williams but I had not taken it seriously in view of the nature of the meeting [of the veterans] and the further fact that I understood he had been confined to a sanitarium because of a nervous or mental trouble."

Williams was wounded and shell-shocked in World War I., but now is a special assistant attorney general of the state of North Dakota and traffic commissioner of the Fargo Chamber of Commerce. He is recognized as an authority on freight rates and has practiced before the interstate commerce commission for 20 years. An ICC official said today that Williams was "highly regarded" by the ICC.

PAUL FLANDERS, COMMANDER IN U. S. NAVY, DEAD

Comdr. Paul Flanders, Chicago born authority on naval mine warfare, died in Washington, D. C., Sept. 21, the navy has informed his widow, Grace J. of Carmel, Cal.

[ADVERTISMENT]
MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BANKER GRUSIN'S WILL DISPUTED IN SUIT BY SON

Charges of Nathan F. Grusin, 425 Maple st., Oak Park, that a will executed by his father, the late Michael Grusin, investment banker, had been destroyed illegally and a second will less favorable to him substituted, were reported to be under investigation yesterday by the grand jury.

Grusin's attorney, Thomas McBride, said the son was left all stock in his father's company, the Grusin Investment company, 105 Madison st., in the first will, and that the second document divided the elder Grusin's entire $130,000 estate, including the stock, valued at $25,000, among Grusin and his two sisters. In the first will the three shared equally in the estate except for the company stock.

McBride said the torn will was found in a desk in the company's office, was pasted together, and has been offered for probate. The second will, which bears a later date, purports to revoke all previous testaments. The elder Grusin died last July 7. Both wills are in Probate court, where a decision is expected Oct. 2.

MRS. MARY DICK DIES IN HOME AT LAKE FOREST

Mrs. Mary Henrietta Dick, 78, of 870 N. Deerpath, Lake Forest, widow of Albert Blake Dick, Chicago manufacturer and inventor of the mimeograph machine, died yesterday in her home. She had lived in Lake Forest for 48 years.

She was a member of the women's auxiliary board of Presbyterian hospital and a member of the Allendale board at Lake Villa. She contributed to the Lake Forest hospital the ground on which the building stands.

Mrs. Dick is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Swan of Guilford, Conn., and by four sons, Albert Blake Dick Jr., former mayor of Lake Forest and president of the A. B. Dick company, 720 W. Jackson blvd.; Charles Mathews Dick and Sheldon Dick of New York, and Lt. Comdr. Edison Dick.

Services will be held at 3 p. m. today in the home with Dr. W. Oliver Brackett, pastor of Lake Forest Presbyterian church, officiating.

APPROVE ASKING BIDS FOR NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT

Public Works Commissioner Hewitt, who heads the city's bureau of central purchasing, yesterday approved a fire department request to advertise for bids calling for the purchase of four new pieces of fire equipment.

The equipment sought by Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan consists of two pumping engines each capable of pumping 1,000 gallons of water a minute and two 85 foot self raising aerial ladder trucks.

The equipment, when purchased at an estimated cost of $70,000, will replace obsolete units now in the city's service.

For Memorial Services have your flowers sent to the homes of the bereaved.

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON.

The North American Series of the BBC from London includes the following programs today. The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.52, 6.11, 7.26, 9.51; 4:30 p. m.—Front Line Family; 4:45 p. m.—News; 6:30 p. m.—Radio Newsreel; 7:00 p. m.—Bridge Builders; 8:30 p. m.—Radio Theater; 11:30 p. m.—News reports.

ARMY RELEASES 1,000,000 TUBES TO EASE SHORTAGE

While the shortage in radio tubes never has been more critical than today, some alleviation is in prospect. Radio manufacturers were notified yesterday that 1 million tubes, declared surplus by the government, will be turned back at once to manufacturers. It is expected that within a month these will be reaching the civilian market. Meanwhile, such scarce tubes as the 12SA7 and the 12A8, with ceilings of respectively $1.25 and 95 cents, are reported to be commanding as much as $10 each in black markets.

The tubes to be returned thru the war surplus administration will be distributed among manufacturers on a pro rata basis by type. The manufacturers will test the tubes, place them in standard cartons, and distribute them to their regular customers "on an equitable basis," it was announced. A million tubes will not make any appreciable dent in the demand. Production and distribution of tubes thru regular channels in July totaled 1,754,000, only a fraction of the demand.

The only prospect of real relief, it was said, lies in the capitulation of Germany. Demands for radio and communications equipment have reached an all-time peak because of the activity on all war fronts, a spokesman for the industry said. The collapse of Germany would insure cut-backs and greater civilian production.

RADIO STATION WSBC SOLD TO MEET FCC EDICT

Sale of WSBC, Chicago, a 250 watt radio station operating on 240 kilocycles, to Mr. and Mrs. Julius Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Miller, and Arnold B. Miller, a partnership, was authorized by the federal communications commission yesterday. Purchase price of the station, situated at 2400 Madison st., was announced as $100,000.

The station was sold by Gene T. Dyer, owner and president, under a ruling by the FCC forbiding dual or triple ownership of stations in the same market area by any one interest. Dyer also owns two other Chicago radio stations, WGES and WAIT.

Oscar Miller, son of Julius and brother of Arnold, has been program manager of WGES, but will resign this position to become manager of WSBC, Dyer said.

W-G-N Will Rebroadcast Dewey's Speech Tonight

Herbert Brownell Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee, announced last night that, because of an avalanche of requests pouring into headquarters, Gov. Dewey's speech given at Oklahoma City Monday night would be rebroadcast over W-G-N and the entire Mutual Broadcasting system from 9 to 9:30 o'clock tonight.

JEFFERS HOLDS PAC IS FOE OF LABOR UNIONS

Rail Suit Attacks ICC, He Says.

William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, yesterday denounced as un-American Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee and warned that the government's anti-trust suit against the railroads actually is directed at the interstate commerce commission. He spoke before the American Bankers association in the Stevens hotel.

Jeffers said that he carried a union card thruout the years he was working toward the presidency of the Union Pacific and that he still carries it.

"I was a union man before the un-American element, now dominating segments of American labor, was born," he declared. "The railroad brotherhoods know how and where I stand. I always have been strong for labor unions headed by right thinking American leaders.

"But no political action committee is going to tell me or any other upheaded American how he is going to vote or what is going to think.

Veterans to Ask Betterment.

"If the sorry day should ever come when nefarious schemes like this succeed, then on that day the disintegration of American labor unions starts and democracy begins to crumble."

When American fighting men return victorious, they will insist that the country they return to will be better than the one they left, Jeffers continued. Referring directly to the PAC he added:

"It may go hard with any individual or group who attempts to herd them into a civil nonthinking regiment or attempts to stamp them in a common mold. These boys have been trained to do a job which requires thinking and acting for themselves. Thinking right and acting quickly means the difference between life and death. Those returning will be very much alive in more ways than one."

Jeffers reviewed the measures taken by the rails to meet war time transportation demands, and said their reward was the federal suit, charging that the railroads have violated provisions of an ICC ruling that eliminated wasteful duplication of service.

Western Roads Pioneered.

In the years immediately following the ruling, Jeffers continued, it was the western railroads that pioneered in streamlined trains and low cost transportation. Nevertheless, the suit is directed primarily at western railroads.

"The suit was brought in the west," said Jeffers, "in Lincoln, Neb., the home town of Wendell Berge, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, probably to give him a chance to visit the home folks. The south has been pretty noisy in its advocacy of adjustment of railroad rates. The west has been quite content.

"But a campaign is on. Political fences in the west have to be rebuilt. Political fences in the south are thought to be in a better state of repair. So the suit was brought in the west."

The truth of the alleged violation, said Jeffers, is that, with the depression temporarily bridged and with unprecedented war demands changing everything, the ICC ruling-agreement no longer applied and was terminated.

Appealing to the bankers to aid small business after the war, Jeffers stated that in many parts of the country post-war planners have dreams of enticing large established business institutions into new locations. Success would mean a windfall to the lucky communities.

Little Business Must Be Helped.

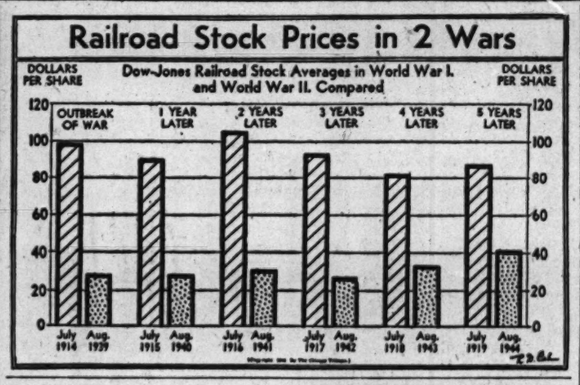
"But the mirage of big business on the dreamy horizon," he said, "must not blind these communities to the successful, expanding little businesses now within their grasp. After the war, new business—young business—will grow up and be worth nurturing. It is this business that must be supported by private capital—the banks.

"There will be another Walter Chrysler and Henry Ford hidden in the small offices of the little workshops. Find them. That is the way of the America of opportunity that has been lost in the crystal maze of regimentation."

Egg Futures Prices Dip ½ to 1 Cent; Potatoes Rise

Refrigerator shell egg futures prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday declined ½ to 1.05 cents a dozen. The October futures, in which 29 contracts were traded, showed the largest drop. November potato futures gained 4 cents at $3.25 a hundredweight, a new high for the season.

Railroad Stock Prices in 2 Wars



End U.S. Loan Aid After War, Banker Urges

Government guaranteed loans have no place in the permanent peace time credit structure because they involve the socialization of credit losses and may lead to the destruction of private credit, A. L. M. Wiggins, retiring president, told the American Bankers' association yesterday at its annual convention in the Stevens hotel.

A. L. M. Wiggins.

Wiggins, president of the Bank of Hartsville, S. C., also asserted that government subsidies or bounties are distasteful to farmers, and that the public will insist after the war on a reduction instead of an expansion of the national debt. He said government backed loans could be described as a reasonable war measure, but they were a dangerous device if employed in normal times.

Borrower, Lender Intrigued.

"Already we are confronted with numerous proposals to carry over the principle of the guaranteed loans into the post-reconversion period, making it a permanent part of our credit system," he said. "Borrowers have been intrigued with the ease with which they could obtain such credits and of the low cost. Lenders have enjoyed a moderate return upon a practically riskless operation.

"This socialization of credit to business is far more dangerous than socialized credit to home owners or small farmers. It means, in effect, the financing of incompetent men and impossible business operations that will compete with well run businesses that pay their own way, including taxes. The one competitor that a well run business cannot stand against is the business that does not make ends meet and takes its losses out of its creditors. It is unthinkable that tax paying business in this country should be called upon to subsidize thru government credit that kind of competition."

OPPOSE CREDIT CONTROL

The Mortgage Bankers Association of America will oppose government control of credit as a direct lending agency, E. L. Mahan, vice president of the association, last night told a meeting of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association in the Stevens hotel. The association is working to obtain markets for mortgage loans, and interest rates which will keep private funds flowing into such investments, he said.

H. G. Woodruff, president of the national association, said mortgage bankers should prepare for participation in the large lending which will develop under the service men's readjustment act of 1944. Volume of loans to veterans may reach 25 billion dollars, he said.

CIO ELECTRICAL UNION REPEATS NO STRIKE VOW

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, the third largest CIO union, today reaffirmed its "unconditional and unqualified" no strike pledge. Four of the 747 voting delegates at the convention dissented. The union claims a membership of 700,000, with 160,000 in military service and 1,500 among the war dead.

"Disrupters, opportunists and outright enemies of the nation who are attempting to provoke and confuse the workers of the nation to revoke and modify or qualify their policy of uninterrupted production must be answered by our reëmphasizing and repeating the no-strike policy," the resolution declared.

Fountain Pen Output Limits Lifted by WPB

LIFE INSURANCE LOAN TOTAL SETS 15 YEAR LOW AT 2.1 BILLIONS

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Life insurance policy loans outstanding at midyear totaled approximately 2 billion 100 million dollars, the lowest in 15 years, the Institute of Life Insurance announced today.

Policy loans reflect the general tone of business and family financial conditions with low loan points during periods of relative prosperity, the Institute said. Loans reached a peak of 3 billion 800 million in 1932.

Death benefit payments so far this year are 18 per cent higher than in the same period of 1941, with a decline in civilian mortality offset by an increase in deaths among policyholders in military service, Institute figures showed.

Packers Tell Difficulties in Rules of OPA

O. E. Jones, vice president in charge of sales and advertising for Swift & Co., testified before Federal District Judge Barnes yesterday on the difficulties a meat packer faces in keeping up with office of price administration regulations, not to mention complying with them.

After Judge Barnes had denied a motion to dismiss the OPA injunction suit charging that the country's four largest meat packers sold pork butts and loins with fat in excess of the half inch permitted by OPA, Jones took the stand as second witness for the defense.

Meetings Held Almost Daily.

Under questioning by Atty. Edward R. Johnston, representing Swift, Jones said that when the OPA regulations began, he held almost daily meetings to interpret them to his staff. In addition, bulletins were sent out to 282 branch offices and 52 plants, and a special department was organized to handle the work.

Since August, 1942, 197 price and distribution regulations have been issued, he asserted. They have been rewritten 54 times, and more than 200 amendments have been made.

"It caused us to send out 12,000 to 15,000 bulletins to our branch offices and plants," he said.

Judge Barnes denied the motion to dismiss the suit as Atty. Johnson was explaining that the regulation was not intended to cover every portion of a pork loin or butt, especially in those areas which contain a large layer of fat under any condition.

Tells Swift's Own Regulations.

The first witness for the defendants, who are Swift, Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing company, was Harry H. McKee, assistant general superintendent of Swift. He said Swift has had regulations permiting only one-fourth inch of fat on pork butts and loins since 1909. The company increased this to one-half inch when the OPA ruling went into effect, but since has returned to the one-fourth inch limit, he said.

Remington Rand to Call 84,932 Preferred Shares

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—Directors of Remington-Rand voted today to retire 84,932 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred stock 30 days in advance of its dividend payment date next Jan. 1. The company said preferred dividend requirements would be cut $382,118 a year, equal to about 20 cents a share on common stock. After the retirement, 100,000 shares of preferred will be outstanding.

Wage Freeze Is Fraud, AFL Chiefs Testify

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—The wage freeze imposed by President Roosevelt constitutes a "fraud on the nation's workers" and unless wages are adjusted "strikes, strife, and economic chaos" will result during reconversion, American Federation of Labor spokesmen told the war labor board today.

George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer; Matthew Woll, vice president, who are WLB members, and John P. Frey, metal trades department president, appeared before the board to supplement with oral pleas the report of a fact finding panel which recently recommended modification of the wage freeze. Spokesman for the Congress of Industrial Organizations tomorrow will present their demands for junking of the Little Steel formula, which limits wage increases to 15 per cent of wages paid Jan. 1, 1941.

Labor Board Ignored.

Meany told the board that his organization realized that when wages were frozen by executive order the board was not consulted or asked for advice.

"However, we believe that the tremendous importance of this question calls for board action now," he said. "We cannot afford to wait until we are suddenly thrown into the post-war period to decide what to do about wages. Unless we act before victory has been achieved, the question of wages in the vital reconversion period will be left to be decided by the economic forces involved. Strikes, strife, and economic chaos will result."

"Basis for Depression."

Meany said the wage freeze policy not only constituted a fraud on the workers on the home front, but also on "the soldiers and sailors who expect to return to standards of living at least as high as those they left behind when they went off to fight." He said labor is convinced that the frozen wage structure "constitutes a firm basis for a major depression immediately after the end of the war."

Woll told the board the lowest unemployment the United States may expect will be about 4 million if everything possible is done to speed reconversion of industries and that with poor management unemployment may rise to 8 million.

Frey insisted that government agencies have taken a "calculated and most unfair advantage of labor's no-strike pledge."

BANKING GROUP GETS 13 MILLIONS ERIE RAIL BONDS

The Erie railroad yesterday awarded, after competitive bidding, 13 million dollars of its first consolidated 3¼ per cent mortgage E bonds of 1964 to a group headed by First Boston corporation. Proceeds will be used to help Erie retire $7,430,000 of Long Dock company 3¾ per cent bonds due 1950, and $5,955,000 of first consolidated 4 per cent mortgage C bonds of 1957.

Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago, and St. Louis railroad asked interstate commerce commission authority to issue $23,735,000 of general mortgage series E bonds, and the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad asked permission to issue 11 million dollars of general and refunding mortgage series C's.

The American Tobacco company is considering issuing 100 million dollars of debentures thru a syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., to provide funds to meet expected purchases of leaf tobacco.

MORE PIGS SOLD, BUT PRICES HOLD FIRM AT CEILING

The hog market held firm with ceiling prices paid for almost all receipts in Chicago yesterday, despite a larger movement of spring pigs. The increase was moderate, but receipts yesterday and Monday were the largest for a similar period in five weeks and 5 per cent above the low of two weeks ago. However, the two day total was 28 per cent lower than a year ago.

Prices for cattle were mixed. Top grades of steers selling above $18 and the plainest classes selling at $14 and below were firm, but others sold weak to 25 cents lower. Lambs sold steady.

WFA PROMISES ORDERLY SALES OF FOOD STOCK

Large Beef Output Predicted in 1945.

The government faces a big job in disposing of its record food stocks after the war, but is determined to carry thru this disposal in an orderly manner, and to the "greatest advantage to farmers, the trade, and the general public," Lee Marshall, director of distribution for the war food administration, said yesterday.

Lee Marshall.

Addressing the annual meeting of the American Meat institute in the Drake hotel, Marshall said the WFA was buying no more food than necessary to meet predictable demands.

Peak Beef Output Predicted.

Charles A. Burmeister of the WFA office of production predicted that total beef output next year probably will set a new record of 11 billion pounds, 25 per cent above the five year pre-war average; that the supply of sheep by the first of next year will be the smallest since 1929, and that about 79 million hogs will be slaughtered in the next 12 months, compared with the indicated total this year of 88 millions.

H. E. Reed, chairman of the war meat board, predicted that civilians may get a better break on meat in the last six months of this year than the official allocation, at the annual rate of 130 pounds per person. Because federal agencies never have purchased the full amounts allocated to them, he said "our guess" is that actual consumption will be near a 140 pound rate.

Marshall said the government planned to use available lend-lease and military stocks for post-war relief feeding before reserving or buying additional food for that purpose.

Reserves Termed Necessary.

"We must maintain specified war reserves no matter how favorable the war may be going, but I, for one, don't think it necessary to build a separate stock pile of the same foods for post-war relief feeding," he said.

The largest problem will be in adjusting agricultural production to demands after war ends in both Europe and the Pacific, he asserted. He listed principles governing

New 'Attack' Assailed

Complete disruption of futures trading in agricultural commodities threatens if the administration insists on offering to buy such commodities at full parity prices, and the office of price administration retains these 100 per cent parity prices as its ceilings, Maurice Mandeville, president of the National Association of Commodity Exchanges and Allied Trades, warned yesterday at a meeting of resident directors.

"In view of the recent statements of the war food administration that industry could count on a rapid relaxation of regulatory restrictions immediately after the shooting stops in Europe, the announcement of this fresh attack on futures trading in agricultural commodities is a serious challenge to the American system of free enterprise," Mandeville charged.

Weakens Marketing Machinery.

He said it was "incredible" that the move should come at a time when the end of the war in Europe appears imminent. He predicted that the action would weaken seriously the country's agricultural marketing machinery at a time when, with the approach of the end of the war, far reaching investments will become necessary.

"Past experience, time and again, has shown that adjustments in production cannot be accomplished unless prices are allowed to function normally," he said. "Reliance on outright price fixing will retard rather than speed the correction of the maladjustments between supply and demand that will confront us and the rest of the world at the end of the war."

Hedging Facilities Needed.

If a price equalling 100 per cent of parity need be paid the farmer to give him fair return for his labor, then ceiling prices for those crops should be enough higher to give sufficient latitude to adjust supply and demand, Mandeville said.

He warned that "what is being done in cotton and wheat today may easily be done tomorrow in corn and rye, thus disrupting the futures markets and depriving trade circles of all hedging facilities, at a time when the existence of orderly futures markets for such purposes would be of the greatest importance to the commodity trades as well as to the economy as a whole."

Grain Prices Lower

Grain markets on the Chicago Board of Trade which on Monday closed 5 cents a bushel higher, the maximum permitted in one day's trading, yesterday reversed their action. December and May corn broke 5 cents at the opening, but recovered some of this early loss. Altho active wheat futures were up ⅞ to 1⅛ cents early, that market weakened and closed ⅝ to 2⅝ cents lower, July leading. Corn was off 2⅝ to 3⅜ cents and oats 2¼ to 3⅛ cents. Rye was down 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents and barley 2¼ to 2¾ cents.

Failure of the war food administration to include feed grains and rye in the parity price program announced Saturday helped the decline. Brokers after analyzing the wheat program, decided it was not as bullish as they at first believed.

Held Political Boomerang.

The belated WFA announcement that it would pay farmers the parity price, less storage charges, for unredeemed 1944 wheat under government loan on May 1, 1945, may prove to be a political boomerang, brokers said, because congress passed a bill in June making it mandatory for the government to use every facility to obtain parity prices for farm products. But such action was not taken until Saturday and was applied only to wheat and cotton.

In the meantime it is estimated more than 300 million bushels of 1944 crop wheat have been sold by farmers, of which the Commodity Credit corporation bought an estimated 75 million bushels at 1 cent less than the government loan, paying $1.49 in Kansas City and $1.52 in Minneapolis.

Cash Corn Sales Large.

High protein cash wheat in the northwest and southwest has been selling at office of price administration ceiling prices for some time and brokers said farmers by selling such grain now can obtain the highest possible price and avoid storage and other charges incidental to government loans.

More than 1 million bushels of cash corn were sold by farmers Monday and yesterday, and so much grain was offered at the ceiling price of $1.16 a bushel for No. 2 yellow, net track Chicago, that buyers reduced their bids to $1.13½@1.14½. This halted new business.

Authorize Rock Island Buying of Choctaw Bonds

Federal Judge Igoe yesterday authorized trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway to purchase Choctaw and Memphis railroad first mortgage bonds at the most favorable prices possible not exceeding $1,450 per thousand dollar bond. The price is to include broker's fees and commissions and unpaid interest.

War Costs Since July 1 Billion Above Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26 (AP).—United States war costs for the current fiscal year which began July 1 passed 20 billion dollars on Sept. 23, the daily treasury statement showed today. The figure of $20,091,192,720 is more than a billion higher than the $19,076,051,240 war costs in the corresponding period for the last fiscal year. Last year the 20 billion mark was not passed until Sept. 28.

NEW TAX PLAN CURBS DOUBLE LEVY ON PROFIT

Dividend Recipient Gets a Credit.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A plan to lessen double taxation of corporation income without inviting reënactment of the undistributed earnings tax was offered yesterday by George Barnes, Chicago tax man and partner of the securities firm of Wayne Hummer & Co.

Barnes proposed enactment of a standard tax on corporation income of 15 to 23 per cent, the rate depending on revenue needs, but not to exceed the first bracket combined individual income tax rates. As a companion levy he suggested a single corporate surtax rate equal to the first bracket surtax rate for individuals [now 20 per cent].

Effect of Withholding Levy.

Individual stockholders under the plan would get a credit in their personal tax returns for the surtax paid by the corporation on dividends distributed. This would eliminate double taxation of dividends except for the standard "franchise" tax. The corporate surtax would in effect amount to a withholding levy on income paid in dividends.

These two corporation taxes would replace all existing levies on corporations. They would substitute for the existing normal and surtaxes on corporation earnings; the declared value excess profits tax; the 2 per cent penalty for filing consolidated corporate returns, and the requirement that corporations include in gross income 15 per cent of dividend income from other domestic corporations. The war-time excess profits tax would be repealed within 12 months of the war's end or sooner if possible under Barnes' program.

Barnes outlined his plan in an article in Exchange, monthly publication of the New York Stock exchange, to be released today.

Seeks to Meet Criticism.

The proposals are intended to meet the problem of double taxation of corporation dividends and at the same time meet the criticism directed at other proposed solutions by Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee and others.

The complete elimination of taxes on corporation earnings would result in a stampede to incorporate thousands of business enterprises now unincorporated, Barnes said. This, in turn, would bring demands

BILLIONS OF SAVINGS

How will they be used?

• Total savings of the American people were never higher than now—around 130 billion dollars on June 30, according to government statistics. Of this, about 46 billion is in government securities and much of it will remain in this best of all investments.

• There is every prospect that a large portion of the 84 billion which is in cash and deposits will be going to work again soon. Some will go into new businesses, loans for industry and agriculture, for purchases of homes and consumer items unavailable in wartime and, in addition, for further purchases of government bonds and other investment securities.

• A large amount will seek sound common stocks for investment because of their satisfactory return and because, by owning them, investors can participate to the greatest extent in postwar expansion.

• The forward-looking investor should give careful consideration to common stocks now. Any information about them or any other type of investment security will be gladly furnished without obligation.

WPB IS EXPECTED TO EASE CURB ON MEN'S CLOTHING

Accepts Industry Ideas, Trade Sources Hear.

The war production board is expected to remove soon certain restrictions on the manufacture of men's clothing in accordance with recommendation made last week in Washington by an industry advisory committee, Chicago trade sources reported yesterday.

Not recommended was the lifting of the ban on two pants suits and on vests with double breasted suits.

Meyer Kestnbaum, president of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, said the committee asked WPB to remove all limitations that would not involve a substantial change in pricing. Such changes would have only minor price effects that most manufacturers could absorb without difficulties.

Pleats, Full Cuffs Sought.

Recommendations included return of pleats for trousers and elimination of specified lengths for inseams which make it impossible for some men to get full cuffs—or any cuffs—on their pants.

Also eliminated would be style restrictions on topcoats and overcoats, including specifications for sleeve cuffs, overall lengths, belts, and circumferences at the base of the coats.

The shortage of textile mill labor and of cotton and rayon for linings precludes the return of two pants suits and vests for double breasted suits, said Kestnbaum. Also, he contended, their return should be accompanied by certain upward price adjustments.

Differ on Extent of Change.

Most trade sources believe that all limitations, except those on the two pants suits and vests, will be lifted in the expected WPB action. However, one source reported rumors to the effect that only the pleat and trouser inseam limitations would be removed.

More optimistic trade predictions were that on VE [victory Europe] day all curbs would be removed.

"However, higher cost to the consumer will probably result," said one spokesman, "as the addition of an extra pair of pants or a vest will involve increased costs to the manufacturer."

GRAIN ELEVATOR REGULATION BY STATE ARGUED

Oral arguments were begun yesterday before the Illinois commerce commission on two motions to dismiss a petition asking commission regulaton of 11 elevator companies alleged to have coöperated with the Chicago Board of Trade in irregular practices harmful to the public and to the grain trade. The Board of Trade also is a defendant.

Ferre C. Watkins, attorney for two state licensed companies, argued in one motion that under commission rules a formal complaint must be made containing a clear and concise statement of violations, which he said the petition did not do.

As representative for four federally licensed defendants, Watkins and Leo Tierney, counsel for two others, moved to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction. Tierney quoted an amendment to the United States warehouse act under which jurisdiction and authority over warehouses were given exclusively to the secretary of agriculture.

Atty. Lee A. Freeman, representing Daniel F. Rice & Co., complaining broker, argued against the first motion, saying more definite charges are not necessary because the hearing is informal.

STOCK PRICES MIXED IN REDUCED TRADING; SOME FAVORITES UP

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The stock market closed irregular today. Some favorites maintained moderate advances, but many leaders followed the reversal of yesterday's upswing in commodities.

Little was discovered in the news that might have halted the advance, and observers did not overlook that the slowdown was accompanied by dwindling trading activity. The limited buying again was based largely on political optimism and belief that reconversion difficulties would wane as a depressant if the European war lasts longer than recently predicted. Conservatives, however, were inclined to hold aloof from the market or cash in on recent profits.

Near the close Chicago and North Western pushed up 1½. Transfers of 601,952 shares compared with 792,590 yesterday.

BONDS ARE STEADY.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The bond market managed to hold a relatively steady undertone today, but encountered some selling. The rails were affected by profit taking in issues which participated in the modest rally yesterday. Others came thru with good gains, however, especially where news developments were favorable.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Prices were higher in turnover of 24,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 102 issues traded, 48 advanced, 29 declined, and 25 remained unchanged. Volume leaders included Middle West corporation and Electric Household Utilities, each up ⅛, and Chicago corporation and Libby, both unchanged.

DROP ON SECURITY PLAN.

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP).—Industrial insurance shares tumbled on the stock exchange today with announcement of the government's far reaching social security plan. The threatened government "freeze-out" of approved insurance companies and societies under the new plan knocked down Prudential "A" $11.54 a share to $89.44 and drove Pearl off $6 to $53.26. London and Manchester declined $2.50 to $56.25.

People and Events

Alex D. Bailey.

Alex D. Bailey, vice president in charge of operations and engineering of the Commonwealth Edison company, has been elected president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the society announced last night. Bailey, who will take office in November at the organization's annual meeting in New York, succeeds Robert M. Gates of that city.

Charles H. Eaton has been appointed general sales manager for Wilson Brothers, national men's wear firm, Harold Mittelstadt, president, announced. Eaton formerly was Chicago regional director of sales for Butler Brothers.

Brig. Gen. Thomas B. Wilson will be placed on inactive status by the army in November and he will return to his duties as chairman of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., Jack Frye, president, announced yesterday. Gen. Wilson has completed almost three years of foreign service and has served under Lt. Gen. Stilwell and Gen. MacArthur,

Carl F. Kuehnle, president of the Central National Bank in Chicago, will discuss the value of community banking tomorrow at a meeting of the Albany Park Chamber of Commerce in the Albany Park Vault building, Frank Sampson, chamber president, announced.

WFA PROMISES ORDERLY SALES OF FOOD STOCK

Large Output of Beef Predicted in 1945.

WFA sales of surpluses as follows:

1. WFA is "feeding" to markets just what they can absorb without creating selling problems.

2. All sales will be made public, with WFA selling only thru normal trade channels.

Marshall said no rigid plan of reselling had been developed and that none would be adopted. However, he said salable goods would be offered first to companies which sold the government the products, with others in the same business getting second chance to buy. Any goods remaining would be offered to others in the food business.

Doubts Early Meat Surplus.

"Some of our stocks, meaning military as well as lend-lease, will be needed for relief and rehabilitation purposes," he said. "So far as meats are concerned, for instance, it is doubtful whether there will be any surplus when Germany falls. In the immediate future, the emphasis on meats will be on buying, rather than selling.

"The government can reduce the size of food stocks which will be carried over into the post-war period by buying no more than necessary and by selling now whatever food can be spared from working inventories. As soon as supplies permit rationing can be removed from more foods."

John J. Madigan, assistant director of the office of price administration food price division, said the food industry will be one of the first removed from price control. He explained that basic production has been maintained at a high level, and there are few reconversion problems and little latent demand as in other fields.

Predicts More Pressure.

Asserting that the future of price control for live stock and meats is closely related to the whole question of price control during reconversion, he said:

"Price control will be under increasing pressure as we approach the end of the shooting. It would be a national tragedy to lose control of prices prior to the time that we have clear indications that the forces of supply and demand are sufficiently in balance to give us a reasonably stable price structure."

Liberty Aircraft Products Votes Stock Split, 2 for 1

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Stockholders of Liberty Aircraft Products corporation have voted to split the present common stock two for one, issue 80,000 shares of new $1.25 preferred and 160,000 shares of common to be reserved for conversion of the preferred, it was announced today.

NEW CORPORATE TAX PLAN CURBS DOUBLE LEVIES

for revival of the undistributed earnings tax which was in effect in 1936 and 1937.

"Nothing would encourage monopolies in this country more than a tax on undistributed profits—a tax which would favor a strong corporation as against a weak one; an old established company as opposed to a young enterprise requiring all its earnings in the business until it is well established," Barnes said.

Unlike the program for tax reform proposed by the Twin Cities group of business men, the Barnes plan provides for lower tax rates on corporation earnings. At the same time it would gear the corporate rates closely to individual income tax rates. However, instead of the virtual tax exemption proposed for corporations by the committee on economic development, the Barnes plan retains the basic corporation income tax and gives individuals exemption only for the surtax paid by corporations on earnings paid out in dividends.

Holds Corporate Tax Necessary.

"Some form of tax must be levied on corporations in order that the corporate form of doing business will not be used to escape individual income taxes." Barnes said. "This is important. Other plans, including the recent post-war proposal of the committee on economic development which treats the normal tax as a withholding tax, virtually eliminate corporate taxes and would of necessity, be replaced sooner or later with an undistributed profits tax or something far worse, in order to prevent tax avoidance."

The plan for tax revision proposed by Beardsley Ruml included a levy on undistributed earnings of corporations. This week Rep. Doughton [D., S. C.] asserted that no plan eliminating corporation income taxes could be inacted without an undistributed profits levy.

HUMBLE OIL.

Please send information on Humble Oil and Refining company dividends and related data.—E. L.

Humble Oil is one of the most important subsidiaries of Standard Oil company [New Jersey], which owns nearly 72 per cent of its 17,975,680 no par shares of capital stock. Altho Humble's proven petroleum reserves are not a matter of public information, they are considered among the most extensive in the industry. Net crude production increased from 46.3 million barrels in 1938 to 86.3 million in 1943.

The company's oil and gas lands are chiefly in Texas, Louisiana, and New Mexico. Its operations cover all phases of the industry, and during the war have included increasing production of aviation gasoline, toluene, and synthetic rubber ingredients.

As adjusted to reflect a two for one split of the stock late in 1943, dividends for that year totaled $1.25 a share. In each of the six years ended with 1942 the equivalent of $1 a share on the present stock was paid. So far in 1944 three quarterly dividends of 37½ cents each have been paid. Cash payments have been made, at varying rates, each year since 1918.

Earnings in 1943 were equal to $2.54 a share. For earlier years as adjusted for the stock split they were: 1942, $1.63; 1941, $1.97; 1940, $1.57; 1939, $1.67. Long term debt at the close of 1943 totaled $53,533,744. Net working capital exceeded 70 million dollars.

TRUCK NO. 589 IRKS COUNCIL

FINANCE BODY

Query: Why Didn't City Garage Repair It?

Between encounters with garbage truck No. 589, which upset the meeting a few times, the city council committee on finance yesterday approved expenditures for street improvements, police bullets and gummed envelopes for the city clerk.

No. 589, which belongs in the 25th ward, appeared almost as soon as Ald. Bowler, also of the 25th and chairman of the committee, called the members to order. The street department requested authority to pay a bill of $1,500 for repairing No. 589, which was damaged in an accident on Aug. 18 and taken to the Heil company in Milwaukee, Wis., for reconstruction. The truck was damaged most seriously in its conveyor system.

What of City Garage?

"What," shouted Ald. Bowler, leading protests against the bill, "is this? We have a repair garage at 2322 S. Ashland av. which costs the city $150,000 a year, but they must send garbage trucks to Milwaukee. Are they all chair warmers at the city garage?"

The No. 589 repair bill was given to a subcommittee headed by Ald. Hartnett [12th] for consideration, and the committee proceeded with other business.

Improvement of 87th st. between Baltimore and Burley avs., including a grade crossing over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, at a cost of $98,000, was recommended. Ald. Bohling [7th] and Rep. Rowan [D., 2d] urged the improvement. They said it will be especially useful to employes of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, who now have no crossing over the tracks between 83d and 90th sts. State motor fuel taxes will finance the work.

O. K. Lighting Issue.

The committee approved spending three million dollars thru a proposed bond issue, for street lighting; $786 for 300,000 envelopes; $2,583 for 120,000 police cartridges, and $1,895 for 10,000 pounds of rat poison. A request by Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, to buy 3,000 tons of prepared asphalt instead of 1,500 was referred to a subcommittee headed by Ald. Duffy [19th], who said he understood the street department has enough asphalt but not enough men to put it in holes.

Truck No. 589 reappeared in the form of a notice that $1,500 was not all it would take to put the vehicle back in action.

Sad Tale of No. 589.

Commissioner Johnston sadly informed the committee that after the accident No. 589 had been driven to Milwaukee without oil. The pistons expanded until they froze in the cylinders, and the Heil company estimated $450 would pay for new pistons, new cylinders and incidentals.

Ald. Bowler resumed his protests, which were quieted by Republican members.

"Nothing is being said," they remarked, "about whose fault it was that No. 589 was driven 80 or 90 miles without oil. It probably was driven by some Democrat."

JUDGES DELAY A DECISION ON PLEA BY NLRB

Judges Will M. Sparks and Otto Kerner of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reserved decision on a petition of the national labor relations board which asked for a temporary injunction restraining Servel, Inc., Evansville, Ind., from interfering with a collective bargaining election set for tomorrow. The board stopped an election among Servel employes Sept. 14 after nearly three-fourths of 5,500 eligibles had voted.

The labor board action was brought in behalf of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers and charges the refrigerator manufacturers, who have converted their plant to P-47 airplane wings and a dozen other war items, tried to influence the election by urging employes to vote against the CIO and by urging all employes to vote, even to the extent of taking time from their work.

Labor board attorneys contended the workers should not have been allowed to take time off from work to vote, altho the order for election only specifies hours for opening and closing of the polls, according to Isador Kahn, Evansville counsel for the company. The court said it wanted time to make a comprehensive study of the case before making a decision.

FETE VETERAN LAKE FOREST SCHOOL HEAD

A custom of 30 years will be carried on by Lake Forest school children today when they bring flowers to John E. Baggett, superintendent emeritus of Lake Forest public schools, as a birthday remembrance. He is 81 years old today.

The flowers will help decorate the John E. Baggett auditorium in Gorton school in the suburb, where Baggett will be special guest at a party to be given at 3 p. m. by the Lake Forest Teachers council. The birthday parties are attended by teachers and former teachers. Frederick F. Quinlan, the new superintendent, and Mrs. Quinlan will be among the guests today.
